Anti-Lynching Bill Splits Democratic Ranks

FOES PUT HOUSE INTO AN UPROAR OVER MEASURE

Southerners Assail It as Hostile.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—The house chamber echoed to the protesting roars of southern Democrats today after antilynching legislation was made the first order of business of the 1940 session by a 256 to 114 vote.

Representative Cox.

The bill, sponsored by Joseph A. Gavagan, Democratic representative of the Harlem district in New York City, would penalize state officials who are found guilty of neglect of duty in protecting persons from lynching or of failure to prosecute members of a lynching mob. The officials would be tried in a federal court and would be subject, upon conviction, to a maximum prison sentence of five years and a top fine of $5,000.

The measure was brought before the house under a discharge petition which was signed by a majority of members at the last session. The vote today was upon approval of a resolution taking the bill out of the rules committee and bringing it to the floor for consideration.

Democrats Are Split.

One hundred and forty-nine Republicans, 104 Democrats, 2 Progressives, and 1 American Labor member voted for the resolution. Opposed were 111 Democrats and 3 Republicans. The Democratic majority, therefore, was almost evenly split on the measure. In the past, the wounds caused by debate on the measure have taken months to heal and it appeared that this would again be the case.

The measure will be debated tomorrow and passage appears to be assured on Wednesday. The bill faces a filibuster in the senate if it reaches the floor there. The southern Democrats in the senate have been uniformly successful hitherto in blocking any action in that body, although the bill admittedly would be approved if a vote were made possible.

Vote Bargaining Charged.

Representative Eugene E. Cox [D., Ga.], led the opposition with a fiery speech.

"This is a miserably sorry bargaining away of the respect and integrity of the south for the Negro votes of the north," he told the house. "It is the Harlem district of New York exercising more influence with the party in power than the whole white south.

"This bill is the expression of a hostility—a senseless, venomous, ignorant, unreasoning hostility—that has existed in some quarters against the south for almost a century.

"It represents the combined will and scheming of a radical Negro group; the leftist who wants to remake America into a despotism like that of Stalinist Russia; the communist who seeks revolution and finds the Negro a willing tool; the simple idealist who is willing to try anything; the so-called centralist who believes in the concentration of power in Washington and the wiping out of every vestige of state sovereignty.

Motive Called Selfish.

"More perhaps than any of these, it represents the ruthless and self-seeking politician who would be perfectly willing to outrage the virtue of southern womanhood and to mongrelize a great party of his own nation as the price of securing the Negro vote for his own selfish and nefarious purposes."

Representative Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.], argued for the bill, declaring it was the duty of congress to enact it. He asked why the President "is so strangely silent on legislation aimed to provide for the security and safety of our own people?"

Representative J. Bayard Clark [D., N. C.] said that the south was solving the lynching problem itself.

3D TERM DRUMS BEATEN, BUT NOT BY PRESIDENT

It Is Topic at Most Jackson Day Fetes.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—While President Roosevelt twanged a nonpartisan lyre here tonight at the $100 a plate Jackson day dinner, two highly placed members of his administration at similar dinners elsewhere boomed him for nomination for a third term.

Neither in his speech nor in off the record remarks at the banquet board did the President give the slightest inkling of whether he does or does not intend to run for another term.

At the Jackson day dinner at Cleveland Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson, whom Mr. Roosevelt last week appointed attorney general, said that "it is inevitable that we should first turn to the one leader who has this loyalty and devotion in the humble homes of the nation whence cometh our help." He did not know what Mr. Roosevelt's answer will be, but he did know "what the rank and file of Democrats and of citizens generally hope it will be."

Hopes Decision Is Delayed.

Whatever may be his decision, Mr. Jackson hoped that the President would not disclose it at this time. "We don't want the greatest asset of the Democratic party put in hock," Jackson explained. He declared it highly important in the critical state of the world that Mr. Roosevelt remain a free man, wholly uncommitted politically. He likened Mr. Roosevelt to Lincoln, asserting "he is our Lincoln."

The President recently put young Jackson forward as a suitable candidate for Vice President if 69 year old Secretary of State Cordell Hull should be nominated for President.

McNutt Boosts Third Term.

At the Raleigh, N. C., Jackson day dinner Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt, who is the choice of the Democratic machine in Indiana for President, and who is geographically eligible to second place on the ticket with Mr. Roosevelt, gave the President a third term boost.

"No wonder the American people are reluctant to have the President relinquish his high office," said McNutt. "No wonder millions of the humbler members of society plead with him still to battle for their cause. What his decision will be he alone can say, but this I do know: the things for which Franklin D. Roosevelt has given his best must not be allowed to perish."

Wheeler Not Press Agented.

The speeches of the third term boosters and other administration speakers at Jackson day dinners were issued in advance by the Democratic national committee. In the these releases the speech Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] made at the $25 a plate Jackson day dinner in Denver was not included. Wheeler is a potential candidate himself.

While Senator Wheeler praised the monetary policy of the country and the accomplishments of "this administration under your great President," he did not refer to the topic of a third term for Mr. Roosevelt.

But in an interview given before the dinner, Senator Wheeler said that Mr. Roosevelt will not be the nominee and will be unable to dictate the nominee. The President, he said, would be a candidate only if America went into the war.

Farley Estimates Receipts.

Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley estimated that the Washington dinner yielded more than $100,000 for the party war chest and hoped that $400,000 would be forthcoming from the dinners in other cities.

Some Democrats were conspicuous for their absence. One was William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, who has fallen out with the Roosevelt administration over the administration of the labor relations act and is veering toward the Republican camp. Another was John L. Lewis, chief of the C. I. O., who is manifesting coolness toward a third term for Mr. Roosevelt.

Professor Goes to Mexico Just to Lose $4,500

The story of the swindling of a university professor, who obligingly carried $4,500 from Chicago to Mexico to turn it over to confidence men, was revealed yesterday.

A. A. Imus, postoffice inspector in charge of the Chicago area, made the story public. He refused to disclose the identity of the professor, other than to say he lived in or near Chicago. Imus said the educator was only one of scores of business and professional men who have been approached thru air mail letters sent out by the swindlers. It's a variation of what is known as the old Spanish prisoner game.

Promised Share of Fortune.

The bait on which the professor nibbled was in a letter from Puebla, capital of the state of Puebla, southeast of Mexico City. A paragraph read:

"I am in Prison sentenced to Bankruptcy and I want to know if you are willing to help me save a sum of $285,000 dollars which I have in Bank Bills inside of the secret part of a Trunk that is deposited in a custom house in The United States of America."

The professor was offered one-third of the $285,000 if he would pay expenses of settling the prisoner's case and recovering his baggage. He was instructed to communicate by air mail with a friend of the prisoner, "Senor Amado Paredes, Calle 3 Poniente No. 323 [323 West 3d street], Puebla."

Instead of writing a letter, the professor went to Puebla. He was met at a hotel by a man who appeared to be a uniformed prison guard.

Recalls Student from Mexico.

"One thing bothers me," said the professor. "I can't think who would be writing to me from down here. Of course, I once had a student from Mexico City——"

"His name, senor?"

The professor mentioned a name.

"That," said the guard, "is the very man who is in prison!"

The professor apparently was not at all amazed by this coincidence. He asked to see the prisoner. That, the guard said with a shrug, was impossible. Regulations.

But, said the guard, how could the professor lose? The prisoner had money in a Houston, Tex., bank. Prison authorities would not let him touch it. Here was his check, which the professor could cash.

Urged to Ask Confirmation.

The professor was urged to send telegrams asking confirmation of the story to a customs house in Laredo, Tex., and to a Houston bank. He sent them. An hour later a uniformed messenger [fake] delivered confirming messages [phony].

The professor handed over his $4,500.

On his way back to Chicago, where his share of the $285,000 was to be sent, the professor thought he'd stop at Houston and cash the prisoner's check. He walked into the bank and tendered the paper.

"You lose," said the teller. "This is the sixth one of those I've seen this week."

Snow, ranging in depth from a few flakes to two feet, covered at least 35 states yesterday, with Chicago's total fall, for Sunday as well as yesterday, just a fraction over 2 inches. Occasional flurries were predicted for today by C. A. Donnel, government forecaster.

Observers reported that only the extreme south and the Pacific coast escaped the snow storms that have swept the country since Friday. In California there was no snow except in the mountains, but high winds did considerable damage.

The heaviest snowfall was 24 inches in Clinton, Mo. There was more than a foot of snow in western Kansas and 9 inches in Springfield, Ill. Subzero temperatures were common in New York and other states along the eastern seaboard. Snow was 16 inches deep in eastern Maryland and in Rome, N. Y.

Sheriff Charges Prisoners 50c Admission Fee to Jail

Marion, Ill., Jan. 8 (AP).—Dusting off a long forgotten statute, Sheriff Arleigh Wilkins is charging 50 cents to each prisoner admitted to the Williamson county jail and the same amount when the doors swing open. The law says that the keeper of the county jail is entitled to turnkey fees for all who enter and the sheriff is using the funds to balance his budget. When prisoners don't have the money, Wilkins files claims with the county board for their admission and exit fees. The board has allowed the claims.

School Board to Restore Full 40 Week Year

The 10 month school term—abandoned by the board of education in 1933—will be restored in the 1940-'41 school year. The restoration will mean an increase of more than $850,000 in the salaries of Chicago's elementary and high school teachers.

This announcement was made last night by James B. McCahey, school board president, as he and departmental heads completed a series of daily conferences on the 1940 school budget. A public hearing on the budget will be held tomorrow.

Economies Raise $1,100,000.

Careful scrutiny in the budget conferences of the funds available to the board for the coming year disclosed, McCahey said, that $1,100,000 could be used to extend the school year from its present 39 weeks to 40 weeks.

"We found," he said, "that we were able to effect various economies, many averaging from $50,000 to $100,000. This surplus means that our educational fund now will be about $52,956,103, instead of $51,846,103, as contemplated in our tentative budget."

This increase will not mean higher taxes, he explained, because the state legislature has pegged the tax levy at $48,000,000 for educational purposes and the additional appropriation represents surplus funds.

Superintendent William A. Johnson, in a letter to McCahey, urged that the ten month term be restored and promised to make as many economies in his department as possible.

Study Salary Restoration.

The additional week probably will be added during the next Christmas vacation, McCahey said. The recent Christmas vacation began Dec. 15 and ended Jan. 2. The spring vacation period will run from April 26 to May 6 and the summer vacation from June 28 to Sept. 5.

About $850,000 of the funds to be available will go for the extra week's pay for teachers. The remaining $250,000 will be spent for other employes' salary increases and minor educational fund purposes. A 7½ per cent pay cut—remnant of the 15 per cent cut teachers received six years ago—still will be in effect, but McCahey promised yesterday that the board now will direct its efforts to a gradual restoration of this.

REMOVAL OF WAR CHIEF PERILS JOB OF CHAMBERLAIN

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 8.—The country-wide mystification prevailing over Leslie Hore-Belisha's removal as Great Britain's minister of war last Friday has stirred up a political gale that threatens to blow Neville Chamberlain from the premiership unless he handles the situation skilfully. This was the gist of talk in political circles today.

The opinion seemed to be crystalizing that the issue involved is far larger than a quarrel or difference between Hore-Belisha and the generals or even anti-Semitism.

[Other dispatches hinted that Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, who is visiting the British army and air forces in France, may figure largely when the real story behind the cabinet shakeup is revealed. These despatches suggested that Churchill may head a defense ministry which would control the army, air, and naval departments, now under separate ministers, with equal rank and authority.]

Informed observers were inclined to believe that Hore-Belisha's dismissal involves perhaps a widening fissure between the gentleman and non-gentleman classes of England and the fear that the ruling classes may have of what a "democratized" army might do when it comes back home from the war.

Chamberlain Speaks Today.

Attempts to force Chamberlain into an immediate explanation of his step appeared to have failed. The prime minister will address a meeting in London tomorrow but is not expected to give the public any enlightenment. The Hore-Belisha "purge," as it is being called behind the scenes, however, will get an airing in the house of commons a week from tomorrow. That will give Chamberlain a week to maneuver and may enable him to ward off a bustup, politicians said.

Newspapers for the last two days have been full of elaborate details and speculations. Some of the more exaggerated ones hinted that the same forces which threw the duke of Windsor off the throne drove out Hore-Belisha.

But the government sources and the newspapers which follow government policy closely played down the importance of the Hore-Belisha episode. They indicated that as much as possible of the inner story will be withheld and that before the week is over an atmosphere will have been created in the country which will make the parliamentarians feel that they must speak cautiously in Britain's interests.

Cheer Hore-Belisha.

That the war minister, however, has his partisans was illustrated today when he paid his last visit to the war office. He was cheered by the people in the streets when he left his car. Hore-Belisha will turn over the seals of his office to King George VI. tomorrow.

What caused equally as much concern as Hore-Belisha's dismissal was the appointment of Oliver Stanley, president of the board of trade, as his successor. On this subject one Conservative paper remarked: "We had better be discreet and say nothing."

With the uproar over the shakeup giving an indication of the growing belief that it was high quarters outside the army which forced out Hore-Belisha—that phrase was used by Capt. Liddel Hart in a critical article—speculation also grew about whether Hore-Belisha would not form the nucleus for an alternative to the present government.

Watch for Revolt Signs.

All eyes were watching the political skies for signs of revolt. Another issue raised was whether the incident will put an end to the political truce between the political parties. This truce was agreed upon at the beginning of the war.

The reaction was keener in the

NEWS FLASH! BRITISH REPORTERS DODGED BY INFORMATION MINISTER

LONDON, Jan. 8.—Sir John Reith, who as head of the British Broadcasting corporation built up a reputation of never seeing newspaper men, took over the ministry of information today in traditional fashion. A party of newspaper men assigned to the ministry tried to see him but were turned away by Viscount Hood, acting as his secretary. A few minutes later a bell in the great hall of the ministry rang thrice to indicate an important announcement was to be read. A press officer announced, "Sir John Reith cannot see journalists."

FINNS REPORT THOUSANDS DIE IN TWO BATTLES

129 Cannon and 428 Trucks Captured.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Jan. 8.—After a two day battle southeast of Suomussalmi which began on Jan. 6, the Russian Christmas day, the Finns have annihilated another Russian division—the 44th—a special Finnish military communique announced tonight. Thousands of Russians were reported killed and more than 1,000 troops were taken prisoner.

Red army divisions are supposed to number 16,000 men, but the 44th, which was augmented by special troops, was reported to have numbered 20,000 men.

In this same region of central eastern Finland and north of Suomussalmi, the 163d division of the soviet army was virtually destroyed in a battle around Lake Kianta which ended on Dec. 30.

Pursue Fleeing Remnants.

After the victory southeast of Suomussalmi fresh Finnish ski troops took up the chase of the remnants of the 44th division who were fleeing on the Raate highway back across the border toward Vokhnavolotsk and Vionitsk. These are small soviet frontier villages which were converted into garrison points of the Red army.

Reports reaching the Finnish general staff headquarters here gave an ever increasing account of the war equipment captured from the Russians in the Suomussalmi and Lake Kianta battles. The booty included 129 guns of various calibers, 54 tanks, 12 armored cars, one airplane, 75 submachine guns, 428 motor trucks, 59 field kitchens, 1,420 horses, and large quantities of rifles and munitions.

Among the equipment captured by the Finns were 16 antiaircraft cars, each mounting four antiaircraft guns.

Use Reindeer Sledges.

The horses now are helping to carry the Finnish wounded back to Suomussalmi from where they will be transported to Kajaani en route to hospitals in western Finland.

The Russian special troops attached to the 44th also were found to be using reindeer to pull specially constructed arctic sledges carrying food and ammunition.

In the Suomussalmi sector the Russians had concentrated especially powerful forces which were being directed toward capturing Oulu and Kemi, on the Gulf of Bothnia, thus cutting Finland in two and destroying railroad communications with Sweden.

Forced to the North.

Altho the 163d division invaded Finland at the beginning of December and the soviet radio announced on Dec. 7 that it had penetrated 124 miles into Finnish territory, the force never got farther than Suomussalmi, which is just 16 miles from the soviet frontier. There the 163d was forced to turn north and the Finns gave them no rest. On Dec. 15 they began an attack on Lake Kianta which lasted until Dec. 30 when the entire division was destroyed.

During the 15 days of fighting the portable radio set of the 163d division made repeated and frantic appeals to the 44th division just across the soviet frontier to come to their rescue, but the constant attacks by small raiding parties of the Finns paralyzed the movements of the 44th division until a few days ago when it moved across the Finnish frontier.

Attacked From All Sides.

The effectiveness of the Finnish patrols kept the Russians bunched together as they passed Raate on the soviet frontier enroute to Suomussalmi. It was on this road that they ran into the Finnish ambush and were attacked from both sides and the rear and massacred.

Farther north, at Kuolajarvi, another battle now is in progress and another large force of Russians is in difficulty. Soviet bombers have attempted to drop supplies of food to them by parachute but have been fought off by Finnish planes.

A Scandinavian legion has arrived. This force is made up of Swedes living in Finland who have volunteered to serve in the Finnish army, also Swedes from Sweden, and volunteers from the two other Scandinavian countries, Denmark and Norway. They soon will go into action against the Russians.

Altho no Finnish losses thus far have been announced, the largest casualties of the Finnish army oc-cured on the northern front where they are fighting the so-called soviet elite troops. These are youths selected for their splendid physique and who are especially trained to fight in the arctic cold and blizzards.

THE TRIBUNE has been informed that a special Finnish expedition now is being equipped to enter Russian territory at some undisclosed point in the north. Each man has undergone a special examination and especially rigorous training to weed out the weaklings and they will march under sealed orders.

The air forces of both sides apparently remained inactive today as intense cold, with temperatures ranging down to 40 degrees below zero, continued to grip the front.

Urge Red Youths to Ski.

MOSCOW, Jan. 8 (AP). — Russian youths were urged by the newspaper Red Sport today to take up skiing because of its military importance.

[Finnish military dispatches have reported continued successes by ski troops against the Red army since the war started.]

An official soviet communique covering activities of Jan. 8, said: "Nothing important took place at the front. In the Ukhta, Repola, and Petrozavodsk sectors there were activities by scouting patrols. On the Karelian isthmus there were scouting activities, rifle and machine gun firing and artillery duels. Owing to unfavorable weather, soviet aviation made only scouting flights."

Germans Bar Passage of Planes.

BERLIN, Jan. 8 (AP).—Authorized Nazi sources today confirmed reports that Germany had refused to permit Italian planes destined for Finland to pass thru the reich.

These sources said no nation under international law was obliged to accept war material as transit goods. Each such case must be decided on its merits, they held.

Russia, they asserted, would have objected violently if the planes had been allowed to pass, and Germany deemed it expedient to refuse such transit as a means of preventing extension of the war area.

DEFEATS + BELOW ZERO BLASTS PUT A STOP TO REDS

Here's History of Soviet War on Finland.

BY GILBERT TWISS.

The rout of another Russian division by the Finns and the advent of the severest months of the winter apparently have brought a temporary halt to the Red invasion of Finland which now is a few days over five weeks old.

At the start of the undeclared war on Nov. 30 Moscow's plans called for a "blitzkrieg [[lightning war], similar to that of the Germans in Poland.

The Russians counted on pushing thru Finland's Mannerheim line defenses on the Karelian isthmus and taking Viipuri, Finland's second largest city, and Helsingfors, the capital, in about 10 days.

Launch Triple Offensive.

North of Lake Ladoga drives were aimed at Sortavala and Joensuu, important cities and communications centers.

A triple offensive was launched against central Finland on the east. It was aimed at the "waistline" or narrowest part of the country between Russia and Sweden.

The drives were aimed thru Lieksa, Kuhmo, and Suomussalmi toward Oulu [Uleaborg], Finnish port on the upper Gulf of Bothnia. These drives, if successful, would have cut Finland in two, separating the more heavily settled and industrial southern half from access by land with Sweden and Norway.

Another Russian drive on the eastern front was aimed thru Kuolajarvi and Salla, above the arctic circle, toward the railhead at Kemijarvi, the junction of northern communications radiating from Rovaniemi and the important towns of Kemi and Tornio on the Swedish border.

The far northern campaign, in the Petsamo region, was planned to wipe out Finland's narrow corridor to the Arctic ocean lying between the frontiers of Russia and Norway.

Depend on Railway for Supplies.

It was possible to support the campaigns on the Karelian isthmus and north of Lake Ladoga directly from Leningrad. However, the drives on central Finland, on Kuolajarvi and Salla, and in the far north depended upon supplies moving over the Leningrad-Murmansk railway and its branches, the Leningrad-Murmansk highway, and the Leningrad-White sea canal.

The railway runs north and south at varying distances of from 50 to 150 miles east of the Finnish frontier. The Finns have announced that their planes and ski patrols destroyed bridges and otherwise interrupted service on the railroad.

The Finns withstood the Russians' initial thrust across the frontier on the Karelian isthmus and then withdrew to stronger positions near Lake Suvanto and the Taipale river, but still in advance of the core of the Mannerheim line. They repulsed many soviet attacks, causing heavy casualties and loss of material. Russian artillery was generally ineffective in the isthmus campaign, tho the Reds did shell Viipuri intermittently with long range guns. With the arrival of subzero temperatures, the Russians on the isthmus are reported to be digging in and timbering their shelters for a long stay.

Suffers Disastrous Defeat.

North of Lake Ladoga, one soviet column reached its high point at Kitela and another at Tolvajarvi. However, the column at Tolvajarvi suffered a disastrous defeat. The other is reported to be cut off and held immobile between Kitela and Koirinoja. Other Russian units are trapped between Loimola and Suojarvi. In this region the Finns are said to have penetrated far into the isthmus between Lakes Ladoga and Onega, the largest lakes in Europe.

On the central eastern front, the Finns turned back the Russians at Lieksa and Kuhmo and pursued the remnants of their forces across the border. Near Suomussalmi, the Russians suffered two of their greatest defeats. The Russian 163d division—about 17,000 men—was "cut to pieces" in the battle of Lake Kianta and the 44th division was reported annihilated in a battle southeast of Suomussalmi.

The Russians made their greatest penetrations of Finnish territory on the arctic fronts. Just above the Arctic circle, a force from Kandalaksha reached the outskirts of Kemijarvi, a point more than 80 miles within Finland and almost halfway to Sweden. Finnish ski troops outflanked this column and defeated the Russians at Salla and Kuolajarvi. The Russians left 2,000 dead on the field at Kuolajarvi and retreated to their frontier.

Finns Withdraw in North.

In the far north, the Finns resisted for a while at Liinahamari and Petsamo, then withdrew to their main defenses at the end of their corridor, first burning and putting out of commission the nickel mines and works at Salmijarvi. The Russians reached Nautsi, about 80 miles south of the Arctic, but could not withstand the Finns' flank attacks and withdrew to Hoyhenjarvi, where they appeared to be digging in for the winter.

Soviet aviation was expected to destroy Finnish wartime production, air bases, and sever communication. The Reds bombed Helsingfors, Viipuri, Tampere [the chief munitions center], coastal batteries, chief ports, and a number of lesser towns.

Finns said that aside from minor damage to plants and communications, the chief effect of the bombings was destruction of public and residential buildings and the killing and wounding of a considerable number of civilians. Russian aviation lost heavily by fire from Finnish antiaircraft units and in combats with Finnish flyers.

Rout Red Divisions

Finland announced yesterday that the Russian 44th division had been crushed southeast of Suomussalmi (2), not far from the region (1) where the Red 163d division was cut to pieces.

BASEL, Switzerland, Jan. 8.—Steps taken by Germany in the last few days to block railway passenger traffic from Basel to the Rhineland are arousing widespread speculation in this border town.

The railroad in question cuts north from here, paralleling the Rhine. It goes directly thru the Siegfried line fortifications, many of which are visible to travelers, as are the forts of the Maginot line across the river. Altho trains have been going up and down the German side of the river since the outbreak of the war, the French never have shot at them. The road is the connecting link between Basel and Freiburg.

Consuls Refuse Visas.

Since Jan. 1 German consuls in Switzerland have been refusing to issue visas to foreigners for this trip. They insist that travelers take other routes that do not expose the German fortifications.

Several theories are held here. One is that Germany is assembling troops and equipment in preparation for an offensive. Another is that Germany is building fortifications that it desires to keep secret. A third is that fear of spies led to the move.

The peacetime practice of switching thru passenger cars from Swiss trains to the German railway terminating in Basel was abandoned at the outbreak of the war, when it was assumed there would be fighting along the Rhine. It continued to be possible, however, to board trains at the German railway station here.

Spy Theory Most Credited.

The theory that fear of spies prompted the Germans to block traffic has been given most credence, especially since several measures have been taken in recent weeks to tighten the border in this sector.

There seems to be a recurrence of nervousness here, not officially but among the people, about the possibility of attack by Germany. "They are talking against us over there," Basel residents are saying to one another with a nod toward Germany. This seems to result from something different from the attacks on Switzerland by the Nazi press. It appears to refer to the attitude of the German people or to the line of thought they are being given by their leaders.

Worry Over Spring Drive.

Many people here who planned to move to the mountains before the opening of the offensive that they believe will come in the spring are considering going earlier. Several have told me they plan to go when the weather becomes mild.

There is not a great deal of fear that Germany will make a serious attempt to get at France by invading Switzerland. What worries Basel citizens is that a feint might be made toward Switzerland simultaneously with a genuine push thru Belgium or the Netherlands. If that happens, many believe, the French would be let in to help the Swiss and a battleground would be made of this city of 170,000.

Hore-Belisha Is Cheered by People in London.

country than in London. This correspondent yesterday visited the Devonport constituency which Hore-Belisha represents in parliament. There the demand for explanation of his dismissal was more than insistent. From Devonport Dr. Valentine Curtain, treasurer of the National Liberal association, sent a telegram to Hore-Belisha referring to "the terribly cruel forces that the vested interests, big family influences and dlehard traditionalism have at their command in so-called democratic England."

Arrangements were being made for Hore-Belisha to address a massmeeting in Devonport a week from Friday, or three days after he probably will make a statement in parliament.

"Hush-Hush" Policy.

The first sign of the government "hush-hush" policy was the refusal to call parliament before next Tuesday, according to the press, which said that Chamberlain will not decide on his explanation until he hears what Hore-Belisha has to say. In a somewhat similar situation four years ago involving the resignation of Sir Samuel Hoare, present lord of the privy seal, as foreign minister over the Ethiopian deal, Stanley Baldwin in a speech smoothed the matter over nicely as far as parliament was concerned.

The only danger for Chamberlain will come if a debate ensues and involves attacks of such a nature as to raise the question of confidence. On the other hand, parliamentary lobby circles said that there was no intention of moving to vote to censure the government as a whole.

MAY RATION CLOTHES

LONDON, Jan. 8 (AP).—Great Britain, a nation of hearty eaters, tightened its belt today as rationing of butter, bacon, ham, and sugar went into effect amid predictions that rationing might be extended to include clothes and similar articles.

The authoritative British Press association said the government "may ask the country for still greater sacrifices in the near future, including further rationing which may ultimately go beyond food and even include some standarization of suits."

At the request of King George VI., rationing will be as strict as possible for the royal family, and the queen has drawn up special menus which eliminate two courses from luncheon and dinner.

In an effort to make rationing more palatable, the press, radio, and government told the nation that:

1. The king and queen were using ration books.
2. Doctors were certain that rationing would make a thinner and fitter nation.
3. The ministry of food said extra supplies of imported meat were expected to meet a shortage of fresh meat early next week.

Members of the United States embassy in London waived diplomatic privileges that would exempt them from the rationing and were issued coupon books.

The rationing to which the king and queen also voluntarily submitted allows 3½ ounces of ham or bacon, 4 ounces of butter and 12 ounces of sugar weekly for each person.

BRITAIN CHALKS UP EMPLOYMENT GAIN IN MONTH

LONDON, Jan. 8.—Great Britain's unemployed total dropped 41,063 between Nov. 11 and Dec. 11, it was officially stated tonight, but there still are 1,361,525 idle.

Officials predict unemployment eventually will disappear. There was general all around improvement by mid-December in all industries except coal, building, and agriculture. Distributive trades in the month cited put 16,386 back to work and hotels hired 7,909. In coal mining, however, 9,626 lost their jobs because of a shortage of freight cars.

Labor leaders and government officials, however, are not satisfied with the record. There still are 130,000 more unemployed than at the start of the war.

MANY OF POLISH NOBILITY HELD IN PRISON CAMPS

PARIS, Jan. 8.—Both the Nazi and soviet rulers of Poland appear to be particularly severe against the Polish aristocracy. The Paris refugee colony of members of Polish aristocratic families received today a report on the situations of their relatives, most of whom have been interned in concentration camps, deported to the interiors of Germany and Russia and their large estates and fortunes confiscated.

Most landowners in Poland's western provinces of Pozania and Pomorze, incorporated in the reich, have been expelled from their homes and many interned in the concentration at Camp Dobracice, near Poznan. Prince Olgierd Czartoryski and his wife, the daughter of Archduke Stephan Hapsburg, and Countess Chlapowski, wife of a former ambassador, are there while Prince Leon Sapieha is in a camp in Braunschweig and Stanislaw Sapieha is in a camp near Hanover.

Prince Stanislaw Radziwill and Prince Adam Lubomirski are in a soviet camp near Karkov, Prince Janus Radziwill, former chairman of parliament's foreign committees, has been released from a soviet prison and returned to Warsaw.

New York, Jan. 8 (AP).—An Austrian couple who told of escaping from Germany by swimming the Rhine, were among 407 European refugees who arrived today on the French liner De Grasse. Arrested in Austria by the Nazis, Franz Joseph Flatz, 39 years old, said he escaped in the Austrian Alps while being taken to a concentration camp. He made his way by night to Hoechst, Austria, and swam the Rhine to Rohrschach, Switzerland. Several weeks later his wife and two young children—the latter carried on the backs of friendly peasants—made the crossing at the same spot.

FRENCH CABINET SHIFT FORECAST; CALL PARLIAMENT

PARIS, Jan. 8 (AP).—Reconstruction of the French cabinet was seen as a possibility by some sections of the French press today as parliament was called to meet tomorrow for general debate on Premier Edouard Daladier's conduct of the war.

These sections of the press raised the possibility that the commissariat of information might be transformed into a full ministry.

The meeting of parliament will be the first ordinary session since the war began and mobilized deputies have been granted leave to attend.

Military dispatches reported localized patrol activity on the western front. A German contingent attacked a French outpost in the Vosges foothills but was said to have been repulsed.

The French morning communique said: "The night was calm on the whole. Patrol activity in the region west of the Vosges."

Germans Repulse Patrol.

BERLIN, Jan. 8 (AP).—Repulse of an enemy scouting patrol on the western front was reported today in the German high command's communique. "Enemy scouting patrol repulsed with enemy losses in the west along the border west of Merzig," it stated.

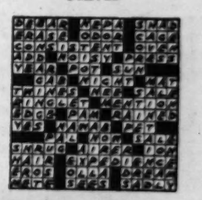
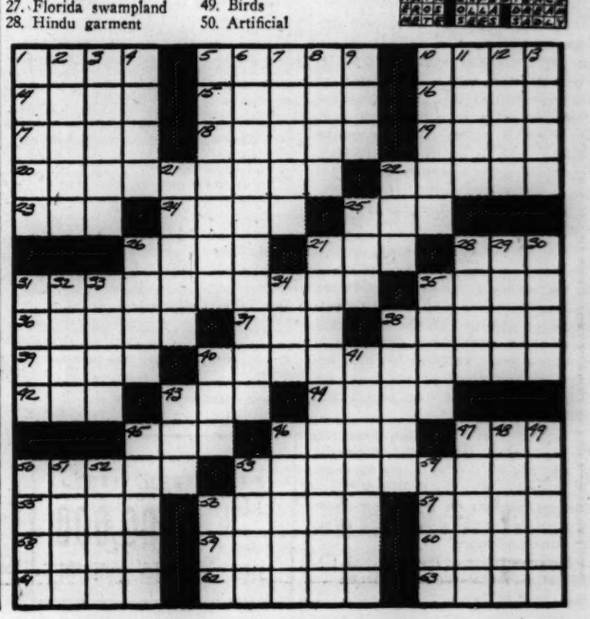
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED





CHURCHILL TELLS GENERALS HOW TO ACT FOR MOVIES

Steals Spotlight at Rite on Western Front.

BY JOHN O'DONNELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, Jan. 8.—With cheery gusto Winston Churchill, Great Britain's first lord of the admiralty, today stole the most impressive military show yet staged on this western front from the hundreds of decorated generals of the British and French armies.

In a gray slouch hat, dark overcoat, and business suit, the baldish, thick set veteran of British politics dominated a stage where the grand cross of the Legion of Honor was awarded with ancient Napoleonic ceremony to Sir Edmund Ironside, chief of the British imperial general staff, and Viscount Gort, commander in chief of the British expeditionary force in France.

Newsboys Shout "Extras."

As the awards were made French newsbobys outside the precincts of the chateau cried their extras. On page 1 were London reports that Churchill, now that Leslie Hore-Belisha had left the war ministry, will become minister of national defense and co-director of Britain's armed forces on sea, land, and air.

All correspondents, British, French, American, and from the dominions, to whom this writer talked today believe that Churchill's visit at the front line, coming hard on the heels of the dropping of Hore-Belisha, has far-reaching political significance.

Among the foreign as well as British correspondents there was a conviction that Churchill, who cheerily commented that he was "a war correspondent himself once," will take over complete command of England's war show within a few days.

Churchill at His Best.

Churchill was at his political publicity best today—before the camera men and newsreel operators. With a cheery welcome to reporters he gave this impression: Come what may in the way of developments the movie world will see pictures of England's dynamic navy lord standing on somewhat muddy terra firma in France but dominating the scene pictorially in which appear France's commander in chief, Gen. Maurice Gustave Gamelin, the chief of the French army, Gen. Alphonse Georges, and the two commanders of England's army, Ironside and Gort.

With a grin for reporters, Churchill encouraged the slightly embarrassed Ironside and gave him technical advice as to how to face the batteries of movie cameras in a direct line of political fire.

"You've got to talk with animation, general," Churchill admonished Britain's army chief as the cameras whirred without their sound attachments. Then the first lord of the admiralty shifted his position, spun on his heel, gave a quick understanding nod to reporters out of the cameras' range and continued to give directions to Ironside and Gort:

LINDA HAYES.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 8 (AP).—Linda Hayes of the movies, testifying that her husband dragged her across the floor by her hair, won a divorce today in Superior court. She also said that Dominic J. Germano treated her so that she became a nervous wreck. The Germanos were married in December, 1936. Miss Hayes in from Sac City, Ia.

ITALY PROMISES AID TO HUNGARY; AGREE ON PACT

Will Defend Magyars from Nazi, Red Attacks.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Jan. 8 (AP).—A defensive alliance between Italy and Hungary, assuring Hungary of full Italian support in event of attack by either Germany or soviet Russia, was reported authoritatively today to have been agreed upon by foreign ministers of the two nations in week-end talks at Venice.

First reports were that the text of the agreement would be made public with signature by Foreign Ministers Count Galeazzo Ciano of Italy and Count Stephan Csaky of Hungary at Rome, but later advices said the pact would remain confidential lest publication give offense to Germany or Russia.

Csaky to Report Today.

Hungarians understood it would be initialed by both foreign ministers it fully approved by their respective governments. Count Csaky is due in Budapest in the morning to report to a special meeting of the Hungarian crown council.

[Rome diplomats agreed that Count Csaky obtained an Italian promise of aid, if Russia attacked her, and advice to avoid pressing territorial claims upon Rumania for the present when friction might cause spread of war.]

Public emphasis will be placed, it was said, on a tripower friendship pact which informed sources expected would be signed shortly by Italy, Hungary, and Jugo-Slavia. This pact presumably would permit Italy to move troops thru Jugo-Slavia to aid Hungary, if the need arose, altho Jugo-Slavia was understood to be unwilling to join outright any alliance with her two neighbors.

To Guard Carpathians.

The reported Italian-Hungarian agreement was interpreted as giving emphasis to the slogan "Italy's frontier is on the Carpathians."

Under the proposed pact as outlined here, Italy also will help Hungary regain the Carpathian mountain barrier in Transylvania should the Russians launch an attack against Rumania and threaten to drive westward into central Europe.

Count Ciano was reported to have urged Hungary to seek at least a temporary agreement with Rumania over the question of Transylvania, a part of Rumania taken from Hungary after the world war and still containing Magyar minorities.

Germany Angered.

Count Csaky was said to have agreed to Count Ciano's request that Hungary seek a peaceful settlement of her differences with Rumania. Bucharest dispatches said that Rumanian Foreign Minister Grigore Gafencu was planning to visit Rome in this connection.

Germany was said to have been mentioned with Russia in connection with the new alliance because of disturbing, but unconfirmed reports from the reich to the effect that the Nazi leaders, annoyed at Rumania's refusal to send greater supplies to Germany, were strongly considering marching thru Hungary to Rumania.

Reports also were heard that Germany was trying to find a deep Balkan frontier she could defend easily, fearing that Britain, France, and Turkey were planning to create an eastern front.

Alliance Reported

(Story in adjoining column.)

Diagonally ruled areas locate Italy and her puppet state Albania, and Hungary, which are reported to have agreed on a defensive alliance.

NORTH IRELAND CONSTABULARY OFFICE BOMBED

LONDONBERRY, Northern Ireland, Jan. 8 (AP).—The headquarters of the Northern Ireland special constabulary in Londonberry was bombed tonight, but no one was injured.

The bomb, thrown from the street, blew out all the windows in the front of the building and scores of windows in the vicinity.

I. R. A. Roundup Halted.

DUBLIN, Ireland, Jan. 8 (AP).—Doubt over the constitutionality of a new law today halted a roundup of members of the outlawed Irish republican army. The government had planned, under the law, to intern without trial any person suspected of an offense against the state. President Douglas Hyde, after consulting the council of state, referred to the Supreme court for advice a measure passed by parliament to make permanent the emergency internment power.

ARMED BRITISH SHIP FIGHTS OFF GERMAN U-BOAT

14,172 Ton Liner Escapes After Engagement.

RIO DE JANIERO, Brazil, Jan. 8 (AP).—The British Royal Mail liner Highland Patriot fought off a German submarine near the Canary Islands on Dec. 29, it was disclosed when the 14,172 ton vessel arrived here today. Seven shots were fired in the engagement, four by the liner.

The Highland Patriot, out of Liverpool with 209 passengers for South American ports, was about 50 miles south of the port of Las Palmas when the submarine appeared and made a signal which officers of the Highland Patriot said they failed to understand.

Then, said the officers, the submarine fired two shots from a deck gun described as a 3 or 4 incher. The Highland Patriot, zigzagging ahead of the attacker, responded with fire from a 6 inch gun mounted astern as "defensive armament."

All Shots Go Wild.

The German craft fired once more, the officers said, all shots going wild; the Highland Patriot fired a total of four shots. The submarine, which it was believed was not hit, then submerged.

Passengers of the Highland Patriot told a somewhat different and more exciting story.

They said the liner fought the submarine for two hours, in the course of which the warcraft fired two torpedoes, one just missing the liner's stern and the other coming equally close to the bow.

The officers denied this, however, pointing out that the submarine could not fire any torpedoes from her position astern. The officers also denied passengers' reports that a passenger had died at sea of injuries received in a crush during a panic which developed aboard the liner at the time of the gun fight.

Save 45 from French Boat.

VIGO, Spain, Jan. 8 (AP).—Twelve members of her 63-man crew still were missing and six were known dead tonight in the wreck of the French patrol boat Balzac on Saturday night near Marin, on the Atlantic coast of Spain. Forty-five crewmen of the 2,000-ton patrol boat were rescued by a sailboat.

British Vessel Sinks After Blast.

LONDON, Jan. 8 (AP).—The 5,160 ton steamer Cedrington Court was disclosed today to have sunk 10 minutes after an explosion off the English southeast coast yesterday. Her crew of 34 was saved.

A Reuters [British] news agency report today said an unnamed British tanker reached Amsterdam after a battle with a German bomber in the North sea.

The plane dropped three bombs, and the tanker used its guns against the plane and the guncrew believed it scored a hit. One of the bombs fell near the ship, cracking pipes aboard the tanker and damaging the wireless and machinery, but causing no casualties.

FRENCH TROOP TRAINS CRASH; 7 DIE, 18 HURT

PARIS, Jan. 8.—Seven persons were killed and 18 injured in an accident involving troop trains near the suburb of Orly Saturday, it was announced tonight. According to an official bulletin, one train hit the rear end of another which was standing still. Due to the slow speed of the first train there were no casualties on it, but some men jumped to the right of way and were run down by a third train on another track.

Washington Lists 13 More War Seizures of American Vessels

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8 [Special].—Thirteen seizures of American ships have been made by British or French authorities in the European war area since the last list was issued on Dec. 14, the state department announced today. On the basis of the latest reports six of the seized vessels have not yet been released, the announcement said.

Eight of the seizures were made subsequent to Dec. 22 when the state department filed the third of a series of protests to Britain and France against illegal interference with American shipping and mails.

Taken to Forbidden Port.

The latest seizure was that of the United States liner Manhattan last Saturday morning when the vessel was en route to Genoa and Naples on the first trip of a new fortnightly service between New York and the Italian ports. The ship was released yesterday.

American vessels still in British hands include the Mormacsun of the American Scantic line, which was taken to Kirkwall, a forbidden port to American ships under the neutrality law; the American Export Lines' Exilona, seized Dec. 28; the Exeter, seized Jan. 1; the Exiria, held since Jan. 4; and Lykes Brothers' Nashaba, held since Jan. 3. The French are holding the Lykes Brothers' Syron, which was taken Jan. 1.

Ship Seized Twice.

On Dec. 27 the French seized that company's Oakwood, four days after the British had released the vessel at Gibraltar. The steamer was forced to put into Villefranche where it was held for several hours before it was determined that an error had been made.

The British seized the Isthmian Lines' Steel Engineer Dec. 10 and held the vessel until the next day. The American Export Lines' Excalibur was taken to Gibraltar Dec. 17 and held for two weeks, while the Executive of the same line was delayed from Dec. 20 to Jan. 3. The Lyke Brothers' Meanticut also was held at Gibraltar from Dec. 17 to Dec. 18.

GERMANS GIVE FUNDS TO BUILD NEW GRAF SPEE

BERLIN, Jan. 8 (AP).—Public funds are being raised to construct a new warship Admiral Graf Spee, it became known today. The original Admiral Graf Spee, one of three 10,000 ton pocket battleships built by Germany to meet naval restrictions after the world war, was scuttled in Montevideo harbor Dec. 17 after a battle with British warships. Public contributions and receipts from concerts and entertainments are being used to pay for the new ship. Early contributions came from Germans living abroad soon after the Admiral Graf Spee was blown up.

PRESIDENT MUM, BUT THIRD TERM DRUMS RESOUND

Jackson Day Dinners Are Sounding Boards.

velt, and is partial to Senator Wheeler.

Several candidates and near candidates for the Democratic nomination were seated at the head table with the President, the most prominent of them being Vice President Garner who took his bow to tremendous applause in which Mr. Roosevelt beamingly joined as these big wigs were introduced by L. W. [Chip] Robert, secretary of the Democratic national committee.

Long Ovation for Garner.

Garner received a long ovation, but he maintained his silence. He merely replied "I always obey the boss," pointing to the President. He and Farley listened solemnly to the President's speech, Garner puffing on his cigar.

The only mention of a third term thruout the evening was made by Speaker Bankhead, who said that Republicans and "some of our Democrats" have demonstrated a very pronounced interest in the matter of a third term. Mr. Roosevelt joined in the general laughter.

Senator Carl A. Hatch [D., N. M.], author of the Hatch act taking government employés out of politics, was loudly booed when introduced. Prominent among those present was James H. R. Cromwell, recently appointed minister to Canada, and his wife, Doris Duke. They sat directly in front of the President.

In all more than 1,000 Democratic job holders planked down their $100 for a dinner ticket and a large majority of them were on hand to partake of the $10 worth of food and drink.

Twits G. O. P. Absentees.

Mr. Roosevelt, who was in high good humor, began by twitting the Republican senate leaders, Charles L. McNary [Ore.], and Warren R. Austin [Vt.], and Republican House Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. [Mass.] for declining the invitations to the dinner he had caused to be sent to them. He thought they were like the schoolboy who told the teacher he wanted to go to heaven, but "not with that bunch" of other boys in the schoolroom.

The President's speech thruout was in marked contrast with his speech on the same occasion a year ago, when he bluntly told the conservative Democrats to get out of the party and join up with the Republicans. This time he was all sweetness and benevolence to the right wingers, all for continuing that adjournment of politics which he has been preaching since last September and in which suspiciously minded persons detect a good brand of third term political medicine.

On this occasion the President was a defender of ticket scratching by the independent minded.

An able editor, he said, had told him he would support the Roosevelt policies, but for his readers and advertisers who were 90 per cent Republican and against everything Democratic.

Sticks to Nonpartisan Text.

The President had promised the invited Republican leaders that his speech would be nonpartisan. In the spirit of nonpartisanship he took not only Lincoln but Hamilton right into the national Valhalla along with Jefferson and Jackson.

"Alexander Hamilton," he said, "is a hero to me in spite of his position that the nation would be safer if our leaders were chosen exclusively from persons of higher education and of substantial property ownership; he is a hero because he did the job which then had to be done—to bring stability out of a chaos of currency and banking difficulties.

"Thomas Jefferson is a hero to me despite the fact that the theories of the French revolutionists at times overexcited his practical judgment. He is a hero because, in his many sided genius, he too did the big job which then had to be done—to establish the new republic as a real democracy based on universal suffrage and the inalienable rights of man, instead of a restricted suffrage in the hands of a small oligarchy.

New Party for Lincoln.

"I do not know which party Lincoln would belong to if he were alive in 1940—and I am not even concerned to speculate on it; a new party had to be created before he could be elected president.

"I am more interested in the fact that he did the big job which then had to be done—to preserve the union and make possible, at a later time, a united country.

"I feel very much the same way about Jackson—not Jackson the Democrat but Jackson the American, who did the big job of his day—to save the economic democracy of the Union for its westward expansion into a great nation, strengthened in the ideals and practice of popular government."

"The people of the United States recognize two facts today: The first is that the world outside our hemisphere is in really bad shape. That is a matter not for pessimism or optimism; it is a matter for realism. It is a fact—a fact so big that few people have grasped its meaning—a fact so big in its effect on the future of the world that all our little partisan squabbles are shameful in the light of it.

"The second is that we have made great gains at home in our own economic prosperity and in the security of our individual citizens. These gains must not be chipped away; they must be only a foundation on which to build further gains.

"Behind us lies accomplished a really big job. It was the creation out of the funk of the early 30s of a new spirit with which we can now face the 40s."

LASH ROOSEVELT POLICY AT REBEL JACKSON DINNER

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 8 [Special].—A rebellious group of party members shared the spotlight with New Deal partisans tonight as Georgia Democrats celebrated Andrew Jackson day.

While 700 of the state's "loyal" Democrats gathered at an Atlanta $25 a plate dinner to hear President Roosevelt's radio address and a personal speech by Louis A. Johnson, assistant secretary of war, 400 dissenting, self-styled "poor but honest" Democrats participated in a $1 per plate dinner at Macon.

At the "poor but honest" gathering the principal speaker was Thomas W. Hardwick, former United States senator and governor of Georgia, who vigorously denounced Roosevelt policies.

BARRETT URGES CARE IN PICKING BALLOT JUDGES

A proposal that careful consideration be given to a suggestion that the methods used in selecting jurors be used in the naming of election precinct judges and clerks was made yesterday by George F. Barrett, candidate for the Republican nomination for attorney general.

"The selection of election officials to record the vote honestly as it was cast for government officials is of just as much importance to greater numbers of people," he said, "than the picking of jurors who pass upon the lives, liberties, and property of individual citizens."

He spoke in LaGrange before the West Suburban Republican Women's club.

Horner Names E. P. Allen for State Fire Marshal

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 8 (AP).—Gov. Horner today appointed Edward P. Allen of Quincy, former secretary of the Democratic state central committee, to the post of state fire marshal. Allen, whose appointment was effective immediately, took the job left vacant since Dec. 9, 1938, when Sherman V. Coultas of Jacksonville was shot and killed by an aged farmer during a hunting altercation near Jacksonville.

PATRICIANS HAVE RELIGIOUS, CIVIC DUTY, POPE WARNS

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 8.—Pope Pius XII. warned the Roman patricians who came to wish him a Happy New Year this morning that altho they are privileged by birth and wealth they must use their advantages to perform their religious and civic duties. The pope spoke of the war and "the arduous task of necessary reconstruction" which must follow.

"In this work," he said, "you may have an important part. Altho it is true that modern society rebels against the idea and the very name of a privileged class, it is none the less true that, as in ancient times, even that class had to be a working class and, for that reason, to participate in the ruling circles. Therefore, it is up to you to demonstrate frankly that you are and intend to be a willing and active class. No one can avoid the original and universal law of labor. . . ."

"There is a privilege which neither time nor men is going to take from you if you, yourselves, do not lose it—that of being the best, the first, not only in riches, in luxury or dress, in the pomp of your palaces, but in the integrity of your actions, the rectitude of your religious and civic life, the privilege of being patrician thru high qualities of mind and heart, the privilege of being noble, which is to say, men whose names are worthy of being known and whose actions are worthy of being cited as examples to emulate."

HADLEY CHARGES SPOILS SYSTEM IS NEW DEAL KEY

Charles W. Hadley, Republican candidate for attorney general, charged last night that the real cause for Democratic rejoicing at Jackson day dinners was the Jacksonian declaration: "To the victor belongs the spoils." He spoke at a 48th ward meeting at 4558 Kenmore avenue.

"This spoils system is the real doctrine of the New Deal," he said. "That is why they can get such prices from the beneficiaries of the billions of dollars in spoils which the Democratic party in municipalities, in states, and in the nation have levied in the last seven years.

"Have the people received value for this tremendous inroad on the savings of the nation? The answer is that more than two-thirds of the people are actually worse off now than when the New Dealers took over the government and the government itself owes twice as much now as it did then."

Senate Approves Payment to Cairo Flood Workers

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8 (AP).—A bill directing the controller general to pay the claims of emergency workers employed at Cairo, Ill., during the 1937 flood, was passed by the senate today and sent to the White House. The workers, hired hurriedly when the Ohio river threatened to overflow the levees, were told they would be paid by the WPA, but it developed they were not employed under the customary regulations. "There was no time to ask the men if they were on relief," said the WPA report approving the bill. Legitimate claimants were estimated at 1,075 in the report, with the cost of claims set at $21,000, based on a wage of 30 cents an hour.

Perkins Buys Back Trucks, but Faces New Suit for Tax

York, Pa., Jan. 8 (AP).—The government, which attached Fred Perkins' two trucks for social security taxes, sold them back to him at auction today for enough to square things. In all, the battery manufacturer, who once went to jail for defying NRA, paid $117.46, including the tax and penalties. There were no other bidders. The Pennsylvania department of justice made ready to file suit asking judgment against Perkins for $222.41 taxes due the division of unemployment compensation.

DEMOCRATS OF ILLINOIS CALL FOR THIRD TERM

1,500 Jobholders Attend Jackson Dinner.

The Jackson day dinner of Illinois Democrats, given last night in the Palmer House, proved to be a third term symphony for President Roosevelt. The 1,500 jobholders present, who had paid $25 a plate for the dinner, cheered any and all mention of a continuation of their present status thru the medium of another term for their leader in the White House.

Incidentally, a third term for Gov. Horner and another term for United States Senator James M. Slattery also are in the cards for 1940, according to keynoters at the dinner, which officially opened the party's state campaign this year.

Mayor Comes from Florida.

Mayor Kelly, who made a trip home from Florida to attend the dinner, said the nation's destiny for 1940 is "to move forward with Franklin D. Roosevelt."

"Mr. President," he declared, "finish the job."

Senator Slattery made the principal speech of the dinner.

Hard Job, Says Slattery.

"We have our work cut out for us in 1940," he said. "It will require the kind of effort and determination that carried Jackson to victory at New Orleans. It is a task in which we cannot fail."

Gov. Henry Horner and Patrick A. Nash, leader of the Cook county Democrats, were not present, but messages were read from both urging a third term for the President. Mayor Kelly read the message from the governor.

REPUBLICANS PAY LINCOLN HOMAGE WITH 25c DINNER

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 8 [Special].—Three hundred Indianapolis young Republicans paid homage to Lincoln by dining on crackers and milk at 25 cents an order here tonight while Democrats feasted on the floor above at a $25-a-plate Jackson day dinner.

Speaking as the voice of the forgotten man about whom he said the Democrats upstairs talk a lot and do nothing, Glenn W. Funk, an Indianapolis attorney, recounted what had been expected from the New Deal on the strength of campaign promises and what actually had been received.

While he recalled what has happened to the forgotten man in the last seven years—how he has been regimented and fooled by the politicians—Funk addressed his remarks to Abraham Lincoln, portrayed by Russell L. Richardson. Mrs. Gertrude Norris, as the forgotten woman, stood nearby. When Funk had finished, Richardson replied with quotations from the first and second inaugural addresses of Lincoln.

G. O. P. OBSERVES JACKSON DAY BY PAYING UP DEBT

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8 (AP).—Chairman John Hamilton announced today the Republican national committee had received sufficient contributions and pledges to extinguish completely a debt which totaled $655,000 Dec. 1.

"It is particularly gratifying," Hamilton said, "to be able to make this announcement of the extinguishment of the debt of the Republican national committee on this Jackson day, the 105th anniversary of that Jackson day dinner on Jan. 8, 1835, held in Washington in honor of the extinguishment of the national debt."

Hamilton said his announcement was a more appropriate way in which to honor the memory of Old Hickory than the Democratic Jackson day dinners being held tonight to raise party funds. He referred to the Democrats as "deficit spenders."

GLASS FINDS HIS JACKSON DINNER TICKET; ATTENDS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8 (AP).—Senator Carter Glass found his $100 ticket and attended the Jackson day dinner rally of Democrats tonight. Earlier in the day the 82 year old senator told reporters gloomily that the ticket was lost and wouldn't go to the dinner unless it was found. Glass was at the banquet board tonight, but his aids gave no immediate explanation of where the ticket was found.

Urges Larger Navy

EDISON RETREATS ON PROPOSAL FOR NAVAL DICTATOR

Overlooked Danger in Plan, He Says.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison hastened to assure congress today that he was not "selling democracy short" when he recently proposed that President Roosevelt be vested with war powers to commandeer factories, materials, and ships, fix wages and allocate industrial orders.

Testifying before the house naval affairs committee, Edison said he was taken completely by surprise by the commotion stirred up by his proposal.

Representative Paul W. Shafer [R., Mich.] called the secretary's suggestion a bold proposal to put into force in peacetime the industrial mobilization plan.

Brands It Dictatorship Plan.

"In other words," Shafer commented, "the new secretary of the navy—undoubtedly with the approval of the President—has proposed setting up a military dictatorship in this country at once.

"The industrial mobilization plan never was intended to be brought into operation unless war became imminent. It therefore is pertinent to inquire with what countries we are going to war? The American people are entitled to an explanation of this singular and sinister action."

Edison said in reply that he had thought his recommendation merely was bringing up to date an old world war act of 1917, which still is on the statute books.

Edison Says He Missed Point.

"Various congressmen and the press have seen in the proposal implications that I confess I must have missed," Edison declared. "If they are right and there really are possibilities inimical to our democratic system in this proposal, I just made a mistake in making it.

"National defense exists to defend our liberties and not to nullify them. I am glad our system of checks and balances is working and that a free press exists to make it articulate.

"We of the navy merely hoped that thru looking ahead and planning, we might avoid the chaos and confusion that attended our entrance into the world war, should the United States ever be forced into another one. It is our job to be ready."

Stark Asks More Ships.

Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, appeared before the committee in support of a bill by Chairman Carl Vinson [D., Ga.] authorizing a 25 per cent increase in naval tonnage and an increase in the navy's air force to 6,000 planes, at a total cost of 1 billion, 300 million dollars.

Stark testified that other nations are building warships rapidly and that the United States will be relatively weak in naval power unless congress authorizes further construction.

"The situation is rife with possibilities of a general European war, and in conjunction with far eastern conditions, presents a threat of world conflagration," Stark declared.

The new bill will provide 107 new ships, including 30 auxiliary vessels.

RAISING OF DEBT LIMIT TO BE PUT UP TO CONGRESS

Unwanted Alternative Is Boost in Taxes.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—Congress will be called upon to increase the present 45 billion dollar statutory national debt limit before the end of the next fiscal year. This appeared certain today when the administration leadership rejected the Harrison plan for a special investigation of President Roosevelt's budget and tax recommendations.

The resolution submitted by Senator Pat Harrison [D., Miss.], chairman of the finance committee, calling for a study of the President's fiscal program by a joint congressional committee of 24 members, probably will pass the senate on Wednesday, the next meeting day. The administration leadership agreed to its passage by the senate, it was learned, on the understanding that it will be chloroformed in the house of representatives.

Senate Debates Resolution.

The senate debated the resolution today, but Senator Harrison was unable to obtain unanimous consent for its immediate consideration because of Republican demands that a special committee be created to investigate the nation's defense requirements and military policy.

Senator Harrison favored such an investigation, since it was in the name of increased expenditures for armaments that Mr. Roosevelt called for 460 million dollars in new taxes, but took the position that one committee should handle the whole subject.

"The committee would certainly want to go into all matters relating to national defense, because the finance committee in my opinion does not want to have to increase taxes unless it is absolutely necessary," Senator Harrison declared. "But senators, be sure of this: If we keep spending it means increased taxes, or an increase in the limitation on the national debt.

Against More Taxes.

"I wish that by a meeting of minds and by collaboration we could reduce these appropriations in such a way that it would appeal to congress—to the point where we could avoid any increased taxes and any increase in the national debt.

"In my opinion, we are at a point where we must synchronize expenditures with government receipts. The message the President has just handed us is one of the most important budget messages that has come to congress, there are so many difficult problems which are put in our laps to solve.

"We all know the state of the treasury. We know how government expenditures have increased during the last 10 or 12 years. We know that the national debt has increased from some 18 billion dollars to almost 45 billion dollars, the statuory limit."

Increasing Debt Likely.

Since the congressional opposition to new taxes, as expressed by Senator Harrison, is so strong as to make any such possibility extremely remote in a Presidential election year, congress will be confronted by the alternatives of increasing the statutory debt limit or slashing the appropriations total of 8 billion 424 million dollars recommended for the fiscal year 1941 by Mr. Roosevelt.

There are strong indications that congress will reject some of the President's so-called emergency armaments estimates, but there is little likelihood that the appropriations total will be held below 8½ billion dollars. Congress, therefore, will be forced to increase the statutory debt limit to provide for further borrowing and deficit financing during the next fiscal year.

The President estimated that the national debt, now in excess of 42 billion dollars, would be 44 billion 938 million by the end of the 1941 fiscal year even if congress should vote 460 million dollars of new taxes.

A projected deficit that would necessitate increasing the debt limit during the 1941 fiscal year, however, would not require such action prior to the Presidential election in November. Congress could put this task off until January, 1941, when the second half of the fiscal year begins.

Opposition to the administration's new 1 billion, 300 million dollar naval expansion bill was expressed during the senate debate by Senator David I. Walsh [D., Mass.], chairman of the naval affairs committee.

WAR SHOWS NEED FOR PLANES WITH 380 MILE SPEEDS

Next Lesson Learned Is 'More Fire Power.'

BY WAYNE THOMIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Jan. 8.—The need for speed and more speed for fighting planes of all types seems to be the chief lesson taught by actual aerial combat during the brief months of the European war. This was learned here from a number of general staff officers of the army air corps attending the all-American air maneuvers which closed yesterday.

Confidential reports from observers with both sides in the European conflict, according to these officers, indicate that the current 350 mile an hour speeds of fighting planes soon will be exceeded by at least 100 miles an hour. And the 300 mile an hour bombers in use by German and British-French squadrons are to be supplanted by machines capable of 360 to 380 miles an hour.

Follows World War Trend.

In this respect the current war is following the trends of the 1914-'18 conflict, these air corps experts say. In the world war every emphasis of designers was laid upon speed. Airplane speeds rose from about 70 miles an hour in 1914 to 140 miles an hour at the end of the war.

And the power developed by military airplane engines was more than doubled. The earliest ships had Gnome-Rhone motors of 90 to 100 horse power. At the end of the war the 400 horse power Liberty motor was in use. The 1,000 horse power motors of today's military planes in Europe will be overshadowed by next summer with 2,500 horse power engines already perfected, it is said.

Next to speed, the emphasis in Europe, according to high army officials, is upon fire power.

Carry Eight Machine Guns.

The British fighting planes pack the heaviest wallop, it is said, because both the Hawker Hurricane and the Supermarine Spitfire carry eight Browning machine guns each. French fighters, both the native Morane 406 and the American Curtiss Hawk, carry four guns.

The German fighters, both the Messerschmidtts and the Heinkels, carry either four machine guns and a light cannon or two light cannon and two machine guns. Neither of these arrangements has been found as effective as the British plan.

Consequently the trend is toward employment of light caliber machine guns in large numbers on fighters, and the use of light cannon—23 or 27 millimeter—on bombers. The purpose of this is to outrange the fighters if possible. It has been found that once the fighters close with bombers the latter generally are downed.

Fly at 25,000 Feet.

Indications during the first weeks of the war were that this time the aerial battles would be fought at heights of 4,000 to 20,000 feet—about the altitudes used during the last war. But in recent weeks German bombers and reconnaissance planes have been flying at 25,000 feet or higher.

One officer told a story of how a British pilot flying a Hawker Hurricane fighter chased a German Dornier 217 bomber to 27,000 feet before catching and shooting it down. The Dornier's top speed, according to this pilot, was just over 300 miles an hour. The Hurricane, wide open and doing nearly 340 miles an hour, had a long chase before catching its quarry.

Another important lesson, according to reports, is the need for long range multimotored reconnaissance planes.

This need was recognized earlier by American air force squadrons. Some of the flying fortress bombers—the big Boeing B-17 four motored ships—have been considered reconnaissance machines for two years.

Now the British are using their Lockheed Hudson bombers, their twin engined Blenheim bombers, and several other heavy long range planes, originally conceived as bombardment types, for this work.

REVEAL BRITISH KNEW ALL ABOUT U. S. MAIL CARGO

ROME, Jan. 8 (AP).—How thoroly the British contraband control purs its game is shown in the story reaching Rome from Gibraltar, a Mediterranean control point. The captain of an Italian ship, unsympathetic toward the British officer who came aboard, said no one on the liner spoke English. The inspector held the ship six hours while he sent ashore for an interpreter thru whom he asked the captain if he had 1,250 sacks of mail from the United States. When the captain replied, "Yes," the inspector said, "We would like to have sack 350. It contains a registered package of diamonds consigned to Germany." Sack 350 yielded the package of diamonds—which was confiscated.

Chooses Jail

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Patricia Winfrey, 27 years old, in Los Angeles jail yesterday.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 8 [Special].—Patricia Winfrey, 27 years old, New York dancer who came here to seek a movie career, was in jail today, declaring she preferred a cell to a job as a strip tease dancer. Patrolman Ross Gray said Miss Winfrey tossed a brick thru a store window to attract his attention and then told him: "The only jobs I can get are strip tease dancing, and I'd rather starve." She said her money ran out Saturday and that her landlady evicted her. She was charged with malicious mischief.

ASKS CONGRESS FOR 60 MILLION LOAN TO FINLAND

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8 (AP).—Senator Prentiss M. Brown [D., Mich.] proposed a $60,000,000 loan to Finland today while Senator Carter Glass [D., Va.], usually an economy advocate, declared that he would support additional government borrowing for the purpose.

Brown's bill, similar to one introduced in the house by Representative Frank E. Hook [D., Mich.], would authorize an RFC loan with no strings attached. The Export-Import bank has extended $10,000,000 in credits to Finland for the purchase of agricultural surpluses and other civilian supplies. Brown would enable Finland to buy arms here and elsewhere.

Senator Alexander Wiley [R., Wis.] objected that power to lend or give money to a nation at war "is not conferred upon the congress" and expressed doubt that international law would sanction such assistance.

Meanwhile the state department informed the league of nations, in reply to a query as to what extent the United States would help Finland, that it was dealing directly with that country on its requests for material and humanitarian assistance.

5 OHIO FLYERS LAND DISABLED PLANE ON ATOLL

NASSAU, Bahamas, Jan. 8 (AP).—With the engine almost torn from their plane by a broken propellor, five Youngstown, O., flyers landed their disabled craft on a tiny atoll in the Atlantic ocean 150 miles off Miami today. The flyers, participating in a Miami-to-Nassau pleasure cavalcade following the all-American air races, were picked up uninjured and brought here. They are Robert Myers, Hartford Arkwright, Ralph Seidner and James Tobin, all machinists, and John Blom, a druggist.

REPORT ROUSES HOPE OF CHICAGO AIR LABORATORY

Congressman Church Cites Advice of N. A. C. A.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—Representative Ralph E. Church [R., Ill.] declared today that prospects appeared favorable for establishment of a government airplane engine research laboratory in the middle west, preferably in the Chicago area.

Church referred to the 25th annual report of the national advisory committee for aeronautics submitted to congress today.

"Because of the increasing relative importance of aeronautics in national defense and in transportation," the report stated, "the committee believes that the needs of the country justify a further immediate expansion of research activities in two directions, namely, the establishment of an engine research laboratory, and additional stimulation of aeronautical research in educational and scientific institutions."

Previous Finding Endorsed.

The report then indorsed the recommendations of a committee headed by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh which made a special survey on aeronautical research facilities. The Lindbergh committee had said:

"As a result of its studies, this committee finds that there is a serious lack of engine research facilities in the United States, and that it is of the utmost importance for the development of aviation in general, and for our defense program in particular, to take immediate steps to remedy this deficiency.

"This committee, therefore, urgently recommends that an engine research laboratory be constructed at the earliest possible date in a location easily accessible to the aircraft engine industry. At the present time American facilities for research on aircraft power plants are inadequate and cannot be compared with the facilities for research in other major fields of aviation."

Chicago Called Logical Site.

Representative Church declared that the middle west should be favored for the location of the proposed engine research laboratory and that Chicago or its vicinity offered the most logical site. He and other middle western congressmen will press for selection of a site for the new laboratory in the middle west.

The advisory committee's report said that the most significant event of the year, in its relation to the future of American aeronautics, was authorization of a second major aeronautical research station for the committee. The site finally selected was Moffett field, Cal., about 38 miles south of San Francisco.

Previous Effort Fails.

An unsuccessful attempt was made to persuade the committee that this research station should be located in the interior and not on the west coast. The other main station is at Langley field, Va., and it was pointed out that both laboratories would be subject to attack by an enemy's sea and air power.

Having lost out in the contest to obtain this laboratory, the middle west should be in line for the new engine research laboratory, Church said, remarking that the advantages of such a location should be apparent to the committee.

SEE SEAWAY DEAL REVIVED BY WAR NEEDS OF CANADA

Niagara Power Would Be Freed at Once.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 8.—Progress is said to have been made today at the opening consultations between United States and Canadian officials preliminary to formal negotiations for revival of the St. Lawrence waterway and power project.

The talks revealed that there is substantial agreement between the dominion and Ontario governments over division of the power costs should the international negotiations be successful.

Ontario Needs More Power.

Why the project was revived by Canada after the last United States proposal lay dormant for more than a year came clearly into view. Authoritative sources here said there is an immediate need for increased hydroelectric energy for Canadian war munitions plants, especially in Ontario. Consumption is climbing so fast that it is feared Ontario will face a power shortage before 1943. The province's need can be met if the waterway project goes thru, not from the St. Lawrence scheme itself, because the power thus generated probably will not be available for five or six years, but from extra power at Niagara falls. This can be tapped almost at once if agreement on the larger project is reached. It is estimated an additional million horsepower could be developed immediately at Niagara and upper lake points.

Pact Limits Output.

Power developed at Niagara is limited by the international agreement of 1909. President Roosevelt is said here to have declined a separate agreement covering Niagara falls and the Long lake and Ogoki diversions demanded by Premier Mitchell Hepburn in 1938. The future of Ontario power development hangs, therefore, on the fate of the waterway negotiations and this is said to have caused Hepburn to change his attitude toward the project.

The St. Lawrence development, it is said, would produce 2,000,000 horsepower.

AMERICAN SHOT DEAD BY BANDIT ON MEXICAN ROAD

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8 (AP).—Charles White Eagle of Salt Lake City was shot dead by a highwayman on the Pan-American highway in Mexico, the state department said today. The shooting took place on Saturday in the state of Tamaulipas, about 18 miles south of Linares. The American consul general at Monterrey, Mexico, Doyle C. McDonough, reported to the state department that the American was accompanied by his wife and Mrs. Keren Jorgensen, who were not injured.

ROOSEVELT NAMES GAUSS TO BE FIRST AUSTRALIAN ENVOY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8 (AP).—President Roosevelt nominated Clarence E. Gauss of Connecticut today to be the first American minister to Australia. Formal diplomatic relations between Australia and this country have just been established. Previously Australia has transacted diplomatic business with Washington thru the British embassy. Gauss recently has been American consul general in Shanghai.

Ald. Jourdain to Address Evanston Clergymen Today

Frank Campbell of the 8th ward, defeated an ouster movement last Tuesday night by a council vote of 9 to 7, will address 80 Evanston clergymen this noon in St. Andrew's Episcopal church. Jourdain's topic is "This Evanston." He and Campbell were accused of malfeasance in connection with a driveway permit.

BUILDERS OF CHICAGO (20)

By CALEB

AMONG the truly picturesque and inspiring careers of earlier Chicago days is that of John T. Pirie, born on August 26, 1827, in Errol, Scotland, son of a quiet, industrious Scotch cabinetmaker and upholsterer. His mother was Mary Hawkins, of a York family; and John's schooling was limited to the Presbyterian parish school, whose atmosphere he left at thirteen to become an errand-boy to a Glasgow ship-broker. Two years of that, and the lad went over to the employ of an uncle in Newry, Ireland, to learn all he could about the drygoods business.

This uncle soon found in his young nephew an able and dependable chap, fitted for greater affairs than errands; and erelong he had become buyer for one of the store's leading departments. It was in this Irish setting that he met another young business venturer, Samuel Carson. A friendship sprang up between them; and soon after, the pair were working for John Arnett & Company, of Belfast. Not satisfied to serve others, young Pirie and Carson decided to open a drygoods store in Crookston, Ireland, and had even paid six months' rent in advance—when they ran into a third friend, Robert Murray, just back from Peru, Illinois.

Murray was "doing fine" out there—Pirie and Carson elected to cast their fortunes with a new country, and sailed from Belfast for America on August 26, 1854. There, both worked just long enough with James Beck & Company to "learn the ropes"; then, with the help of Murray, secured credit and opened a store in La Salle, Ill., in 1854. It prospered: a better prospect appeared in Amboy, and thither moved Carson and Pirie again. The men's fame as sterling merchants spread through the country roundabout—ten years after leaving Ireland, they had no debts, $50,000, and a chance to begin bigger operations in Chicago.

The first Carson-Pirie jobbing store started business in 1864 at 20 Lake street; and from Newry, Ireland, two brothers, George and Robert Scott, were summoned to manage their retail stores in Amboy, Polo and Mendota. But Chicago operations flourished; and the name was soon changed to Carson Pirie Scott & Company.

The Amboy store, burned in 1864, reopened; but in the fire of 1871 they lost all but $50,000 in merchandise. Mr. Carson died in 1869, but Pirie insisted his name be retained. Marrying in 1857, John T. Pirie had four sons and three daughters. His death on April 24, 1913, removed a figure who had been in the forefront of the early Chicago scene; but the impress of his character and record upon the city's activities is still contemporary.

JAPAN TO LAUNCH CENTRAL PUPPET REGIME IN CHINA

Will Name Former Chinese Premier as Head.

TOKIO, Jan. 8 (AP).—The Japanese cabinet decided today that the time now was ripe for establishment of a central government for all occupied territory in China under Wang Ching-wei, former Chinese premier who is at odds with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Wang Ching-wei.

It was understood reliably that a régime similar to those already existing in Peking and Nanking would be launched immediately, but that it would not acquire actual powers until later. The Peking and Nanking governments are run nominally by Chinese coöperating with the Japanese army.

Wang, whose final break with Generalissimo Chiang came just a year ago, when he was ousted from all government and Chinese Nationalist party offices because of his friendliness with the Japanese, has been living recently in Shanghai.

Renounced Independence Goal.

Declaring Wang's aims are "in general in line with the manifest intention of the Japanese empire," the cabinet's chief secretary announced Japan would "direct all possible efforts to help in the formation and expansion of the proposed new government."

The new centralized Chinese government would supplant regional régimes now sponsored by the Japanese for control of occupied territory in North and South China and the Yangtze river valley.

Wang has wielded a powerful political influence in Chinese political life since 1905. A companion of Dr. Sun Yat-Sen in the foundation of the Chinese republic, he was named national government chairman in 1925.

The 59 year old leader has renounced his goal of an independent China to assist the Japanese in establishing a "new order in east Asia." He has explained his stand thus: "We cannot defeat the Japanese, therefore we must be friends with them. They have offered us an honorable peace." Military authorities at Shanghai proclaimed him leader of the "real Kuomintang [Nationalist party] in opposition to the National government in Chungking."

Japs Blast Railroad.

HONGKONG, Jan. 8 (AP).—Japanese airmen blasted anew today at one of China's "lifelines," the French-owned Haiphong-Kunming railway connecting French Indo-China and the sea.

The Japanese army said the first customs station on the Chinese side of the border in the Mengtsz area was raided, and that one bridge was hit directly and the railway tracks were smashed.

Chinese reports today said a force of 500 Japanese soldiers, surrounded at the farthest Japanese outpost in northern Kwangtung province, had been wiped out.

SEIZE EX-CONVICT BENEATH PORCH; HELD FOR INQUIRY

Edwin Boyle, an ex-convict, was being held as a robbery suspect by North avenue police last night. He is 38 years old. On Sunday afternoon, police said, he attempted to rob Mrs. Jennie Kovitz, 3149 Chicago avenue, at Albany and Grand avenues.

She screamed and he fled, later taking refuge under a porch in the neighborhood. Mrs. Kovitz's cries were heard by the North avenue station's "B" squad—Policeman William Burak, Al Bruns and Thomas Breen. They found Boyle under the porch. He was carrying a loaded revolver.

Police said Boyle's record goes back to 1920, when he was sentenced to nine months in the House of Correction. He was sentenced to Pontiac reformatory in 1923 for larceny and in 1929 to Joliet prison for assault to rob. He was paroled in 1935, but was returned in 1936 for parole violation. He was discharged in February, 1939. In June he was sentenced to 90 days in the House of Correction for tampering with a car. Boyle gave his address as 549 Monticello avenue.

80 Ton Roof of Reservoir Crashes; 2 Killed; 7 Hurt

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 8 (AP).—Two men were killed and seven others suffered minor injuries today when an 80 ton roof that was being placed on the Grand Rapids reservoir caved in. The dead were Emil Peterson, 53 years old, of Detroit, and Charles Dalton, 28, of Grand Rapids, both of whom died a few minutes after the concrete section dropped 25 feet without warning.

2 North Side Dog Walkers Held Up by 3 Bandits

Two dog walkers were robbed on the north side last night by three bandits. Dr. William Sher, a dentist, of 2918 Logan boulevard, visited his mother at 2912 Commonwealth avenue and took her dog for a stroll. He was stopped by the three at the Outer drive and Oakdale avenue and $45 was taken from him. James Goodwin, 504 Barry avenue, was out with his dog in Barry avenue between Broadway and Sheridan road when the same robbers held him up and took $60.

DICE GIRL FAILS TO WIN FREEDOM BY BARING HOAX

Miss Anne Schneider, 19 years old, has admitted it was all a hoax. She is not the daughter of an Austrian baron, now a German general. She is not an expert pilot and parachute jumper. She did not flee Vienna society to become a Chicago dice girl. And burglars did not steal jewelry worth $33,000 from her room at 5012 Winthrop avenue as she reported to the police.

Anne Schneider.

Yesterday her attorney, Robert Kahn, explained to Judge J. M. Braude in the Jury court that "five bottles of Christmas cheer" caused the illusions. Miss Schneider, daughter of an Austrian farmer, still insists there was some kind of a burglary.

Judge Braude continued her case until today, pending completion of a sanity examination and an investigation by immigration authorities of her entrance into this country two years ago.

BUCKNER SENTENCE TO PRISON UPHELD BY U. S. APPEALS COURT

New York, Jan. 8 (AP).—The conviction of William P. Buckner Jr., promoter; William J. Gillespie, broker, and Felipe Buencamino, member of the Philippine assembly, on charges of conspiracy to defraud holders of Philippine Railway bonds was affirmed today by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

William Buckner.

The court reversed the conviction of Buckner and Gillespie on two of the six mail fraud counts but affirmed their conviction on four other counts. Buencamino was convicted only of conspiracy.

Buckner was sentenced to two years in prison and fined $2,500 last July 6. Gillespie and Buencamino each was sentenced to 18 months in prison, and fined $5,000 and $2,500 respectively. Buckner, a debonair man-about-town and one time suitor of Loretta Young, film actress, was chairman of the Philippine Railway bondholders' committee.

11 LEADING N. Y. DOCTORS RESIGN FROM HOSPITAL

New York, Jan. 8 [Special].—Eleven of the leading physicians and surgeons at the Sydenham hospital, in upper Manhattan, resigned today. Up to fifty more resignations were threatened tomorrow. Among those resigning were fellows of the Academy of Medicine, fellows of the American College of Surgeons, a past president and the president elect of the New York County Medical society.

Their action was denounced as a "mutiny" by Gustavus A. Rogers, a former president of the County Lawyers' association, who undertook the presidency of the hospital a month ago after contributing to the relief of its operating deficit.

Rogers recognized the "rebellion," as he also termed it, as directed against him and eleven new directors whom he had added to the eight formerly constituting the lay board of directors of the hospital. The issue, Rogers said, was "medical bossism"—the doctors wanted the lay directors to confine themselves to money raising and to let the doctors run the hospital.

AL CAPONE QUITS HOSPITAL; TAKES BALTIMORE HOME

Will Continue to Receive Medical Treatment.

The transfer was effected early this morning and announced several hours later by the former gang leader's physician, Dr. Joseph E. Moore, and his brother, John Capone of Villanova, Pa. For almost eight weeks Capone had been receiving treatment for a brain ailment which developed while he was in federal prisons for seven years of a ten year sentence for income tax evasion.

Still in Need of Rest.

Statements from John Capone and Dr. Moore pictured the former boss gangster as still chronically ill and in need of rest and quiet and continued medical treatment for many months. In addition, John remarked: "The Al Capone of today isn't the Al Capone of a few years ago."

Dr. Moore's statement said: "The illness is a long standing nervous disorder for which he has recently undergone drastic treatment and for which further medical care is still necessary."

Mother to Live with Him.

He added it was too soon to make any statement as to the ultimate result of the treatment, but that Capone's condition now made care out side a hospital readily feasible. Later Dr. Moore said Capone is better than he was when he entered the hospital and that the treatment has been effective.

John Capone said Al's mother, wife, and another brother, Albert, would live with him in the attractive brick house in northwest Baltimore.

Capone will be able to take short walks and engage in other mild activity from now on, according to Dr. Moore.

PAL OF MANGANO PLEADS GUILTY IN POLICE SLAYING

The trial of Jerry Mangano, 22 years old, charged with the murder of Park Policeman Harry Francois, was deferred yesterday until today by Judge John Sbarbaro of the Criminal court. Mangano's attorney, James M. Burke, said he would seek to have the trial transferred to another county because of newspaper publicity.

Mangano, police said, confessed killing the policeman during an attempted holdup on Nov. 20. Italo Begani, 16, one of Mangano's two accomplices, yesterday pleaded guilty, despite a warning by the court that he can be sentenced to death. The third defendant, Joseph Russano, 18, was granted a separate trial.

ADMITS SETTING 8 FIRES BECAUSE HE HATES TRASH

Andrew C. Staudinger, 28 years old, a stock clerk, yesterday confessed to North Damen avenue police that he had set eight fires in the neighborhood since Nov. 6.

Andrew Staudinger.

Staudinger was arrested early yesterday in his home at 3448 North Damen avenue by Detectives Robert Badgley and George Wanland. He told them he set two fires Nov. 6, five Nov. 8, one Nov. 11, which he immediately extinguished, and one last Saturday.

The last fire destroyed a garage and two automobiles in the rear of 3414 North Seeley avenue. The other blazes were discovered before causing any damage. Staudinger said he objected to rubbish piles.

TEST YOUR HORSE SENSE

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE, PH. D.

HOWARD L. BEVIS MADE PRESIDENT OF OHIO STATE U.

Comes from Harvard Business School.

Columbus, O., Jan 8 (AP).—Howard L. Bevis, Harvard university professor and former Ohio Supreme court judge, was elected president of Ohio State university today. Bevis, 55 years old, succeeds Dr. George W. Rightmire, retired, as head of the fifth largest university in the nation.

Howard L. Bevis.

The election, by unanimous vote of the trustees, filled a vacancy which had existed since July 1, 1938, when Dr. Rightmire retired from the presidency. Since that time Dr. William McPherson, a noted chemistry author, has been acting president. He was 74 years old when he took the job until a new president could be found.

State Director of Finance.

Bevis is a member of a pioneer Ohio family and was active in state affairs until his appointment in 1935 as professor in Harvard's school of business administration. He is a native of Bevis, O.

He entered educational work in 1921 as a member of the faculty of the University of Cincinnati and headed the school's law department 10 years.

In 1931, former Gov. George White named him as state director of finance. When a vacancy occurred in the Supreme court, Bevis was appointed to the bench and served two years. Seeking reëlection, he was defeated, but Gov. Martin L. Davey named him finance director. Bevis served six months before accepting the Harvard chair.

Scores of candidates were considered by the trustees during their search for a president. Dr. Arthur H. Compton, noted physicist of the University of Chicago, declined. Once the trustees were reported virtually agreed upon Dr. James G. McDonald, president of the Brooklyn Institute of Fine Arts and Science, but he said he was not interested.

Acceptable to Bricker.

Bevis, who is registered as a Democrat, was reported highly acceptable to Republican Gov. John W. Bricker. They are personal friends.

The new president is the author of several books on jurisprudence. He was educated at the University of Cincinnati and Harvard.

The trustees said Bevis would come here next Sunday or Monday to discuss administrative details and salary. Dr. Rightmire started with a $15,000 a year salary, but it was cut to $10,300 in 1932.

Building Owners Promise Aid in Fight on Smoke

Eleven owners of buildings or operators of heating plants promised inspectors of the city smoke abatement department yesterday that they will improve conditions in their heating plants to reduce smoke nuisances. The city smoke department, headed by Frank A. Chambers, is carrying on its winter campaign to abate smoke.

COURTNEY BACKS JURY ATTACK ON GAMING TRIALS

State's Attorney Courtney's office made a vigorous defense yesterday of the September grand jury's action in returning a supplementary report attacking gambling conditions in Chicago and Cook county.

The right of the grand jury to render such a report was challenged Dec. 28 by attorneys for Judge George B. Weiss of the Municipal court. They petitioned Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court to expunge all or parts of the report.

The state's attorney's office filed its answer to the petition yesterday. Judge Prystalski will hear arguments tomorrow.

The report to which Judge Weiss objected in behalf of himself and fellow judges declared gambling was widespread and practically unmolested. It condemned the practice of making hundreds of arrests as nothing but a sham. It assailed the resulting parade of defendants thru a branch of the Municipal court [the Rackets court] without convictions.

The state contended that the petition failed to show Judge Weiss was acting for all judges of the Municipal court, or that the report affected his legal rights or the rights of any Municipal judge.

There Are Two Ways to Get at Constipation

Yes, and only two ways—before and after it happens! Instead of enduring those dull, tired, headachy days and then having to take an emergency cathartic—why not KEEP regular with Kellogg's All-Bran? You can, if your constipation is the kind millions have—due to lack of "bulk" in the diet. For All-Bran goes right to the cause of this trouble by supplying the "bulk" you need.

Eat this toasted, nutritious cereal regularly—with milk or cream, or baked into muffins—drink plenty of water, and see if your life isn't a whole lot brighter! Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

LAKE SEARCHED AFTER REPORT OF BOAT IN DISTRESS

Coast guard crews from the Old Chicago station at the mouth of the Chicago river and from Wilmette spent five hours last night searching the lake off Thorndale avenue after receiving a report by telephone that a boat was in distress because of the heavy ice floes.

The coast guardsmen found nothing to substantiate the alarm, but did lead in the fishing boat Frances Herold, which was having trouble finding a clear path thru the ice. Reports by telephone said the mystery boat was burning distress flares, but the crew of the fishing boat said they had not used such signals.

During the search, Robert Erickson, 21 years old, assistant harbor master at Belmont harbor, saw lights at the end of the ice a mile out. He set out with a line and life preserver. When he failed to reappear, a search was started for him, but it developed he had seen the lights of the coast guard cutter Colfax and had boarded it when he came to the edge of the ice.

SHARECROPPERS USE SIGNBOARDS TO URGE U. S. AID

Sikeston, Mo., Jan. 8 (AP).—New fire was fanned today around the problem of caring for homeless sharecropper families overflowing cotton growing counties in this area.

Thru the medium of large wooden signboards and handbills, the croppers appealed to President Roosevelt and Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace to come to their aid.

The signs were erected during the night, on the sites of several crude camps which dotted the roadsides in a tri-county area a year ago this week during a demonstration of workers protesting their economic plight.

The signboards charged "the planters' abuse of New Deal cotton control" drove them to the roadside in midwinter.

The signs bore the signature "The Man Without a Hoe."

Charges that the workers did not receive their just share of AAA payments were denied by landowners and planters, who are organizing to assist the government in a vast sharecropper resettlement program.

Young, in making this disclosure today, said the movie comedian will be in a cast for five weeks. Joe's station wagon, in a collision with another car, rolled down an embankment. His injuries were believed minor at first.

Does Dandruff Cause Baldness?

THREE Major scalp ills, defined by specialists as types of dandruff, are said to cause more than 80% of all cases of baldness. Dandruff is, therefore, definitely a serious local scalp ailment which will lead to baldness unless given highly specialized attention.

Haphazard or cure-all treatment rarely overcomes dandruff. To combat it effectively you must first determine which type of dandruff is attacking your hair-growing structure, and then direct treatment to specifically overcome that particular type. Thomas treatment does precisely this!

How to Avoid Baldness

Thomas experts know how to recognize and effectively treat the three types of dandruff as well as various other local scalp troubles which cause baldness. Thomas treatment definitely combats your dandruff, checks abnormal hair-fall, and promotes natural hair growth for you.

More than a quarter million persons have ended scalp troubles by The Thomas' method. Thomas can help you, too, to have a good head of hair. Come in person today to the nearest Thomas office. No charge is ever made for scalp examination, advice, or consultation (always in private).

where the JOURNAL begins new, Living Answer Editorship this month in the first chapter of "HOW AMERICA LIVES"

Do you know people like these—in any of these places? Maybe you will know the very ones selected to share their experiences, their questions and the Journal's Living Answers in this great new story of America, "How America Lives."

For beginning with the February issue, on the stands tomorrow, the Journal will make friends for its millions of readers with "people next door" all over America. For the first time in history, the departments of a magazine will be edited from inside real American homes. One home each month. Some of them are still statistical dots. Others have already been chosen to be part of this giant project.

The new kind of editorship created by the Journal and introduced in the current issue makes possible an extension of the real spirit of American neighborliness straight across the country. The "May-I-borrow-a-cup-of-sugar-and-I'll-send-you-part-of-my-special-sponge-cake" spirit of your own community. The spirit that every one hopes will insure the future of American life, of American business, of democracy . . . and that every one is anxious to extend, as never before, to a greater majority of their 130,000,000 American neighbors.

REVEAL GARAGE GROUP FORMED IN UNION OFFICE

Grand Jury to Investigate Slaying Today.

Murder Background

THE CRIME — Marinus Hvid, a garage owner, was beaten fatally by labor sluggers 13 days ago. No clew to the identity of the slayers has been found.

THE RECORD — Hvid's murder was the 32d labor slaying in Chicago in the last nine years. There has been a conviction in only one case.

Investigation of the murder of Marinus Hvid, a north side garage owner, brought the admission yesterday that the Affiliated Garages of Chicago, an association of garage owners, was organized in 1937 in the office of the Auto Livery Chauffeurs, Taxicab Drivers, and Garage Helpers' union, the union which called the strike against Hvid's garage. The union called the strike a few days after Hvid had been ousted by the association.

This disclosure was made by Emil Mermall, executive director of the association. It accompanied an announcement by William Crawford and John Long of State's Attorney Courtney's prosecuting staff that the grand jury will open an inquiry today into the fatal beating of Hvid by labor goons Dec. 27. It was expected the inquiry would extend to all other recent labor violence.

Jail Term Exposed.

Other developments yesterday in the Hvid case were:

1. The revelation by the state's attorney's office that Mermall served a jail term in 1932 for conspiracy. He and four others pleaded guilty of conspiracy to defraud the Checker Taxicab company thru a false accident claim.

2. Announcement of additional evidence supporting the charge that the garage owners' association had financed the union picketing of Hvid's garage at 3514 North Halsted street. Capt. Patrick O'Connell of the Town Hall station said that a witness reported having overheard a union officer tell Hvid that the expenses of the picketing were not being borne by the union.

Tells of Forming Union.

Mermall told Crawford that in September of 1937 the garage union announced it was going to cancel its wage contract and seek a new one containing wage increases. He said he was operating a small garage in the west side at the time, and called a meeting of owners to consider the proposal to revise the contract.

He said the union asked the garage owners to come to the union office, and when he went there he found 50 other owners present. They asked the union officers to leave the room for a while, Mermall continued.

"Then we agreed we would ask for an extension of the old contract and decided that we ought to form our own association," he said.

Another meeting was held and the garage owners' association drew up a charter. A contract with the union was signed in January, 1938.

Four Others Sentenced.

Prosecutor Crawford said Mermall admitted having served 10 days in jail in the taxicab fraud. The case involved $600 which the taxi company paid in settlement of an accident on May 2, 1932. The accident later was found to have been a fake. Four others were sentenced in the case, two of them to terms in prison.

The new evidence linking the garage owners' association with the union was in the form of an affidavit, Capt. O'Connell said it was made by a witness who told of hearing William Bibby, union business agent, threaten Hvid more than a month before the latter wah slugged. The witness said Bibby told Hvid:

"We don't care what you do about the strike. We aren't paying the freight on it."

Capt. O'Connell said that another person who was present at the time of this conversation is being sought.

Denies Financing Strike.

"It's ridiculous to charge that we financed the strike," Mermall told Crawford. "We had no further interest in the matter after Hvid was expelled from the association."

Mermall said Hvid was expelled because he was cutting prices. He said the 350 members of the association are assessed dues based on their location, their garage capacity, and the amount of their business.

He said dues are fixed after the association's budget has been set. Last year's dues brought in approximately $1,800 a month, or $21,600 a year, he said. His salary was $100 a week, or $5,200 a year, and his expenses were about $9,000, he said. He said that the balance of the association's income, $7,400, went for office rent, rental of meeting halls, a stenographer's salary, and the salary of two field men. He said he was unable to give a detailed account of his outlay for expenses.

Resents Strike Inference.

"Our members are a group of high class business men," Mermall said. "They don't like the inference that we had any connection with the strike. The executive board is going to meet tomorrow, and I intend to recommend that a substantial reward be offered to aid police in finding the slayers of Hvid."

Prosecutors Crawford and Long said that the first witnesses before the grand jury inquiry will be W. P. Enzweiler, treasurer of the garage owners' association, and B. B. Adams, its president. They will be questioned about details of the association's management.

GRAND JURY ACTION TO BE SOUGHT TODAY FOR UNION SLUGGING

Joseph Kopsky and Henry Hlavacek, union business agents who were arrested last Saturday after a vicious attack on a butcher shop worker, were ordered booked on charges of assault with intent to kill yesterday by Judge Joseph Drucker of the Felony court. Assistant State's Attorney Morris Meyers will present the case to the grand jury today.

State's attorney's police continued their investigation of two other slugings attributed to the two officials by the butcher shop employé, Louis Mikolajczyk, 51 years old. Mikolajczyk, who lives at 3036 Cullerton avenue, charged that the agents slugged a nonunion worker three weeks ago in a butcher shop near 27th street and Millard avenue, and also asserted that they beat another butcher worker so severely a year ago that he was sent to the hospital.

Kopsky resides at 1845 23d place, and Klavacek lives at 1533 South Cuyler avenue, Berwyn. They were released on bonds of $5,000 each by Judge Drucker, who continued the case until Jan. 18. Lieut. Thomas Kelly of the state's attorney's police said a revolver found in Hlavacek's home will be subjected to a ballistics test.

HOODLUMS TAKE DRIVER OFF HIS TRUCK; WRECK IT

Two armed hoodlums yesterday forced Henry Ioviano, 30 years old, a nonunion driver, out of his bread truck at Halsted and 15th streets and drove the truck away.

They made no attempt to rob him, and police are investigating the possibility the gunmen were labor terrorists. Ioviano, who lives at 1103 Lytle street, is employed by the Reda bakery, 717 South Carpenter street, which is a member of the Italian Bakers' association. Bakery officials told police they have had no union troubles. Ioviano was once a member of the bakery drivers' union, but withdrew three years ago.

Ioviano was forced to the curb by the hoodlums. They forced him out, warning, "You'll never deliver bread on the south side again." Then they drove away in the truck, followed by their own car driven by an accomplice. The truck was found wrecked later at Polk and Jefferson streets.

Capt. Daniel Gilbert and Assistant State's Attorney Morris G. Meyers will launch an investigation today.

CHARGES LAWYER FOR NLRB WORKS OPENLY FOR C. I. O.

House Probers in Uproar Over Counsel's Expose.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8 (AP).—The house committee investigating the National Labor Relations board was thrown into an uproar today when the committee's counsel charged that the board employed an attorney who had told workmen that he was working for the C. I. O.

Edmund M. Toland.

Committee members fell to quarreling over the fairness of their inquiry and before quiet was restored Representative Harry N. Routzohn [R., O.] had accused Charles Fahy, the labor board's general counsel, of suggesting questions to friendly committee members in trying to bait the committee's own attorney, Edmund M. Toland.

Demands "Other Side."

After the testimony regarding the pro-C. I. O. attorney, Representative Abe Murdock [D., Utah] protested that Toland should have asked Board Chairman J. Warren Madden for his side of the case. Committee Chairman Howard W. Smith [D., Va.] replied that the committee had agreed to hear later from all persons mentioned critically. Then Representative Routzhon, asserting Fahy was fully aware of this agreement, interposed:

"Mr. Fahy has been sitting at this table almost in the same position as the committee itself, and all of the interruptions that we have had and the attempted baiting of our counsel is due entirely to Mr. Fahy passing up to members of this committee questions to be asked, interruptions to be presented to the counsel, in order to throw him off his track."

C. I. O. Boost Is Quoted.

Toland presented records which he said showed that witnesses in a case against the American Radiator company of Litchfield, Ill., had quoted Jack Davis, a board lawyer, as saying:

"Of course, you know that I am working for the C. I. O. and the C. I. O. will benefit you by back pay."

Toland named one of those quoted as Ray Chaplin. He attributed other statements concerning Davis to H. E. Eller.

The committee counsel also introduced evidence that a witness in a labor board case against the American Radiator company had accused Davis of asking the witness to say that the closing was a lockout.

From Mrs. Julius Schlezinger of Arlington, Va., 29 year old attorney in the review division of the labor board, Toland tried vainly to learn who and what were responsible for the board deciding that the closing was a lockout after first holding that it was not.

Tells of Reversing Ruling.

Mrs. Schlezinger, who said she had worked on cases involving the Ford Motor company and other large concernes, altho she never had practiced law privately, testified she could not remember which board member told her to change the findings. She had prepared a tentative decision, at the board's request, finding that the American Radiator company had not closed the plant to discourage union organization.

Toland said the personnel file of Davis shows he now is in the board's litigation division. He had been recommended by Senator Robert F. Wagner [D., N. Y.], and the late Senator Royal S. Copeland [D., N. Y.].

Fahy declared Davis had been disciplined. He did not say what had been done, but a board spokesman told reporters that the attorney had been reprimanded orally and refused a raise in pay.

Shoe Factory Workers Go on Strike Against Unions

Binghamton, N. Y., Jan. 8 [Special].—Thousands of workers poured from Endicott-Johnson shoe factories in Johnson City today in an antiunion demonstration. They carried placards protesting against joining any union. Company executives asked the workers to break up the demonstration and either go back to work or get off the streets. The workers, however, declared were were on strike just to prove what it would be like if either the Committee of Industrial Organizations or the American Federation of Labor wins tomorrow's election to determine the union status of about 14,000 workers. The election is under auspices of the National Labor Relations board.

BRIDGES OUSTER DROPPED; PASS NEW ALIEN BILL

Madam Perkins Approves Landis Finding.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, today canceled a deportation warrant issued in 1938 against Harry Bridges, alien C. I. O. leader on the Pacific coast.

At the same time the senate passed a bill which provides for immediate deportation of any alien who admits or is convicted of engaging in espionage or sabotage affecting the national defense or foreign relations of the United States of America. The bill was passed by the house before adjournment last July and was returned to that body today with minor amendments.

The government charged in the deportation proceedings started against Bridges in 1938 that the Australian labor boss was a member of the communist party and that the party advocated overthrow of the American government by force.

Landis Conducts Hearing.

James M. Landis, dean of the Harvard law school, conducted a hearing on the charges against Bridges for 10 weeks in San Francisco last fall, and finally reported his finding that Bridges was neither a member nor an affiliate of the communist party.

In canceling the warrant which would have deported Bridges, who has been in this country for 19 years, Madam Perkins said she had examined testimony given at the hearing and can find no error in Landis' conclusion.

The alien deportation bill passed by the senate is the first of a series pending on the calendar. All were passed by the house last year.

Three developments have contributed to demands in congress for drastic strengthening of the alien deportation laws. They are: Failure of Madame Perkins to press charges against Bridges until forced to do so; a Supreme court decision holding that past membership in the communist party is not a ground for deportation, and revelations of Fascist and communist activities in America by the Dies committee on un-American activities.

Hits Drug Law Violators.

The bill passed today makes deportation of an alien mandatory when he has been convicted in this country of violating any narcotic drug law or has been committed to an institution as a narcotic drug addict.

As a result of the Supreme court decision holding that past membership in the communist party is not a ground for the deportation of Joseph G. Strecker, Representative Howard W. Smith [D., Va.] has introduced a bill in the house which would provide for deportation of aliens who have been affiliated with the communist party at any time since they entered this country.

Leiserson Warns Against 'Devitalizing' Wagner Act

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 8 [Special].—If congress "devitalizes" the labor relations act, industry will be faced in the future by another and more drastic law protecting labor's right to organize, William M. Leiserson, member of the National Labor Relations board, declared here today in an address before the Detroit Economic club. He said he does not believe the Wagner act should be amended in any important respect.

Court Rules Colorado Must Pay Its Age Pensions in Full

Denver, Colo., Jan. 8 (AP).—District Court Judge Stanley H. Johnson held today that Colorado must pay in full its $45 monthly old age pensions—highest in the nation—regardless of whether the pension fund contains sufficient money. The ruling was in a test case brought by John R. Redmon, a member of the Old Age Pensioners' league of Colorado. The full $45 pensions have been paid only once since the law was enacted in 1936.

SHOULD INDUSTRY SCRAP ITS OLD MEN?

A question and an answer by Simmons Company

TODAY, many a man's years hang heavy over his head.

Today, one hears of men thrown on the scrap heap of industry merely because they happen to reach a certain birthday...45...50...55...60.

With this, we take issue.

We, Simmons Company, believe there is no good reason why a man's age should be his cross.

The only time a man is too old to work for us is when he loses interest in his daily life.

Is this a record?

As an example, let's take a look at the parent plant in Kenosha, Wisconsin. Thirty percent of our employees have been with us less than 10 years. But of the remaining 70%...

We have 18 in our factory who have been with us more than 40 years.

129 have been with us more than 30 years.

Another 422 have been going at it steadily with us more than 20 years.

937 have worked with us more than 10 years.

If, as they say, it takes 10 years to make a craftsman, we're mighty fortunate, don't you think, to have so many around.

People who don't have to worry make better goods

Why do we put so much stress on security?

Why do we also put so much stress on high wages?

The answer is simple. You can't make good goods unless you have good people working for you...under good conditions...and for good wages.

We believe this is one reason why Simmons is able to put more into its merchandise.

Setting a new standard

In creating a mattress like the new Simmons Beautyrest, our men and women have helped us raise the standard of comfort for the entire industry.

Competitors will gladly admit this. For in raising the standard, we have helped them, too. We have created a public interest in sleeping comfort—a market that never existed before. We have given them, as well as ourselves, an opportunity to make better sales.

Where the retailer comes in

Retailers, too, have benefited. Our craftsmen have given them a mattress they can sell because they believe in it...because they make better customers with it...because they know there isn't a better mattress made.

Most important—the consumer

But our greatest achievement, we believe, has been to make the public think in an altogether new way about mattresses.

They no longer look at their mattresses as merely things to lie upon...but as places to relax, to enjoy utter, luxury comfort...to rest, rest, rest!

A bargain at $39.50

Today, people by the hundreds of thousands are willing to pay $39.50 for a Simmons Beautyrest when they can get a usable mattress for considerably less.

For they know that Beautyrest at $39.50 is really a bargain. Torturing tests in a leading laboratory have shown Beautyrest to last more than twice as long as cheaper mattresses tested.

Conclusion

Here, then, is a brief accounting of Simmons Company as of the dawn of 1940.

We want the people who work for us to know that relations between us will be as friendly as in the past.

We want the retailers we do business with to know that Simmons will stand by the fair policy that has won us more friends in the trade than any other bedding concern.

And finally, we want you, the consumer, to know that this year as always we shall try to give you a bigger bedding dollar's worth than you can get anywhere else.

Happy New Year.

BUDGET SLASHES BY CITY URGED IN 5 HOUR HEARING

Consider 5 Pct. Reduction in 1940 Estimates.

The city council finance committee was commended and chided yesterday in a public hearing on the proposed 1940 budget. Civic organizations, representatives of city employés, and union representatives discussed suggested expenditures for five hours before the hearing was recessed until a future date to be set by the finance committee. The proposed budget provides for corporate or operating expenditures of $58,078,392. It was to have come up for final action at tomorrow's council meeting. The meeting will be called, but it is expected to be recessed until Friday to give the finance committee time to consider the budget further.

The finance committee will meet tomorrow to consider staff recommendations for reducing the 1940 estimate approximately 5 per cent, Ald. J. M. Arvey [24th], chairman, announced at the start of the hearing.

Economy Trend Praised.

Three highlights of yesterday's hearing were: 1. Civic federation and Bureau of Public Efficiency representatives made suggestions for economy and praised the proposed budget reduction as "a step in the right direction and highly commendable." 2. Ald. Paul Douglas [5th] submitted a proposal which he claimed would save the city $4,332,000. It was 150 pages long and required an hour and a half to read. 3. The street workers' union again declared that unless union scale is paid such laborers in 1940 they will strike.

Douglas Sutherland, executive secretary for the Civic federation and Bureau of Public Efficiency, pointed out that the 1940 tentative budget, for all funds, totals $218,620,065, an increase of $13,454,536 over 1939.

The federation report included in its figure for the 1940 appropriation, the operating fund budget and budgets for these special funds: Bond and interest, relief, library, motor fuel tax, traction, and municipal pensions. That total is $164,844,502. In addition the report included the appropriation of $47,563,205 for all existing liabilities or past debts of the various funds which must be appropriated for each year out of back taxes. The report also included as an appropriation $6,221,358 deducted from anticipated taxes by the finance committee because of loss and cost of tax collection.

Sutherland said the increase includes a $10,676,000 "jump" in appropriations to be made from the motor fuel tax fund in anticipation that the sale of motor fuel tax notes for superhighway construction will supply the money, and an increase of more than $2,300,000 in traction fund appropriations. He also said the corporate budget shows an increase in salaries. This, he asserted, means that taxes must be raised or the total salary load decreased.

Favor Control Over Court.

Sutherland said his group believes the council should be given authority to control the number of employés in both the Municipal court and the election commission office and that serious consideration should be given to abolishing the board of local improvements.

Ald. Douglas praised the city administration for many economies already effected. He said several high contract rates established under a former Republican mayor have been reduced greatly under Mayor Kelly.

Proposes $4,332,000 Saving.

Ald. Douglas statement said the following savings could be made:

Centralized purchasing	$1,250,000
Overtime	41,000
Board of Election Commissioners	72,000
Board of Health	123,000
Dumps	175,000
Board of Local Improvements	600,000
Bridges	551,000
Union scale rates	350,000
Failure to fill vacancies	520,000
Centralized purchasing	1,250,000 to 1,450,000
Transportation committee	650,000
Total	$4,332,400 to 4,532,000

Ald. Douglas said overtime is allowed employés in several departments which have peak work periods during the year, but that a better system would be to give those workers time off when work is light. He suggested fire stations and schools be used as polling places to reduce the election board budget. In the board of health, he declared, several inspectors do work similar to that done by the building department.

Ald. Douglas also recommended the reduction of the staff of the board of local improvements to a small force. The board, he said, originally was organized to conduct public improvements financed by special assessments and more special assessments no longer are levied. He also suggested that bridges be tended by roving crews during the winter months, when river traffic is light.

Ald. Douglas maintained that annual salaries paid many union workers on city pay rolls could be reduced $350,000 and still be above or equal to outside union wages.

On Personalty Rolls

PERSONALTY TAX ASSESSMENT PUT AT 581 MILLIONS

County Valuation Rises 10% Over 1938.

The final personal property assessment in Cook county for 1939 totals $581,954,082, the board of tax appeals announced yesterday after reviewing 7,800 objections to the values set by County Assessor John S. Clark. The assessment is an increase of 10.3 per cent over the final assessment of $527,785,415 for 1938.

The board of appeals, represented by Emmett Whealan and Paul Drymalski, cut $65,392,892 from the rolls released by Assessor Clark last fall. In the preceding year the board reduced Clark's total by $84,350,012.

Basis for 1940 Tax Bills.

The assessment figures announced yesterday will be used as a base in figuring the tax rate for 1940 tax bills, which are based on 1939 valuations. The rate base also will include assessment totals for real estate, railroads, and capital stock, which have not been completed.

The 1939 assessment marks the second time in the last nine years that the personalty rolls have shown an increase over the preceding year. With the exception of 1937, the assessment total declined steadily until the 1939 valuation.

For the city of Chicago alone, the final 1939 total for personalty assessment, after review by the board, was $572,581,651, a reduction of $60,116,254 from the total assessment made by Clark.

Table Shows Assessments.

The original assessments and the revised totals are shown by townships for Chicago in the following table:

Township—	Assessor's value.	Board of Appeals value.
Jefferson	40,619,210	35,502,179
Lake	53,395,628	48,992,006
Lake View	40,001,669	36,579,298
North	51,131,324	45,243,256
Rogers Park	8,366,699	7,949,839
South	169,497,788	147,829,385
West	141,418,696	126,104,511
Totals	$572,581,651	$512,465,397

The board reduced the assessments in country towns to $69,488,685, compared with the original assessment of $74,765,323.

BLACKETT FACES PROBLEM IN NEW HARMONY SLATE

He Isn't on Home District Delegate List.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Hill Blackett's chances of election to a full term as Republican national committeeman for Illinois were involved in a harmony slate of district candidates reported yesterday to have been agreed upon by party organization units in the 10th congressional district and the 6th senatorial or legislative district.

The state's member of the national committee for the next four years will be chosen from among its delegates to the national convention next summer. The short term for which Blackett was chosen last June expires at that time. Unless he is either one of the two delegates from his own congressional district or one of the delegates-at-large named by the state convention next spring he will not be eligible to a new term.

Harmony Slate Names Others.

Blackett lives in Winnetka—in the 10th district. The harmony slate now disclosed does not include him but names another Winnetkan, James S. Kamper, who was a district delegate last year, and A. D. Lasker of Chicago, who was a delegate-at-large in 1936.

"I have not determined what I shall do," said Blackett when he was asked about this situation. "The argument has been made to me that I should not run for district delegate but should be one of the delegates-at-large."

The forces which nominate the Republican candidate for governor in the April primary control the state convention. Thus they name the eight delegates-at-large. Nobody who opposed the winning primary ticket is believed to have a chance for one of them.

The fact that a harmony north shore slate was almost completed became known to the general public yesterday by the announcement of James Simpson Jr. of Wadsworth, Lake county, former congressman, that he will run for G. O. P. state central committeeman from the 10th congressional district against the incumbent, Thomas J. Houston.

Two Representatives Goal.

Simpson is a part of the agreed slate along with Kemper and Lasker. The rest of the ticket covers legislative offices from the 6th senatorial district. The plan includes an effort to elect two of the three state representatives from the 6th, which now has only one Republican. The two agreed upon are Charles W. Swanson, a resident of the 47th ward, and Alan E. Ashcraft Jr., now an Evanston alderman. The lone Republican from the district, Drennan J. Slater, will not seek renomination.

It is understood that little more remains to be done to include William G. Knox of the 49th ward on the ticket as the agreed candidate for state senator, an office now held by a Democrat, John J. Meyers.

Wife, 65, Waits 45 Years, Then Demands a Divorce

Mansfield, O., Jan. 8 (AP).—After waiting 45 years for Frederick Hafner to return home, Mrs. Stella Hafner, 65 years old, sued for divorce today. The charge was wilful absence. He disappeared five years after their marriage, she said.

JARECKI IS ILL; CAN'T TESTIFY IN SUIT FOR WRIT

County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, on a doctor's certificate that he was confined to his home with a cold, did not appear yesterday as a witness in the injunction suit before Circuit Judge Robert J. Dunne seeking to halt temporarily the election fraud cases. The suit, filed by Attorney Joseph T. Harrington as a taxpayer, asks that further proceedings in the county court in the election fraud cases be enjoined until the Supreme court rules on a mandamus suit to destroy ballots more than six months old.

John S. Rusch, chief clerk of the election board, testified yesterday in the case that the last bill of Mrs. Katherine Keeler, handwriting expert and document photographer for the board, was $1,716.65 for the period Sept. 18 to Dec. 8, 1939. Mrs. Keeler on the stand said she received $20 an hour while in court as an expert.

DOUBLE ACTION for your Advertising!

Vital facts bearing on Double Action for the 1940 sales program of any volume business

OF COURSE the people with incomes of $5,000 and over are worth-while customers to have. That's why businessmen should know—as authoritatively established by Dr. Daniel Starch after a full year's readership check—that The American Weekly reaches more families in such income brackets than any other magazine.

And it is also a fact—on the authority of two studies* recently completed by the U. S. Government—that in 1935-36, one of the best business periods in the past decade, only 793,801 families had incomes of $5,000 and over...only 6,050,000 had incomes of $2,000 and over.

So, to get double action from advertising today, it is necessary to advertise in a magazine that reaches more of all kinds of people—more people in all income levels—and that's where The American Weekly comes in.

Where The Weekly gets its Power

What's behind the great power of The American Weekly to interest readers?... The answer is—an editorial formula broader than that of any other magazine in the world.

It is not primarily a fiction magazine — not primarily a service book — not primarily a picture book — though it contains fiction, service articles, pictures.

It is first of all a magazine dealing with real facts about real people — their loves and hates, their fears and ambitions — as expressed in editorial features based on romance, history, archeology, religion, science, invention, medicine.

And again — from the Dr. Starch readership study — it develops that more than 14,600,000 adult men and women go through The American Weekly regularly from cover to cover — and read it with an intensity unequaled in the publication field.

Further, more people in every income bracket read this mighty magazine than read any other... What's the result?

Double!—Any Way You Check

There are 6,050,000 families* with incomes of over $2,000. And The American Weekly goes to more than half of them—almost double the number reached by any other magazine.

19,000,000 families* have incomes of less than $2,000. And The American Weekly goes to 3⅓ million of them — more than double the number reached by any other magazine.

More than that — The American Weekly is read by double the number of families in cities in all population groups, from those with more than 1,500,000 residents down to those with only 2,500 — and almost double the number in communities of under 2,500.

That's what is meant by double action from advertising in The American Weekly.

How's that for winning friends and interesting people in buying what manufacturers have to sell?

Cock-A-Doodle-Doo!

Publication advertising in general showed a decided uptrend in 1939 and The American Weekly was one of the leaders in volume of increased linage and revenue in the 12 months of last year over the same period in 1938.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Europe has a set of primary interests which to us have none or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concerns. Hence, therefore, it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves by artificial ties in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics or the ordinary combinations and collisions of her friendships or enmities."—From the Farewell Address.

THEY CALL IT LIBERALISM.

The latest decisions of the Supreme court in cases involving the National Labor Relations board are of particular interest for their disclosure of the present temper of the court. Mr. Roosevelt has boasted that tho he lost the battle for the right to pack the court, he won the campaign to emasculate the court and in all candor it must be admitted that this claim is merited. The constitution as we used to know it is dead. And so is the Supreme court as the ultimate protector of the individual citizen against an arbitrary and oppressive government.

Two of the latest decisions are of particular interest in this connection. One of them concerned longshoremen on the Pacific coast. In most of the larger ports these men had been organized by Harry Bridges under the C. I. O., but in some localities the rival A. F. of L. union was dominant. The labor board had declared that the entire Pacific coast was to be regarded as a unit for purposes of collective bargaining and this judgment has now been affirmed.

The Wagner law was enacted supposedly to guarantee to workmen the right to organize freely for purposes of collective bargaining thru agents of their own choosing. The latest decision means that the guarantee is a little less than meaningless. Far from being protected in their right to organize and select their own bargaining agents, individuals are deprived of it by an agency of the United States and this denial is approved by the Supreme court.

That is something new in this country and something which, when its significance is understood, can hardly fail to shock the nation. It has always been supposed hitherto that the constitution was a protection for minorities against oppression. The Supreme court has been alert to protect them against discrimination in the application of the laws. This protection no longer is fully operative. Several thousand longshoremen, who thought the constitution and the Wagner act would shield them in their right to sell their own services thru their own freely chosen union, find that they must, against their will, accept the C. I. O. as their agent.

The longshoremen concerned are humble men. Their ability to work is their stock in trade. That is all they have to sell. The Supreme court says that they may not sell their services thru agents of their own choosing but must employ others not of their own selection, men whom they have actively opposed and whom they distrust. The court, which in other days was zealous to protect the little man, the obscure man, the member of a minority, from oppression, is today placing the seal of its approval upon a practice which finds striking parallels in the totalitarian lands. There, too, the burocracy is under no obligation to respect the wishes of the ordinary citizen.

The same trend is found in the Consumers' Power case, decided at the same time. Here the labor board had ordered an election to determine whether the employés wished to belong to an A. F. of L. union or a C. I. O. union. The tally showed 1,164 for the C. I. O., 1,072 for the A. F. of L., and 506 who didn't want either. No organization had a majority. Thereupon the labor board ordered a run-off election in which the employés were required to choose between the C. I. O. and no union at all. The other union had no place on the ballot.

The Circuit Court of Appeals in the 6th circuit had declared this extraordinary procedure to be a denial of the very right to choose bargaining representatives which the Wagner act was supposed to guarantee. The Circuit court reasoned that a man could not choose when he was presented with no choice. But the Supreme court has upheld the labor board on the ground that there can be no appeal to the courts from the board's order.

Thanks largely to the earlier Supreme court decisions in labor board cases, the scope of congressional regulation of business is now practically unlimited. In the Jones & Laughlin case and the Consolidated Edison case the court went to great lengths to show that these great corporations were engaged in interstate commerce and were therefore subject to federal regulation. In later decisions, notably in the Fainblatt case decided in April, 1939, the court said that a garment manufacturer, employing only 60 women, was likewise subject to federal regulation.

And now the court has gone a step farther—and a long step farther. Not only may the federal burocrats meddle in every business relationship, but they may do so with disregard for dissenting minorities.

This is the new liberalism about which the New Dealers prate so often and so loudly. The old liberalism sprang from the conviction that the great enemy of mankind was oppression and the great engine of oppression was government. Accordingly, the old liberalism, which found its clearest expression in our constitution, sought to check the excesses of government for the protection of the individual and the minority. Horse sense and a reading of history produced this doctrine and it worked with signal success for almost 150 years, during which the Supreme court was on guard.

Now we may no longer rely upon the court as we once could. The remedy, if there is one, for the oppressions of the labor board and of the parallel agencies of government lies in congress.

CHAMBERLAIN DROPS A WAR MINISTER.

Members of parliament and English editors are trying to find out why Mr. Chamberlain shook young Leslie Hore-Belisha, the hard driving minister of war, out of the cabinet in the recent reorganization. The explanation apparently does not lie on the surface and the search is for mysterious influences which may have dictated the removal of a man who was thought to be energetic and intelligent in the measures taken to make the British army equal to its great task. At present most of the suspicion is directed against what are called the Tories, both in government circles and in the army high command.

Lord MacMillan, the minister of information, also went out, but he had been under fire almost from the beginning and naturally was held responsible for the congenital stupidities of the censorship and the muddling in the news releases. There had been no attacks, however, on Hore-Belisha. He was regarded generally by the public as the right man in the right place, and was given credit for the preparations made before the war to enable Great Britain to put its army on a war footing with few of the blunders and little of the frustration historic in that nation's military record.

The now discharged minister of war had prepared the plans which worked when the emergency had to be met. He had already retired the older commanders and he had promoted both Viscount Gort, the commander in chief of the British expeditionary force in France, and Sir Edmund Ironside, chief of the imperial defense staff. There are stories that both Gort and Ironside demanded his removal, for reasons not stated and without proof of the fact.

Two things are to be expected when Britain goes to war. One is that the high command of the army and the high military caste will be arrogant in relations with the parliamentarians, and that some of the publishers will denounce the methods of prosecuting the war soon after the first failures of the extemporized military establishment.

All nations at war, even the most military, go thru a shaking down process, trying to get the incompetents out and to find the men who can correct mistakes and make results more nearly commensurate with the expenditure of life and money. Frequently it is a painful process and covers a dangerous period during which the peacetime stagnation of military burocracy is forced by national peril to give way to energy and intelligence.

In this war France and Great Britain have tried to avoid one initial error which marked the other one. The high command of both the French and British armies in France is given to the French. Most British comment on the change in the war ministry takes the tone of suspicion, looking for a reason for the dismissal in quarters where privilege is highly esteemed and much insisted upon. Hore-Belisha was supposed to be creating what was called a democratic army. Whatever the British army is to be called, it will have to rely, as it did in the world war, upon many "temporary gentlemen" in officer's uniform.

Hore-Belisha apparently not only accepted that necessity, but delighted in it and was preparing to give Britain capable officers from whatever class or order of society they came. The people liked this and applauded it. If the mystery should be solved by any such reason as objection to such a policy, the first great British war cabinet shakeup will be regarded as indicative of things not propitious to the British stake in the war.

Editorial of the Day

ONE HUNDRED CZECHS CAN'T DESTROY AMERICAN LABOR.

[Baltimore Sun.]

Only an expert in the process involved in the manufacture of shoes can possibly have any certain knowledge of the number of experienced technicians required to set going such a plant as that built by the Bata Shoe company at Belcamp, Md. Mr. Bata himself asked to be allowed to import 100 trained Czechs to get the work going. The commissioner of immigration first allowed that figure, but thought better of it after hearing a protest by a labor union. Now he has reduced the acceptable number to 10. This means that 62 of the 72 foreigners already brought over and put to work will lose their jobs. It means that 28 others, about to come here, will not be given entry. According to spokesmen for the company, it means that the plant will be retarded in its effort to reach full production and so give full employment.

In such matters as this the law allows the commissioner a certain discretion. If, for instance, Mr. Bata had asked permission to import 1,000 or even 500 workers, the commissioner would clearly have been in a position to express a doubt that so many were needed and make the company prove its case to the hilt. But the Bata request was a discreet one. The company asked entry for only 100 craftsmen. This clearly implies that it was not trying to break down the immigration laws for the benefit of a mass of foreigners. One hundred men, in a factory that will employ hundreds, is very few.

The union's protest was properly heard. It should have been taken into account. But certainly the commissioner should not have overlooked the fact that a labor union, after all, is a special interest and that it sometimes is more concerned with displaying its power than with promoting the general good. The interests at stake here went far beyond the special interests of the labor union. The interests involved were the jobs for a great many Americans, the profitable employment of capital, and all those community concerns which are involved in the operation or nonoperation of a given industry.

If the Bata people had made a clearly unreasonable demand, the commissioner would have had justice on his side in ruling against them. But since the request made was a modest one, then doubts might well have been resolved in their favor rather than in that of the union alone. The rule of discretion is a good rule, but it is a bad rule when the man exercising it sees only one side of a picture and makes a decision which penalizes unnecessarily an industrial undertaking and the community it supports.

A FEW PAINFUL MISTAKES.

A woman came to the box office of the Grand Opera house to buy tickets to "Abe Lincoln in Illinois" with a bitter grievance.

"Why don't you correct your newspaper ads?" she said to the ticket seller. "I went to the Illinois theater to get 'Abe Lincoln' tickets and found that it had been torn down five years ago."

A managing editor, scanning proof, came across a headline which said, "Lindbergh Takes Son to Foot Doctor." He read the story and found that the doctor was a pediatrician. Then he made a vow to require four years of Latin and two of Greek from all future copy readers and reporters. Schools of journalism, please note.

Watch your accents in words beginning with "ex." The commonest errors in American speech are "exQUISite" for "EXquisite" and "exPLICable" for "EXplicable." This means Constance Bennett from Hollywood as well as millions of the plain people. . . . "EXplicable," with its negative, "inEXplicable," is more difficult on the tongue than the erroneous form, we will admit, and the pronunciation was probably invented by syllable-swallowing Englishmen.

Will it pain you as much as it did us to discover that "The Hot Mikado" may be followed by "The Hot Pinafore"? If this trend continues, the warmer-uppers of classics may finally reach an appropriate title with "The Hot Inferno."

Have you heard about the football coach who expressed his indignation over the rule that required numbering of players by sending a team upon the field in jerseys decorated with Roman numerals, running as high as LXXVII.? We think it was Dr. Williams at Minnesota, but crave more information on this subject.

LINES TO A TOUGH BIRD.

You see them these days,
Small panhandling bums,
Outside kitchen windows,
Concerned about crumbs.

The robins went south,
And martins, too, same as Those people with yachts,
Who cruise the Bahamas.

When robins and martins
Next spring show their faces,
They first must lick sparrows
For choice nesting places.

My odds on the sparrow,
Tough Passer domesticus,
Who sticks around winters,
Just like the rest of us.

Wives and Husbands of the Line.

Sire: I have noted with deepest sympathy and understanding the precarious situation in which that quaintly expressive gentleman, Shanty Al, finds himself with his wife anent one Helene [Jan. 4], said situation apparently being none of his making and developing inferences, insinuations, and innuendos of which he is entirely innocent. I, too, have just become such an innocent victim of an entirely harmless piece of business correspondence, but which, fanned by the flame of a suspicious spouse, has grown to a conflagration of almost international proportions. It at least has achieved the importance of a delicate domestic incident.

To wit: I received a purely business letter from a young lady, who incidentally inquired if I were the certain person who contributes to your valued column occasionally and also incidentally stated she did likewise over the delightful signature of Siwasher the Second. Inadvertently, I left this missive and another of similar import in my pocket instead of my desk, and my spouse, whom I cherish above all else, discovered it when arranging my other suit for its periodical cleaning. Now, sire, the fat is in the fire; there are tremendous ravings about the insincerity of man, infidelity, bestiality, etc., etc. In short, sire, I am in what you call the doghouse. Jake Irmiter.

APPLAUSE FOR HEIFETZ.

He plays with notes as jugglers play with balls,
Tossing them up and catching them at will;
A space they soar aloft, then downward fall,
He folds them in his hand and they lie still.

He calls the birds with sweeter pipes than Pan,
The air is filled with answering melody;
He speaks the language of the stars; he can
Enchant the winds so that they dance with glee.

He lifts us from the weight of daily grind
And sets our feet in star paths cool and clear;
He knows all sorrow, can all heartbreak find,
Yet bids us face the world, not stoop to fear.

A call to lift our work until it sings.

When Patti Sang for Art's Sake.

In Hobart, Ind., still lives Mrs. Gust Freeburg, whose late husband decorated the interior of Adelina Patti's private car in which the diva came regally to the dedication of the Auditorium.

Mr. Freeburg was selected from among the various painters and decorators in the Pullman shops to do the interior of her car. When Patti was shown into it, still in the shops at Pullman, Mrs. Freeburg tells that the singer in delight promptly assembled the artist and two of his assistants before her and then and there—and gratis—rewarded them with a song. A few months later she collected from the Auditorium management at the rate of $2,100 per verse for two verses of "Home, Sweet Home." William Shaw.

CANCER: SEEK HELP IN TIME

PERHAPS the day will come when we will not be quite so jumpy about cancer. Altho it is a devastating scourge, it is not nearly so menacing as many other maladies. The trouble is that we are likely to neglect warning signs at the very time when the disease can be checked. There is scarcely a beginning lesion on the surface of the body that cannot be eliminated completely if the attack is made before spread has occurred to the lymph glands.

We hear a good deal about this subject today because medical societies, clubs, and research organizations are preaching "early recognition" loudly. In addition, a high percentage of our population now survives into the sixth and seventh decades of life. This latter period is likely to manifest more malignancy because it is essentially a degenerative process.

The greatest advance against this dread disorder has been made with those tiny tumors which may prove so dangerous but which are insignificant in their incipience. A wartlike excrescence may be taken out readily, with perfect safety, and with but little discomfort. But this demands alertness with the realization that something abnormal is developing. It may be either an entirely new growth or an enlargement of one that has existed for years but which hitherto has failed to progress.

Every physician can point to cured cases of cancer of the breast. Lumps can be detected so easily and those that are potentially threatening may be excised. The microscope will furnish positive evidence and should the verdict be "malignant"—extirpation of the entire gland is advised.

We all shrink from the necessity of a visit to the doctor's office and the routine of an examination. If we could but free ourselves from this inhibition we could cut in half the death rate from this cause. Perhaps a useless journey should be made now and then. The reassurance that would come to 95 per cent would be more than worth the effort. With the remainder such a consultation would—in many instances—point the way to the remedy. After all, this may be said of any bodily upset.

But how can we prevent this affliction? First, by avoiding irritation. Any site—the skin, for example—when subjected to steady or even intermittent pressure, heat, or friction from any source, may increase in size with the piling up of tumor cells. Moles may exhibit this tendency and they demand critical watching lest they decide to launch out for themselves and take on outlaw characteristics. But this does not mean that every blemish of this sort should be cleared away. Not at all. It is only when it responds to some unknown stimulus and starts to extend that it should be eradicated. In this same category we may include any chronic sore, lump, or wart. The old doctrine "Let it alone and watch for developments" is rarely safe. It is far wiser to remove the offending part than to run an unnecessary risk.

One reason why I am opposed to the use of strong condiments as appetite whips is because certain sauces cannot fail but produce engorgement of the blood vessels of the delicate stomach lining. They may even carry their sandpaper propensities further along into the small bowel. The Hindus who eat nothing but well cooked food present but few cases of intestinal cancer. On the other hand, they exhibit a high percentage of the skin type because they are less cleanly. Japanese—who keep the outer covering well scrubbed—have little difficulty with manifestations on the epidermis. They consume great quantities of raw or lightly cooked vegetable material and—as is well known—suffer a higher incidence of bowel lesions.

We all long for an announcement of a chemical cure. But it may be some time in coming—despite the intensive search of experts. The least we can do now is to cultivate a mild sense of awareness which will lead us to seek help in time.

FROM 6 MONTHS ON.

W. H. writes: What is the best time of the year to give infants injections [whooping cough, etc.]?

REPLY.

Beginning at 6 months of age, the injections should follow in orderly sequence; diphtheria, smallpox, whooping cough, etc. The time of the year is of little moment. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on immunization of children.

GALLSTONES.

O. P. writes: Is there more than one way to remove stones from the gall bladder?

REPLY.

Yes. [1] nature's, [2] the surgeon's. Small concretions may pass of their own accord. If they decline to leave, surgical removal may be required. Symptoms should be evaluated accurately before surgery is advised.

AVOID THE SOURCES.

G. P. writes: Why do I catch cold in the eye frequently? How can this be prevented?

REPLY.

Avoid sources of irritation such as dust, eyestrain, etc. Don't rub the eyes with the fingers.

MATERNITY CORSETS.

E. M. writes: Are maternity corsets advisable?

REPLY.

CONFISCATION AND SOCIAL SECURITY.

Chicago, Jan. 2.—President Roosevelt and other New Dealers are continually harping on the amendment to the social security act, "extending benefits and liberalizing the federal insurance program." These "extended benefits" are to be paid by confiscation of funds to the credit of unmarried workers who die before reaching the age of 65. How liberal with the other fellow's money?

I hold letters from the Social Security board in reply to my inquiry regarding this amendment, stating that my sister who is single, with whom I reside and whom I support, is not entitled to receive at 65 years of age a monthly benefit on the basis of my earnings altho "a supplementary benefit will be paid to the eligible wife of a qualified worker"; and that in the event of my death before reaching 65 no payment will be made to my sister altho payments are to be made to widows of workers who die before reaching 65. In other words, my funds are to be confiscated.

I replied that such terms are not satisfactory, asking for the cancellation of the insurance, refund of money paid and instructions to my employer to stop deductions from my pay checks. As I expected, I received a reply refusing to do so, stating that "payment of social security taxes is mandatory on employer and employé, no refunds are made," etc., admitting that social security is just another tax.

I do not wish this federal old age insurance which I consider only a tax racket, for, if one amendment can provide confiscation of my funds in event of my death before 65, another amendment can wipe out my funds if I live past 65. Yet I am forced to continue payments by arbitrary deductions from my pay checks.

No worker objects to paying for an old age pension if he is given an irrevocable guarantee that he will receive it and that benefits to be paid to him and his dependents are equal to benefits paid to other workers and dependents paying the same premium. Confiscation of funds is dishonesty. ALFRED F. RYAN.

RELIEVED.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—We have been unable to sleep for weeks, wondering how many trees there are in Chicago. You may imagine our relief when on the morning of Jan. 4 we saw the announcement on the front page of THE TRIBUNE that the WPA had actually counted the trees, one by one, at a cost of a mere $321,286, only about 55 cents a tree! ANON.

BUYING THE DRINKS.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—I get so weary listening to my boss and his friends complaining about excessive drinking by their children during the holidays when I know that the parents are to blame.

For instance, a dinner-dance is to be given at some club. Before the dinner some parent will invite the young people to his home for a cocktail party and I have known cases where some of these children have been definitely intoxicated before going to the dinner-dance. After the dinner-dance a night club is visited and more drinks are consumed. Since the children are not employed, it means that the money is supplied by the parents.

Older people may occasionally need a shot to be merry but it seems a pity that young people, who are naturally gay and light-hearted should be encouraged by their own parents to drink liquor. SECRETARY.

MAYBE HE WILL.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—I have just read the President's budget message and was pleased to learn how easy it was to reduce our debt by "seven billion dollars of cash gold available for debt redemption."

I wonder if it has not occurred to the President how easy it would be to wipe out the debt. Why does he not have congress help him to devalue the gold dollar sufficiently to increase our gold surplus to such an extent that we might pay the debt in full and have a large surplus on hand? DANIEL ANDERSON.

BIGGER MILK BOTTLES.

Chicago, Jan. 2.—The new large size milk containers appear to be a good idea especially if they result in a saving of 2 to 3½ cents a quart. However, I wonder if this is not an attempt by the glass companies and the city council to avoid the paper container issue? S. ZEER.

TURNABOUT.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 1.—There is agitation on the part of the socialistic element in political jobs demanding that industry and railroads should take on additional employés and get business going right. I am starting an agitation for the Socialists to give up 25 per cent of their salaries to promote business. They may do that by purchasing things they do not need, such as the material I sell, for example. They could buy from me and donate it to railroads. It would make my mill busier so we could buy more raw material, employ more men, give railroads more traffic, and start perpetual motion.

No man who ever had the least bit of business experience would make such asinine demands as we hear from these Socialists. HENRY F. GILG.

EQUINE MEMORY.

Mendota, Ill., Jan. 2.—Your correspondent, R. M. Lambeth, writes that a horse does not recognize its own mother after six months of separation. He never raised horses. I sold a horse to a man who sold trees for the Davenport nursery. Five years later he drove in my yard when the plum trees were bearing. We unhitched Prince and threw the hitch strap over his neck. He went down to the windmill for his drink, and then went to the barn. In the double stall stood his former mate. He pushed her over to her side of the stall. I wish Mr. Lambeth could have seen them. They knew each other. E. H. KREITER.

HEARTS OF OAK.

Chicago, Jan. 2.—Please permit me as an American to heartily thank you for your editorial on British valor on the high seas. It will doubtless be disconcerting to the enemies of true democracy wherever they may be. America and Britain shall always meet the challenge to their superior concepts of liberty with hearts of oak. MICHAEL POWER.

How Our States Got Their Names

2. ARIZONA.

There are many explanations for the origin of this state's name. One authority says the most probable is that it derives from the Pima Indian word "arizonac," meaning small or few springs. The name, apparently, was first used by the Spaniards for a part of what is now Arizona. Some historians believe Arizona comes from the Spanish words "arida" [dry] and "zona" [zone]. Arizona became a state on Feb. 14, 1912.

Arizona state seal. The motto is Ditat Deus [God enriches]. Scene on shield depicts rising sun, mountains, irrigated fields, cattle, quartz mill, and miner.

Nicknames given to Arizona include the Apache, Aztec, Sandhill, Sunset, Baby, and Valentine state, the Italy of America, and the Sunset Land. There were many Apache Indians in the state, many old ruins have been given Aztec Indian names, and Arizona was the last admitted to statehood. The Italy of America nickname was applied because of the scenic beauties in the state, the Valentine nickname oecause Arizona became a state on Feb. 14.

The state motto is Ditat Deus [God enriches]. The state song is "Arizona"; the state flower is the giant cactus, and the state bird the cactus wren.

LEGALIZATION OF ENTRY.

Chicago, Jan. 3 [Friend of the People].—A friend of mine entered the United States illegally in March, 1922, and has resided here since.

1. What is his present status?
2. Can he become a United States citizen? M. B.

1. Under existing legislation those aliens who entered the United States prior to July 1, 1924, and have not been absent therefrom since that time, and of whom there is no record of legal admission for permanent residence, may apply for legalization of their residence here. It would appear from the facts stated that the subject may be eligible to apply for registry under the provision of law above mentioned and it is suggested that he may, if he desires, communicate with this office for further information and advice in regard to the procedure to be followed in this matter.

2. If and when he is granted a certificate of registry he may take steps toward citizenship. FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,

SALE OF PROPERTY.

Chicago, Jan. 4 [Legal Friend of the People].—Would you kindly give me a little advice in regard to my daughter who is the owner of the house and lot that we are now living in? She is getting married soon and would like to know when she gets married [1] if that will make her husband part owner of the house?

If after she marries should she want to sell the house [2] would he need to sign his name to the papers before she could sell the house? It is entirely in her own name.

Also I would like to know [3] if a boy of 17 years can own property in his own name. MRS. P.

1. He will acquire a dower interest such that his signature would be necessary on a future conveyance, but he will not have a present right of ownership.
2. Yes.
3. Yes, but an adult who sells to a minor acts at his own risk in the sense that the minor can repudiate the contract. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

BAR ASSOCIATION TO OPEN LEGAL SERVICE BUREAU

Will Direct Clients to Qualified Lawyers.

Tappan Gregory.

Tappan Gregory, president of the Chicago Bar association, announced yesterday that the association will open a bureau to direct prospective clients seeking all types of legal advice to qualified lawyers. Gregory told of the plan at the midwinter meeting of the house of delegates of the American Bar association in the Edgewater Beach hotel.

The bureau, to be known as the Lawyer Reference plan, will be in the bar association headquarters at 29 South La Salle street. A list of lawyers available for consultation will be on file there. When directed to a lawyer, the prospective client will be advised that the fee for a half hour consultation will be $3 and for an hour $5. After that arrangements are to be made between lawyer and client. Any dispute over fees will be arbitrated by the association's committee on legal fees.

New Field for Bar Association.

The bureau is intended as a service to members of the middle and low income groups primarily, altho any one may apply. It represents a radical departure in the activities of the association. Formerly legal aid bureaus were available to provide free counsel to the poor, but all other persons in need of legal representation were compelled to select a lawyer from the law directory.

Kenneth Teasdale of St. Louis, Mo., chairman of the A. B. A. committee on legal service bureaus, said a similar plan already is in effect in Philadelphia for persons in the $2,000 income bracket. He said other bureaus are to be established in New York, San Francisco, and other large cities.

Charles A. Beardsley, Oakland, Cal., president of the American Bar association, urged that the association act promptly on the question of legal service bureaus to prevent the government from entering the field. He recalled that Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson, now attorney general, had threatened last summer that the government might provide such service if the bar did not do so.

Housing Study Voted Down.

The house of delegates voted down a proposal by William R. Vallance, chairman of the section on international and comparative law. Vallance, a member of the state department since 1918, submitted a resolution calling for the A. B. A. to indorse a study and comparison of housing legislation in foreign countries with similar American legislation.

The meeting adopted resolutions favoring establishment of an Inter-American Bar association and recommending that congress seek by treaties or other means to eliminate international double inheritance and estate taxes. The delegates indorsed in principle establishment of an institute of comparative law for the nations of the western hemisphere.

CHARGES FALSE ARREST; SUES WIFE FOR $50,000

Robert C. Brewer filed suit for $50,000 damages yesterday against his wife, Mrs. Eunice Essig Brach Brewer, on a charge of false arrest. Defendants with her are the village of Winnetka and four village officials and employés: Chief W. M. Peterson and Lieut. Glen Boyd of the police; Richard Fischer, prosecutor, and Allen Klein, police magistrate.

Brewer charged that his wife had him locked up on Sept. 7 after he tried to enter their home at 175 Sheridan road, Winnetka. She has since sued for divorce. Brewer's bill, filed in Circuit court, was drawn by John T. Conlon and Robert P. Burkhalter, attorneys. Mrs. Brewer was given the income of a $1,000,000 trust fund when she was divorce in 1931 from Frank V. Brach, candy manufacturer. She married Brewer, a marine engineer she met on a south sea cruise, in 1937. He is 37 years old. She is 40.

RUFUS C. DAWES FUNERAL SERVICE TO BE TOMORROW

A Century of Progress Head Dies at 72.

Rufus C. Dawes.

Funeral services for Rufus Cutler Dawes, president of A Century of Progress in 1933-'34, utility executive, banker, and civic leader, will be conducted tomorrow at 4 p. m. in the First Presbyterian church of Evanston. Burial will be in Marietta, O., where Mr. Dawes was born.

Mr. Dawes died unexpectedly yesterday morning in his home at 1448 Lake Shore drive. He was 72 years old. Apparently he had revived after being stricken with a heart attack last Saturday. A second attack occurred yesterday morning. Coronary thrombosis was given as the cause of death.

With Mr. Dawes at the time were his wife, the former Helen B. Palmer; one of his six children, Mrs. Louis Watermulder, and Dr. Grant H. Laing.

In addition to his widow and Mrs. Watermulder other members of Mr. Dawes' immediate family are his sons, William M., Charles Cutler, and Palmer Dawes, and two other daughters, Mrs. Robert T. Sherman and Mrs. Beverly Jefferson, and six grandchildren.

Brother of Ex-Vice President.

Mr. Dawes was a brother of Gen. Charles Gates Dawes, former Vice President of the United States under Calvin Coolidge and former ambassador to the Court of St. James's. Two other brothers and two sisters also survive. They are Henry Dawes, president of the Pure Oil company; Beman Gates Dawes of Newark, O., chairman of the board of the company; Mrs. Arthur Beach of Evanston, and Mrs. Harry Hoyt of Jacksonville, Fla.

Since he first moved here in 1897, Mr. Dawes had been prominent in the business life of the city, often being associated with his brother, Gen. Dawes, in banking, utility, and oil enterprises.

But his greatest personal achievement, Mr. Dawes considered, was his presidency of A Century of Progress. During the depths of the world's worst depression, Mr. Dawes piloted the fair to a financial success. It was the first world's fair in history to close without a debt and with all of its bonds redeemed.

At the conclusion of the fair, Mr. Dawes accepted the presidency of the Museum of Science and Industry in Jackson Park.

Son of Civil War General.

Mr. Dawes and his three brothers were born in Marietta, O., the sons of Gen. Rufus R. Dawes, who commanded the famous Iron Brigade of Wisconsin in the civil war. A monument to Gen. Dawes stands on the Gettysburg battlefield.

Like his brothers, Mr. Dawes attended Marietta college. After graduation in 1886 he was associated with his father in the lumber business. Then, at the suggestion of his brother, Charles, who had been appointed controler of the currency in the McKinley administration, Mr. Dawes moved to Evanston.

There he became president of the Northwestern Gas, Light, and Coke company. From then until 1929 his business life was spent in organizing and managing gas and electric companies. He was president of the Union Gas and Electric company and the Metropolitan Gas and Electric company during this period.

Headed Dawes Brothers, Inc.

In 1908 Dawes Brothers, Inc., was organized, with Rufus as president. It handled many of the big investment deals undertaken by the family, and with the two utilities, at one time managed 52 subsidiary companies. It was liquidated in April, 1938.

From 1918 to 1919 Mr. Dawes was a member of the Illinois state pension laws commission. In the following year he was a delegate to the Illinois Constitutional convention.

When his brother, Charles, was sent to Germany in 1924 to find a solution of the reparations financial muddle, Mr. Dawes went along as chief of staff for the American delegation experts. It was he who set up the machinery to put the "Dawes" plan in operation as assistant to Owen D. Young, first general agent of reparations. Mr. Dawes later wrote a book, "The Dawes Plan in the Making."

He was president of the English Speaking union. His club memberships included Chicago, Commercial, University, Glenview, Evanston Country, and Evanston.

THE MASSACRE

Chicago's 1940 Traffic Toll

More than 98% of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an urban superhighway.

WIFE IDENTIFIES MAN KILLED BY CAR LAST FRIDAY

Mrs. Frank Flusarz of 4930 Fletcher street yesterday identified as her husband a man killed by an automobile in the 1500 block of North Cicero avenue last Friday. Slusarz was 55 years old. He was a stone cutter. The car was driven by Leon Phillips, 26, of 1609 Garfield boulevard.

A. R. Swanson, chief claim agent for the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad, said yesterday there was no need for a watchman at the 144th street crossing in Dolton where two persons were killed Friday night. Swanson said there is a clear view and that, anyway, it is a matter for the state highway department. A coroner's jury investigating the deaths of Miss Dorothy Medendorf, 18 years old, of 13829 Atlantic street, Riverdale, and Charles Ted Williams, 19, of 138th street and Racine avenue, Riverdale, had recommended that the railroad replace the watchman taken away three years ago.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 25 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 17 were killed in Chicago, where 494 were injured in the same period.

BISCUIT CUTTER TO BEGIN BORING SUBWAY TODAY

One of the giant steel shields that are being used to bore the loop sections of the subway tunnel will be pushed forward under air pressure for the first time today, Philip Harrington, commissioner of subways and superhighways, announced yesterday. The shield will be moved northward under State street from 11th street.

Construction of two air pressure chambers at the rear of the shield was completed yesterday. The chambers serve as an entry way from the outside, where air pressure is normal, into the tunnel where the pressure is about twice normal.

The shield, shaped like a giant biscuit cutter, weighs 190 tons, is 19 feet long and 25 feet in diameter. The hood, or cutting edge, is already imbedded in the earth underneath 11th and State streets. Giant hydraulic jacks, pushing on the rear of the shield, will force it thru the earth two feet at a time.

SONS OF LEGION POLICE UNIT TO INSTALL SLATE

The Chicago police squadron of the Sons of the American Legion will install new officers at a dinner and dance to be held next Tuesday at 6:30 p. m. in the Stockyards Inn, 42d place and Halsted street. The squadron's membership totals 130, all sons of Chicago policemen.

Gutknecht Against Parking Ticket Summons Change

Judge John Gutknecht of the Traffic court yesterday criticized an ordinance sponsored by Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th] to permit police to leave summonses on automobiles parked in violation of parking regulations. Under the present law the summonses must be served upon the offending motorist personally. Judge Gutknecht said the proposed change would bring too many defendants into court with the excuse that they had not been driving their cars at the time of the offense or that they did not receive the tickets.

Two Motorists Get Jail Terms for Reckless Driving

Judge Frank E. Donoghue of the Safety court yesterday sentenced two motorists to the county jail for reckless driving. James Stewart, 28 years old, colored, 1317 South Racine avenue, got 10 days, and Leo Provenzana, 22, 4809 South Wells street, five.

NORTHWEST BODY ASKS 'L' HIGHWAY IN AVONDALE AVE.

Depressed Road Opposed by Civic Group.

BY HAL FOUST.

A preference for an elevated highway in Avondale avenue, abutting an existing embankment of the North Western railroad, was voted yesterday at a luncheon meeting of the Chicago Motor club's northwest area council, an affiliation of 75 local civic and improvement organizations. The vote was unanimous by the 26 representatives who attended the session in the Irving Park branch of the Y. M. C. A.

The preference was against a recommendation of Cook county highway engineers to build a superhighway of the depressed type to parallel Elston and Clybourn avenues for most of the distance between the central business district and Harlem and Bryn Mawr avenues. The cost of each of these alternate projects is estimated at approximately $40,000,000.

"L" Highway Termed Safer.

"The elevated highway," said Bernard S. Molay of the Portage Park Chamber of Commerce, "is the better of the two proposals, both as to safety and as to economy. Children would trespass on express pavements in a landscaped trench. This trench, in closing 80 cross streets, would form a barrier detrimental to business and to realty in the neighborhoods traversed.

"On the Avondale location there now exists such a barrier—a railroad embankment that is there to stay for many generations. An elevated highway on this location would not close any existing streets. Children would not climb on to any more than they now climb on to the railroad enbankment."

1928 Vote Recalled.

"In 1928," said Harry G. Weimer of the Logan Square Kiwanis club, "wards in the northwest side voted 6 to 1 and 9 to 1 for a bond issue raising taxes to build an elevated highway. The proposition was defeated by votes on the lake shore, the south side, and the west side fighting the Republican mayor then in the city hall.

"An Avondale avenue elevated highway is what residents of the northwest side wanted ten years ago and it is what they want today."

John H. Kerr of the Norwood Park Citizens' association concurred with Ald. William J. Cowhey [41st] in saying that a depressed highway on the Elston-Clybourn route would sever the retail trade area of these two business streets.

Smoke Nuisance Cited.

George Barton, engineer for the Chicago Motor club, repeated arguments that have been made for and against each of the alternate plans. Against the Avondale location is the smoke nuisance from locomotives. Future side tracks for industrial property would be curtailed. An elevated, they say, is not subject to ornamentation as readily as a depressed superhighway. Against the depressed highway, in addition to its barrier to existing streets and sidewalks, are the arguments that drainage and snow and ice removal would be more difficult.

James E. Bulger, a director of the motor club, said the county board will begin debating the relative merits of the two proposals next month. At that time, he said, the board will receive a report on the engineering study from a committee representing the motor club, the Chicago Association of Commerce, and the Chicago Regional Planing association.

STEPSON CUT OFF IN WILL GETS 20% OF $500,000 HOARD

Two relatives believed to be sole heirs to the half million dollar hoard left by Mrs. Janet Lincoln agreed yesterday to give 20 per cent to her stepson, Willis H. Lincoln of 5214 Woodlawn avenue. He had been cut off with $1 in the will of his father, Willis L. Lincoln, and not mentioned in his stepmother's will. The heirs are Mrs. Lincoln's brother, William Krullaars of 6637 Maryland avenue, and her sister, Mrs. Reika Stedman of Laguna Beach, Cal.

Mrs. Lincoln, a widow 56 years old, lived in a $5 a week room at 1221 North Springfield avenue. The wealth was found in safety deposit boxes after her death Nov. 15. With it were old wills in which she and her husband, who died before her, bequeathed their estates to each other. Because her husband's will never was probated, Public Administrator Martin J. O'Brien, was appointed administrator to collect in the husband's estate, to determine what assets originally were Lincoln's. James R. Glass, attorney for Krullaars, asked yesterday that Krullaars be appointed administrator and that O'Brien's appointment be revoked. The hearing on the petition was continued indefinitely by Judge John F. O'Connell in Probate court.

U. S. OFFICIAL SCOFFS AT RUMOR OF PLOT TO BLOW UP BOULDER DAM

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8 (AP).—A state department official disclosed today that a rumor had been heard of a plot to blow up the great Boulder dam near Las Vegas, Nev., but Reclamation Commissioner John C. Page called it ridiculous.

The state department's information, which linked citizens of an unnamed foreign power with the purported plot, was turned over recently to the federal bureau of investigation. The bureau also had been asked by the reclamation bureau some time ago, Page said, to check on police facilities at the dam and recommend improvements, but not as a result of any apprehension of danger.

As a result of the survey, the FBI recommended steps to avoid sabotage, a justice department said, but no evidence of sabotage had been found there.

3 FIREMEN HURT, 18 TRUCKS BURN IN GARAGE BLAZE

Fire destroyed 18 milk trucks owned by the Hawthorne Farms Dairy company and one of three sections of a one story brick building rented by the dairy as a garage at 2259 West Park avenue, Highland Park, yesterday. The loss was estimated at $50,000 by Chief Edward Hoskin of the Highland Park fire department, who said a can of gasoline placed too near a water heater had exploded.

Three Highland Park firemen, Ray Botker, 33 years old; Paul Marty, 35, and Roy Sneeden, 37, incurred minor injuries when the north wall of the building fell. They were treated at Highland Park hospital.

Highland Park firemen, assisted by apparatus from Highwood and Lake Forest, saved the two other sections of the building, which is owned by the E. A. Meyer Construction company. The Meyer company had $75,000 worth of excavating machinery in the section adjacent to that which burned. Six dairy trucks were saved by employés. The dairy is owned by John F. Cuneo, owner of the Cuneo Press.

EYEBROW HIDES BULLET HOLE IN DEATH MYSTERY

A bullet hole under the left eyebrow, hardly discernible except on close examination, gave police the answer yesterday to the death of Alois Girodat, 59 years old, a blacksmith. Girodat was found unconscious Sunday night in the alley behind 1547 Van Buren street. He died early yesterday morning in the County hospital.

Detective John Hennessy, who discovered the bullet hole, theorized Girodat either had been the victim of a holdup man or had been hit by a stray bullet, possibly from the gun of a neighborhood resident, who was shooting rats.

Girodat was identified by his widow, Augustine. They had been playing cards Sunday night with friends at 1456 Harrison street. Mrs. Girodat left about 9 o'clock and her husband was to follow later to the Girodat home at 1425 Jackson boulevard. Mrs. Girodat disclaimed the suggestion that her husband was the victim of another labor slaying. She said he had no union troubles or connections and had been unemployed for some time.

Caraway was from Lauderdale, Miss., Teal from Marshville, N. C., and Bryce from Crockett, Tex. All were members of the coast artillery.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

Behind the Scenes

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. 8.—One of the interesting incongruities of the 1940 Hollywood season is that Hal Roach, master of slapstick and "Our Gang" comedies in the old days, stands as sponsor for "Of Mice and Men," a picture distinguished for its dramatic and artistic integrity. How this picture, foreign to everything that Roach represents in the cinema and as far removed from his Laurel and Hardy comedies as black is removed from white, came to be issued under his imprimatur is one of the more interesting behind the scenes stories. At the time the train of events was coupled and set in motion, I was at the Roach studio writing "There Goes My Heart" for Fredric March, Virginia Bruce, and Patsy Kelly, so I had a ringside seat.

"Of Mice and Men" was released by Roach in December, 1939, because of a studio row in which Director Lewis Milestone was released in December, 1937. The studio row was precipitated by a story called "Road

A Quarrel—then a Great Movie—

Lewis Milestone.

Hal Roach. Milton Bren.

Show," penned by Eric Hatch. Milestone and Marc Connelly collaborated on the screen treatment and when they submitted it to the front office, it was rejected. Milestone, never too diplomatic, thereupon stomped into the office of Studio Boss Milton Bren and proceeded to tell him off. Bren, a very nice guy, and familiar with the temperamental outbursts of creative workers, took it as long as he could, and then told off Milestone. . . . The quarrel became so violent that Bren, as the studio head, had no alternative in the face of mutiny and fired him.

It was a tough blow all around. A tough blow for Milestone, who needed a big picture at that moment; a tough blow for Bren, who had engaged Milestone because he believed deeply in Milly's artistic capabilities; a tough blow for the Roach studios, which were not in position to stand off the financial loss of such a lawsuit as Milestone prepared to initiate.

It was a blue day at the studio when the row started and ended, a disruption in the routine of intimate teamwork which enthusiastic young Bren had created. We all were affected by it—Jean Negulessco, Eric Hatch, Eddie Moran, Frank Ross, Jack Jeone, and particularly Bren, who had been doing a big job under the most adverse conditions, conditions in the front office that resulted finally in Bren's chucking the post in favor of a producer's contract with M.-G.-M. Milestone sued.

With Bren out of the studio, Roach prepared to compromise and learned that Milestone had a script which he was anxious to direct. Roach agreed to produce the script if the lawsuit was waived. The script was "Of Mice and Men" and that is how it came to the screen. It took two years of headaches and heartaches, years which affected every individual concerned and which found Europe involved in a war, but when you see it on the screen as part of a double feature, unless you have read this, you won't know the story behind its filming, and the human values that were involved. . . . "Road Show," which started it all, never has been produced.

The 44 year old Milestone, Russian born, never completely has achieved the high things expected of him, but "Of Mice and Men" may be the first of a series of pictures of which he is capable. If the colony applies rigid standards of perfection to his work and is captious, it is because the colony won't tolerate mediocrity from a director who has authored such fine things as "All Quiet on the Western Front," "Front Page," and the "General Died at Dawn." The genius manifest in these pictures is of such high order that he has supplied his own yardstick, and anything that falls short comes in for critical cuffing.

Noted Lincoln Students Will Attend Supper

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE supper party that the Drama league will give on Sunday for Raymond Massey undoubtedly will be one of the outstanding social affairs of the league's history. In addition to Mr. Massey, who plays the Emancipator in Robert E. Sherwood's play, "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," which opened last night at the Grand Opera house, and the other members of the cast, many Illinoisans and Indianans interested in Lincolniana will be present.

The party will be given in the Gold ballroom of the Drake hotel. Among those who are coming from away to attend it are Paul M. Angle, librarian of the Illinois State Historical library and a noted Lincoln authority; Dr. Louis A. Warren of Fort Wayne, Ind., director of the Lincoln National Life Foundation; Clinton C. Tilton of Danville, Ill., and James A. James, president of the Illinois Historical society.

M. L. Ranney, librarian of the University of Chicago and custodian of the Lincoln collection; Logan Hay, whose grandfather was a partner of Lincoln's; James Rosenthal, Otto Eisenschiml, and Judge John C. Lewe will be guests also. John Pollock, Nathan W. MacChesney, and Frank J. Loesch will make short addresses; Nathaniel Leverone will be toastmaster, and Mrs. Paul Steinbrecher, president of the league, will preside.

Hold Settlement Benefit Tonight.

A white tied audience will greet tonight's performance of "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," for the entire theater has been taken over by the men's board of Northwestern University settlement as a benefit.

A large part of the main floor has been divided into boxes and the list of persons who have taken them is a long and distinguished one.

Distributing programs tonight will be a group of pretty girls, including Miss Helen Mary Bryan, Miss Gertrude Smith, Miss Helen Shoemaker, Miss Alice Blair, Miss Caryl Harrison, and Miss Barbara Buchanan.

Junior Priestleys Parents of Son.

Mr. and Mrs. William Priestley Jr. [Christabel Wheeler] are being congratulated on the birth of a son, William III., on Sunday at the Medical center in New York. Mrs. Priestley's mother, Mrs. Ward Wheeler of Lake Forest, will go east in a week or so to see the baby. Seymour Wheeler of Chicago is the infant's maternal grandfather.

So well has Albert B. Dick Jr. carried out his duties as regional vice president and director of the American Horse Shows association that he was reëlected to these offices at the association's annual meeting last week-end in New York.

The Chicago district was awarded two shows, the Hinsdale meeting on June 15-16, inclusive, and the Lake Forest show on June 19-22, inclusive.

Tavern to Hold Program Tonight.

Tonight the Tavern will have the second Tavern "evening." William M. McGovern will speak in the lounge after dinner on historical personages whom he has encountered in his wayfarings. Dr. McGovern, professor of political science at Northwestern university, is an expert on affairs of the far east; a master of many oriental and European languages, and an experienced traveler to the far places of the world.

Carveth Wells, who will talk at Orchestra hall tonight on "Bermuda in Three Colors," is the guest of the Harold Pynchons. Mr. Wells lives in Bermuda. Tonight's lecture is the first of the 1940 program of the Geographic society.

Arden Shore Group Will Meet Today.

Business matters of the Chicago committee of the Arden Shore association won't be the only interest at a meeting of the committee today at the Arts club. One of the board members just has become engaged. She is Miss Natalie Barnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lee Barnes of the Seneca hotel. Her fiancé is William Vincent Simons, son of Mrs. Eleanor C. Simons of Kentland, Ind.

Miss Barnes and "Tommy" Simons plan to be married early in April. Miss Barnes attended the University of Wisconsin and was graduated from the Chicago Normal School of Physic ' Education. Mr. Simons attended Indiana university.

Mrs. George Traver is chairman of the committee. Today's meeting at 11 o'clock will be the annual one, followed by luncheon at 12:30.

Reveal Engagement of Gertrude Galloway.

At a family dinner at home in Hubbard Woods, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Edwin Galloway announced the engagement of their daughter, Gertrude Hagar, to Dr. Lincoln Bruce Donaldson, son of Mrs. William Lockhart Donaldson and the late Mr. Donaldson of Evanston. The wedding will take place in June.

Miss Galloway made her debut in September, 1937. She spent three years in Mills college in California and now is studying at Northwestern university. Dr. Donaldson, a graduate of the University of Michigan, is interning at the Harper hospital in Detroit, but has received an appointment to the Chicago Lying-In hospital for next fall.

Good Morning!

A pleasant operetta, featuring a pair of unusually handsome and appealing young people, occupies the Sonotone's screen.

It is much on the order of "The Student Prince" and like musical productions, its background being the Heidelberg of a more carefree era—1725—with student life and songs rampant.

The hero, Max Brandt, is a poor student who composes music and falls in love with Helene, Princess of Westphalia, whom he wots not is of royal blood when he meets her. . . . In love with Max is charming Veronika, owner of the Black Whale inn, the students' most beloved hangout.

Veronika's payment of Max debt's, with attendant gossip; Max's discovery of Helen's true status; the advent of the rich uncle of Max's best friend—with a cow, which, believe it or not, is the greatest contributory source of final felicity—provide interesting developments punctuated with charming music.

There is a delicate, brittle, old fashioned music box atmosphere to the whole that is definitely inveigling.

Dialog is in English.

See you soon.

"Life with Father," one of the notable successes of the current New York theater season, will open an engagement in the Blackstone theater on Monday, Feb. 19. Lillian Gish and Percy Waram will head the company, which is being brought together especially for Chicago, since the New York company is in the midst of an indefinite run. The play is an adaptation by Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse of Clarence Day's well known book.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

The question of when, and when not, to cover an honor is, to most players, one of the most perplexing in contract. What they fail to realize is that here is more than mere promotion involved; there also is the vital factor of timing. This is perfectly illustrated in the hand discussed today:

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 diamond	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	3 no tramp	Pass
Pass	Pass

North decided that the chance of taking many spade tricks was exceedingly small, since he had no possible card of entry. So he wasted no time on a lost cause. Instead, he made the shrewd lead of the eight of hearts, hoping to strike a heart suit in South's hand. Dummy played the jack to the first trick and South had to consider the situation. It was perfectly obvious, from West's bidding and the wealth of honor cards exposed in the dummy, that North must be either completely or very nearly devoid of entry cards or stoppers. He, South, however, had both diamonds and clubs stopped, and there was a good chance that he would twice gain the lead. The Rule of Eleven proved that North's heart opening had been "phony," since five higher cards were in sight. If South were to cover the heart jack, on gaining the lead in clubs or spades, he would have to lead up to dummy's remaining Q-9, but if he ducked, and declarer had only one guard to his ace, the second heart lead would establish South's suit. On this correct analysis, South played low to the first heart lead.

His judgment was well rewarded. Declarer first knocked out the diamond ace but the heart return drove out his now unguarded ace. Later declarer took the club finesse, which gave South the lead for his three good heart tricks.

West could have made his contract had he dreamed that South had only two spades. The method of play would have been to cash his diamonds after he had established them, take the ace and king of spades, and then throw South in the lead by playing dummy's last heart. After running his hearts South would have been forced to lead a club, giving West two club tricks and the contract. This line of play would have been double dummyish.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

After more than a year in the east, "Abe Lincoln in Illinois" has at last arrived in Illinois. The play settled down last night at the Grand Opera house, only a few blocks from where Lincoln was nominated for the presidency, and prepared to draw strength for a long run from whatever good Illinois soil may still be left under Clark street.

A big audience—composed partly of the general public, partly of members of Chicago's large colony of Lincoln authorities—welcomed "Abe Lincoln in Illinois" in the manner in which a great play, superbly performed, deserves to be welcomed. This audience established so close a rapport with the stage forces that reactions were all but instantaneous. The company electrified the audience, and was itself electrified in return.

"Abe Lincoln in Illinois" carries the future President from his twenties to his fifties. It starts near New Salem in the days when the gangling backwoodsman was striving to acquire a little book learning, it ends with the night of Feb. 11, 1861, when the train carrying the President elect left Springfield for Washington and the inauguration.

The theme of the play is the transformation of Lincoln. He is shown as a man afraid of life, a man who wanted only to drift. He becomes a person enlightened enough to sense his destiny and courageous enough to face it. With admirable craftsmanship the playwright has made every episode and nearly every character bear directly upon this theme.

Still more admirable than the writer's craftsmanship is his restraint. Realizing that the grandeur of his theme forbids anything chauvinistic or sententious, Mr. Sherwood never becomes grandiloquent [except where he has to in order to make minor characters true to life] and never becomes sentimental in a facile way. Even in dealing with Ann Rutledge, where a lesser playwright would be tempted to go to town, the treatment is simple, sincere, and [consequently] tremendously moving.

The character of Lincoln as presented in this play is a revelation to those of us who have taken our conception of him from textbooks. Here was no untutored mind making a simple fetich of the idea of an indivisible Union, but a man profoundly aware of the maddening ethical questions involved in the civil war. "Both sides right—both sides wrong," he says symbolically in one scene.

The theme and its treatment are two of the reasons for the impact which the play makes on a modern audience. Still another is the poignancy which every homely scene takes on when we view it against the backdrop of the civil war. For a modern audience knows things that the Lincoln of New Salem and Springfield only dimly sensed. We see every scene not as an entity in itself but in its proper historical perspective.

Raymond Massey's great characterization of Lincoln is helped by the fact that he looks more like Lincoln than Lincoln did. The able supporting cast is made up of men and women with a genius for preserving the somewhat comic, tintype appearance that we associate with the middle 1800s, and at the same time giving their problems and their emotions an urgency and a dignity which quickly wipe the smile off our faces.

At the conclusion of the play the audience stayed in the theater to tender the company an ovation which an experienced theatergoer described as one of the greatest in recent history.

Burlesque Bund Meeting.

Just south of Lincoln park, in the rear of the mansion at 1520 North State street, there is a two story addition which has a large studio room on the second floor. This room has several windows that look out on nearby residences, an apartment building, and a hotel. This by way of preamble.

A group of advertising men gave a party in the studio and their guest of honor was one of their number now identified with an important New York firm. After dinner, as a diversion, they decided to hold a mock German bund meeting and the guest of honor was asked to preside as Fuehrer. The studio was warm and the windows were opened, and when it was discovered that his stentorian tones had drawn an audience to windows and on fire escapes in adjacent buildings, the mock Fuehrer raised his voice. When he recognized speakers from the floor he called them by such Teutonic names as Schulz, Dinkelspiel, and Himmler. At one point in the proceedings he took a sword from the wall and brandished it. . . . So now if you hear a German bund meeting was held on the near north side, you will know it was a burlesque.

Last of the Barrymore tales (for the season): John Barrymore and Joe Sanders were seated at the same table trying to keep pace with the autograph hunters. One young girl who had asked for and received Barrymore's autograph exclaimed: "Now, won't I have something to tell the folks back home!"

"What happened?" asked Barrymore.

Doris Dudley, Barrymore's leading lady in My Dear Children, which is opening its New York run, wept over leaving Chicago. She sent her two children—one of them is five and Doris is twenty-one—east on an earlier train and stayed in Chicago until the last possible moment, going to a farewell party Frieda Foltz gave in her honor and to the theater Sunday night to see Constance Bennett on the boards where she has been appearing since spring.

Last of the Italian exhibit tales: A young man and his wife were looking at the Italian paintings in the exhibit.

"Isn't it remarkable how they applied paint that has lasted thru the centuries?" he commented.

"How did they know they were going to be the great masters?" asked his wife.

★ THRU THE LOOKING GLASS ★

We've just discovered that we've had a lipstick around for several weeks that wasn't properly appreciated when it first came in. It was overlooked in the Christmas shuffle, which is really something in this department! After using it often, but without thinking about it much, we've suddenly awakened to the fact that it's a find.

First, it has special winter charms. Texture perfection. It's ever so creamy, without being so runny that it slithers all over your face after it's been on an hour. All those women whose lips chap in winter and who want a lip rouge that's protection as well as adornment shouldn't lose a moment in tracking this one down.

Its second virtue is that the shade is wonderful. It's called "daredevil" red. We expected this to be a fairly light, bright red, but while it's bright it's not light. We like this because the color has warmth and depth—two qualities that make it a bit more flattering for the average person than those hard shades.

The color doesn't change, and it stays on remarkably well.

The same stick is available in several colors.

The case is a handsome one, but the price is not exorbitant. And the stick will last a long time.

The Girl in the Shadows

SYNOPSIS.

On the eve of her marriage, Cynthia Brentford, fashion artist, is sentenced to 18 months in prison under the name of Clara Brown. A casual date with Rory Clark has made her, unknowingly, an accomplice—in robbery and murder. Unaware of the disaster, her fiancé, Michael Alloway, is on his way from Malta for the wedding. At Honebyker, route to Honebyker, where her childhood playmate, Bessie Stockley, has just received an appointment as prison wardress.

INSTALMENT II.

PRISON.

Cynthia had always thought of prison as a place in which enormous, harsh voiced dragons bullied the inmates in surroundings of grim squalor. Actually, Honebyker looked rather like a huge block of modern flats, and being admitted as a prisoner was rather like being admitted to a hospital as a charity patient. People were curt but quite civil and went out of their way to indicate that they, personally, wished her no harm.

The van had passed thru the outer courtyard, approaching thru an iron gate that was by no means ugly. Thru another iron gate into an inner courtyard and then past a porter's office into a wide, square hall. She was led first to a second office, where a male clerk took particulars of her personal property, next of kin, and so on, warning her that she was allowed to refuse information if she wished but must not give false information. She decided to refuse. Then to a third office, where a woman clerk recorded details of her health and clothing. And then, at the turn of the corridor, to the lady governor's room.

She tried to give attention while the lady governor explained her routine and gave her a book of rules.

"Remember this, Brown, the reason why you have been sent here has nothing to do with us. You stand on your merits—you have a completely clean sheet. You can keep it clean by doing your work good temperedly and obeying the rules. At first the life will be harder for you than it is for some others, but if you do your best we shall help you."

This little homily was frequently interrupted by wardresses and each time, Cynthia observed, the lady governor asked the name. Already she had formed the odd impression that none of the staff seemed to know each other.

It was in the clothing store that the thing she had dreaded promptly happened. The wardress who had taken her there relinquished her charge when "Clara Brown" had been fitted with a uniform. Cynthia was gathering up the bundle when another voice spoke behind her.

"Follow me, please, to your cubicle."

Bessie Stockley's voice! Keeping her head bowed, Cynthia followed her to a small rectangular room with wooden walls, a bed, washstand, three picture hangers and a flap table fixed to the wall. The wardress had come in behind her.

"Sixty-three is your number and you will answer to it at all times——"

Bessie's voice failed and stopped. Her eyes seemed to start from her head. Instinctively Cynthia stepped swiftly towards her and pressed a hand over the open mouth.

"Steady, Bessie dear! Steady!"

"Miss Cynthia!" groaned Bessie from behind the warning hand. And then in an appalled whisper, as Cynthia dropped it—"I can't believe this, I simply can't! I'm asleep and dreaming! Miss Cynthia, say it's an awful mistake, for heaven's sake!"

"It is a mistake, but the mistake was mine. The only stupid thing I haven't done is to give anybody my real name. I'm Clara Brown here, and in the reports of the trial."

Bessie took a handkerchief from her overall pocket and wiped the moisture from her brow.

"You—you simply haven't done anything bad!"

"I haven't, Bessie. I swear it. Do you have to tell them my real name?"

"How are they to know I know you! You're part of my private life, and that's my own."

Of the two it was the wardress who was the more shaken.

"And what about Mr. Alloway?" she demanded.

"That's one thing you can do for me, if you will—in your private life. I gave a false name because I thought the whole thing would be over in a few days and I wanted to avoid the scandal. I simply couldn't believe they would send me to prison. And now, of course, he'll have to be told. Will you break it to him, Bessie—as gently and kindly as you can?"

"That'll be terrible," breathed Bessie. "But, of course, I will, if you want me to! Tho what I shall say to him——"

"Just tell him!" sighed Cynthia. "I'd rather he heard it from a friend of mine. He arrives at Waterloo station at 11:15 on the 23d. Will you be able to get leave off duty here at that time?"

"The 23d. That's a Saturday. I can manage that all right because I'm going on a fortnight's holiday on the Friday.

"It's awful having you here," she added with a moan. "You'll have to put those clothes on now. Sir John's daughter in convict clothes—he'd turn in his grave! And so would my dad, too. I mustn't stay now."

Bessie raised her voice and added in official tones:

"When you've changed, make a list of all the clothes you've taken off and roll them in that sheet."

"Yes, miss."

A moment later Cynthia was changing into the prison clothes. The uniform, no longer grotesquely hideous, but sufficiently plain and unattractive, was too big for her but she did not care.

She had no duties the first day. Her tea was brought to her by an orderly, a fellow convict.

The "tea" was cocoa. There was also some bread and margarine to which Cynthia felt unequal. She sat in a haze of listlessness, trying to envisage the fact that this was to be her life for the next 18 months. A year, if she were of good conduct. A year, or 18 months, or 18 years—what did it matter? She was a convict. Michael could not be asked to forget a stigma like that.

The listlessness, a symptom of shock, stayed with her during those first days of initiation into the prison routine. Her duties were light, tho monotonous—that of sorting and listing articles for the laundry, ironing and mending. The prison authorities tried to avoid impairing a convict's power of earning a living. "Clara Brown" had described herself as an artist so she was given work that would not strain the muscles of her hands.

Twice in the first week her cubicle was changed. Honebyker was a short term prison and a clearing house for those with longer sentences who would spend only their first six months there. Equally, it was a clearing house for warders and wardresses, who would spend short periods there before being posted to one of the regular convict prisons.

The listlessness was pierced twice by Bessie, who had been to Cynthia's flat on her free afternoons and smuggled her in some letters. There was one from Michael.

"Can't write any more, darling. The time's so short. It's much more fun thinking about Waterloo, 11:15, on the 23d. Everything O-kay here.

"Love, MICHAEL."

There were two other notes in similar vein, each breathing a delighted impatience.

Bessie fixed it so that Cynthia could write back. She echoed the tone of his letters. She had, she said, no time for writing as she was so busy with her trousseau and clearing up her work. She felt that, as she could not tell him all, it would be better to tell him nothing—to leave it to Bessie.

A Child Should Obey Without Fearing Parent

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Consistency is one of the foundation stones in the management of children. It is especially important where an effort is being made to gain a child's obedience, and it is especially important in the earlier years when this, among other habits, is being formed.

How can we expect obedience of a child who is confused by prohibition one moment and indulgence the next?

In fact, there are a number of simple means for obtaining obedience that those parents who are having trouble in that direction might run over to advantage. Here they are:

First, don't think of obedience as an end in itself. Think of it instead as a convenience and a protection.

Next, don't think of yourself as a commanding officer and your child as a subordinate. If you get rid of this idea you get rid of lots of trouble, too.

Expect as few definite things from your child as possible.

Be reasonable in what you ask your children to do.

Be considerate of them as far as is sensible. They dislike interruptions just as grown people do.

Ask as you would of a grown person, with the evident expectation of being obeyed.

Allow a reasonable time for obedience [except in real emergencies].

Allow at times for more than one call or request. Children at play have a tremendous power of concentration.

When you want explicit obedience, make your request explicit also. Tell them clearly what you want them to do, and with little children let it be just one thing at a time. Sometimes they seem to be disobedient when they are only confused.

As soon as they are old enough to understand give them a simple explanation of why you may sometimes expect them to do instantly what you ask.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

There's a fashion run on jersey! This caressively clinging stuff is the sensation of almost every clothes collection unpacked. Thin jersey wool daytime dresses come in fascinating models shirred for decoration and distinctive fit, cut with elbow length sleeves and flattering swathed shirred necklines. The most sophisticated dinner clothes are of brilliantly colored wool or silk jersey. Most of the skirts are full and gathered simply into a wide belt and the colors are beautiful.

New are the two piece novelty jerseys priced and styled for the career girl wardrobes. The skirts are priced around $3, and a nail studded blouse tops likewise. Another jersey slipon blouse top comes in a printed stripe pattern—not the simple alternate stripes of white and red or white and blue, but interesting variations of width in the contrast shades.

The these striped jerseys were originally designed for southern resort wardrobes, they are equally effective here at home when teamed with the skirts of the same color or contrast to the stripes. The skirts are cleverly made, with the fullness expertly distributed to keep the streamline smoothly slender and they are reversible. The fullness can be worn either in front or back.

You can find a good assortment of colors: Royal blue, burnt sugar, red, and black. The blouses with nail stud trim can be matched exactly to the skirts of any color selected or they can be mixed with some eye catching results. The striped blouses can be worn with either royal blue or red skirts or with black.

By Evelyn Holmes

Jan. 9, 1940.

An "at home" day. Keep it peaceful.. Those born on the 9th of any month as well as those born on the 18th and 27th are emotional and those in a 6-year as are those born on today's date may find there is a little self-sacrificing to be done this year for the sake of the family. The freedom that is in the air this year is not for them. A good year for marriage for those born on this date, or for establishing a home.

The Housewife

The beautiful craftsmanship of Swedish glassmakers has inspired one of our domestic manufacturers, who is now bringing out a handsome new line of products. Vases and flower bowls, massive and of fine proportions, are among the most interesting of the items. Some are of clear crystal, while others have been given a swirl effect. One or two have classic heads or figures engraved as decoration.

The fruit and cake or biscuit desserts—the cobblers, the upside down cake, the shortcakes, and fruit dumplings—may be old fashioned, but they're still mighty good.

An apple cobbler recipe may be used to make any kind of fresh or canned fruit dessert, with only a change in the amount of sugar to agree with the tartness or sweetness of the fruit used.

Apple Cobbler.
[Serves Eight.]

2 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
6 tablespoons butter, margarine, or vegetable shortening
⅔ cup milk
4 to 6 medium apples, sliced thinly
¾ cup white sugar
¾ cup brown sugar, packed firmly
¾ teaspoon cinnamon
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon vinegar

Sift flour once, measure, and resift with baking powder and salt. Cut in shortening. Add milk and stir to dampen all the flour. Then stir vigorously until mixture forms a soft dough that will follow the spoon around the bowl. Turn onto a slightly floured board and knead gently for half a minute. Roll two-thirds of the dough out to a quarter inch thickness and fit into an eight inch square pan, lining sides as well as bottom. Arrange sliced apples over the dough and sprinkle with a mixture of the sugar and cinnamon. Dot with butter and sprinkle with vinegar. Roll remaining dough a quarter inch thick. Slit it in several places to allow for the escape of steam. Fit over apples, pressing edges of dough together with a fork. Bake in hot oven, 450 degrees, for 15 minutes, then reduce heat to moderate, 350 degrees, and bake 40 minutes longer, or until apples are tender. Serve warm with cream.

Prune and Pecan Upside Down Cake.
[Eight inch square pan.]

1¼ cups sifted cake flour
1¼ teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup butter or other shortening
⅝ cup sugar
1 egg, well beaten
½ cup prune juice
1 teaspoon vanilla

TOPPING: Four tablespoons butter, one-half cup brown sugar, firmly packed; six large stewed prunes, cut in halves and pitted; 12 pecan meats.

Sift flour, baking powder, and salt together several times. Cream shortening and beat in sugar. Beat until mixture is fluffy. Add egg. Alternately add flour and prune juice, beating well after each addition. Add vanilla.

Melt the four tablespoons butter in the baking pan over low heat. Add brown sugar. Stir until melted. Fill prune halves with pecans and arrange, cut side down, in sugar-butter mixture. Pour batter over the combination. Bake in a 350 degree oven for 50 minutes, or until done. Loosen cake from bottom and sides of pan with spatula. Turn out and serve garnished with whipped cream, or plain.

Dainty Frock for the Home

WOMAN'S AND MISS' HOME FROCK.

We have labeled this a home frock, but, candidly, it's pretty enough in washable silks and printed linens to do honors down south of the Mason and Dixon line on your winter vacation. The square neckline is untrimmed, and the cuffs on the puffed sleeves have rick-rack braid trimming to match the line of it across the shoulder yoke. The bodice is softened with shirring below the yoke. The pockets are the most interesting feature of this otherwise simple dress, which should be made, for everyday wear, of inexpensive cottons. The sleeve length is optional.

Style No. 3153 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material, with 1½ yards of braid for short sleeved version, and 3¾ yards with ¼ yard of contrasting for long sleeved model.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

For 15 cents buy the winter Chicago Tribune book of Clotilde Fashions, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to the New York address above.

New Chamber of Horrors—a Guest Room

BY MARCIA WINN.

You probably won't believe this, but the most neglected room in your home, if you have one, is the guest room. You may not know it, but your guest does.

This bit of woe became known at an "Ask the Experts" luncheon with which the American Furniture mart yesterday opened its winter home furnishings market. To it and to the market at the Merchandise Mart some 11,000 buyers are expected to come within the next two weeks. The buyers come from all regions of the United States, Canada, and Mexico. The first Indian buyer, a man from Calcutta, arrived Sunday.

Many gems of home furnishings information came out of the "Ask the Experts" luncheon. The problem bothering the average homeowner, when he wishes to furnish or redecorate, is color. The wood with the greatest volume of sales is gum; the reason: It is the cheapest. The 1940 furniture trend is "Gone with the Wind"; in the words of an expert, "It will be no hurricane, but a nice, gentle breeze from the south that is going to waft its loveliness around the country. It's really just Victorian all over again."

But back to the guest room. Bedroom floors and bathroom windows are generally neglected in the average home, the expert said, but the guest room "is traditionally horrible."

"It usually looks wonderful to walk into," she said, "but when you start to live in it, it's bad. People always say you should try sleeping in your own guest room. The guest room mattress is a legend, but its lighting is usually worse. Try and read in it, or try and write a letter. Try to be even comfortable."

The expert offered no specific remedy for this tragedy other than to suggest that the housewife try and forget it is a guest room. "Put one of the children in it," she said, "and make it livable. Then when the guest comes, move the child in with her big sister."

Among the furniture news of 1940, listed by another expert, is the use of a good deal of simplified French furniture, a continuation of modern [with much of the new oxblood finish], the use of periwinkle blue and emerald green, liquor cabinets disguised to look like much more innocent pieces of furniture, and phonograph record cabinets.

FIRST CALL FOR CHICAGO GOLDEN GLOVES!

N. U., ILLINOIS WIN; PURDUE BEATS OHIO STATE, 49-32

KLEIN STARS AS WILDCATS WHIP GOPHERS, 46-38

Illini Defeat Maroon Quintet, 34-33.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 8 [Special.]—Dick Klein of Northwestern's basketball team scored 21 points here tonight in a duplication of his showing against Notre Dame. His mates added 25 more and the Purple boomed back to wallop Minnesota, 46 to 38, for its first Big Ten victory. A crowd of 8,500 saw the game.

Klein just couldn't be stopped tonight. The Gophers, try as they might, could not fathom his fake and pivot under the basket, and the net result was nine field goals and three free throws. The Purple, as a team, collected only 17 field goals.

Gophers Lose Smith.

The Gophers were very much in the rough ball game thru the first 25 minutes. They trailed, 25 to 26, at the half, the margin being Klein's late free throw.

Wildcats Finally Go Ahead.

After a defensive standoff for the first five minutes of the second half, Minnesota took a 27 to 28 lead on Smith's basket, but Vance tied it up again with a free throw, then went ahead on Harman's basket. Two free throws by Warhol were matched by Shepard's one to keep the Purple still out in front, at 30 to 29. They exchanged the lead until Northwestern took the edge finally at 35 to 33, and never was headed thereafter.

Lineup:

ILLINOIS, 34; CHICAGO, 33

Champaign, Ill., Jan. 8 [Special].—Joe Frank, 5 foot 6 inch forward from Vandalia, scored a field goal in the last 30 seconds of play to give Illinois a 34 to 33 victory over Chicago here tonight.

It was Illinois' first Big Ten victory of the season, and the second loss for the Maroons.

Four successive baskets by Capt. Dick Lounsbury, Chicago center, had put the Maroons in front, 33 to 32, when, with 31 seconds left, Chicago called time out.

Bill Hapac Returns.

Capt. Bill Hapac passed the ball in to Frank as play was resumed and the little forward sent a perfect shot through the net from the corner of the floor.

Hapac, who has been ill with an attack of influenza which forced him to miss the Indiana game Saturday, returned to action at the beginning of the second half and scored six points.

Lead at Half, 18 to 16.

Illinois held a half time margin of 18 to 16 by virtue of the marksmanship of Walter [Hoot] Evers, sophomore forward, who scored six points to wipe out Chicago's 16 to 12 lead.

The Illini apparently had a safe margin when they led, 32 to 24, with less than seven minutes left. But Richardson counted a free throw and Lounsbury scored four field goals and almost had the Illinois defense in a panic. Lineups:

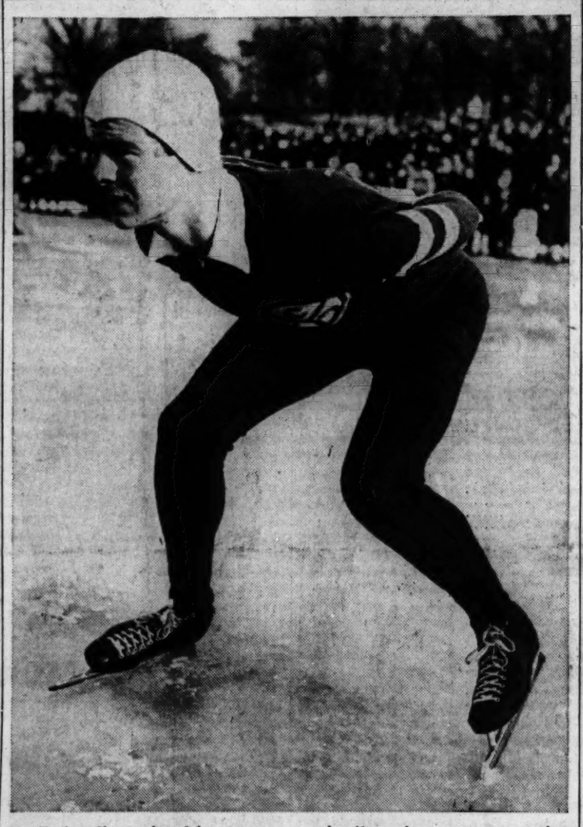
He Has the Speed to Win Silver Skates



Twice disappointed in attempts to win silver skates as a competitor in the junior and intermediate classes, Lowell Miller of Elgin believes this is his year. He will compete in the men's senior class in the Derbies sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., Saturday and Sunday in Garfield park. He was never in better racing form. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

KANSAS DEFEATS LOYOLA, 40-36; DE PAUL VICTOR

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The University of Kansas, synonymous in the Big Six conference with championship basketball, whipped Loyola last night in the Coliseum, 40 to 36. But before the Jayhawks earned their victory the Ramblers had come within two points of a tie with 45 seconds to play.

More important, in the hot and cold chills Loyola and Kansas served to 3,000 customers were the three times the score was tied and the seven times the lead changed hands.

Ramblers Lead at Half.

Loyola finished the half with a brilliant rally that broke a tie in the last seconds for a lead, 24 to 22. Capt. George Wenskus then scored first in the second half for Loyola, but this four point advantage was the Ramblers' last bid until the closing minute.

In the opening game last night, DePaul university trounced Kansas State, 56 to 30.

Ralph Miller, Kansas forward, was the principal reason why Loyola couldn't win. Miller scored 22 points, nine field goals and four penalty shots in five attempts. He carried the burden of the attack, but it also is true that Kansas' methodical, sometimes cautious, bounce pass attack, centered around his shooting, with the passing being directed by Robert Allen.

Wenskus and Vince Graham featured Loyola's play, but all the first team showed vast improvement. Loyola's delayed break caused Kansas no end of trouble, particularly in the first half. Miller's spurt of three consecutive field goals, after Loyola led, 26 to 22, passed the Ramblers for the last time. Loyola never cut the subsequent Kansas lead to less than four points until the rousing finish.

Kline Makes Last Score.

Then with Kansas leading 38 to 34, and after each team had declined, a free throw, Wenskus shot from mid-

His Luck Is Due for a Turn in Silver Skates

Lowell Miller of the Catholic Youth organization skating team hopes to become a physician like his father. Saturday and Sunday, however, his medical ambitions will be secondary, for the handsome athlete will seek to win the men's senior Silver Skates Derby on the Garfield park lagoon in the annual event sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

Miller, who is 19 years old, has been trying to win a pair of Silver Skates since he learned to skate 10 years ago. Racing luck, however, always has interfered. In 1936 he seemed to have the junior pair of Silver Skates clinched when he fell in the half mile final event. He arose and fought back into contention, but down he went for the second time. Despite the mishaps, he managed to finish a good fourth.

Finishes Second in 1937.

As an intermediate in 1937 he came closer to his goal by finishing second to Tom Baacke. In the Silver Skates Derbies this week-end Miller believes he finally will win—if luck gives him a break.

Miller is taking a premedical course at Loyola university. He lives at 690 Linden avenue in Elgin and is the son of Dr. Fred C. Miller.

The Elgin star has never been in better racing condition, his father declares. He has come dangerously close to defeating the noted Leo Freisinger in several early skating meets this winter. Toward the latter part of last winter he struck his stride when he took three southwest indoor championships in St. Louis. In that meet Miller won the 440, mile, and two mile events.

Ties for Second Place.

In his own home town he almost won the 1939 Tristate title, but was beaten out by his teammate, Vic Ronchetti. Miller tied for second place with Ray Dorsam, who also will skate in the Silver Skates Derbies.

RUTHVEN FAVORS FOOTBALL; FEARS HUGE SPECTACLES

Sees No Reason for Alarm in Big Ten.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 8.—Alexander Grant Ruthven, guard on the Morningside college football teams of 1901 and 1902, but with the University of Michigan since 1906, starting as a zoölogy instructor and becoming president of the university in 1929, has a reputation of being one of the most avid "football deëmphasis" advocates among distinguished educators of the nation.

Dr. Ruthven, in the last year or so, and as late as six weeks ago, has been widely quoted after blasts he has taken at football as it is managed in some sectors. As a result of Ruthven blasts which we have read it was with some trembling that we visited him here to inquire about what he thought of the way the University of Chicago took a runout powder recently on Dr. Ruthven's league, the Big Ten.

Michigan Will Continue.

Now, after an hour's visit with the doctor, we are happy to announce that, so far as the Wolverine prexy is concerned, football will be played at Michigan next year and for many successive autumns to come.

Perhaps, since we have mentioned Dr. Ruthven's football blasts, here is a good place to quote one of his hottest expressions on the subject of football. After you have read it we'll surprise you by saying that maybe Dr. Ruthven isn't nearly as tough on football as some may think; that his main idea is that no university is or should be rated by the success of its football team, and that football is all right if it takes a properly modest integral part in the scheme of things educational.

The President Speaks.

The quotation here is from page 6 of the president's report, a finely printed tome of 396 pages. After reporting the appointment of Mr. Herbert O. Crisler as succesor to Mr. Harry G. Kipke as Head Football Coach [the capitals and the misters are Dr. Ruthven's] the president's report on page 6 says:

"It is the earnest hope of those interested in providing opportunities for Michigan students to secure a broad education, that physical training can be protected on the one hand from being slipshod play unrelated to health and on the other from undue emphasis on competition and professionalism. To a ridiculous extent football has degenerated, in American colleges, from an interesting game for young people into an extravagant spectacle, from a means of inculcating ideas of team play and good sportsmanship into an absurdly competitive sport about which tend to spring up all the evils characteristic of professional competition among those whose sole desire is to win. If football cannot be given back to the students and to the instructors who use the game for educational purposes, it had better be abolished before it contaminates other sports which up to the present

DUKE university adherents already are talking up George McAfee, half back, for a starting position in this year's Chicago All-Star game. . . . McAfee is a left handed passer and a left footed kicker. . . . Stanley Harris ranks next to Connie Mack in years of service as a manager in the American league. . . . He has served 16 seasons with three clubs. . . . Several years ago Ralph Guldahl, former national open golf champion, was staked to his hotel bill by a friend, Ray Brown. . . . Guldahl now owns a beautiful home in Coral Gables, Fla., a short distance from a hotel operated by Brown. . . . Roy Cullenbine of the Tigers made only three home runs last season and all were off Bob Feller. . . . Mickey Rooney was refused admittance to the Tropical Park race track in Florida one day last week. . . . "I'm Mickey Rooney and I'm 19 years old," he told a gateman. . . . "Yo' all is still a minor, so get away from this heah horse park, son," replied the attendant. . . . The late John McGraw once bet a golfer he could not drive a golf ball from home plate into the bleachers at the Polo Grounds. . . . McGraw lost when the party of the second part grabbed a mashie and blasted five balls out of the park. . . . Australia is preparing to defend the Davis cup in Melbourne when the series is resumed. . . . The horseshoe shaped stadium where the matches would be held seats 120,000. . . . None of the city's three leading educational institutions—Chicago, Loyola, and De Paul—plays intercollegiate football. . . . Sol Butler, once one of the greatest track athletes in the land, is dazzling the south side with a jauntily perched blue beret as he escorts Altus Allen, his young heavyweight boxer, around the section. . . . The San Diego Marines football team, undefeated in 1939, includes four players who enlisted in Chicago. . . . They are George E. Madden Jr., Warren B. Jones, Richard E. Patch Jr., and Clarence C. Klinck. . . . Bill Robinson, stage and screen star, recently celebrated his 61st birthday by tap dancing down Broadway from 61st street to Times Square. . . . Dick Klein, Northwestern's sophomore basketball star, is said to be some pumpkins as a baseball pitcher. . . . George Hainsworth of the 1928-'29 Canadiens, still holds the National Hockey league record for goal tending. . . . He yielded only 43 goals in 44 games and turned in 22 shutouts.

Who's Right?

A bright young man named Hutchins
Took Greeley's words to heart
And journeyed to the westward
To help us do our part.

He settled on the Midway and Performed a splendid job.
If he'd stuck to education,
No one of us could sob.

But in this young man's fancy
Sport was a problem child.
So he sponsored ten cent football
And drove the sports world wild.

Ignored Chicago's ranking
In sports these many years
And other schools as scholarly,
To force on us his fears

That football's incompatible
With education's aims,
And alumni unimportant who
Lay stress on college games.

Yet still we'll see Fair Harvard
Play Princeton and old Yale
And Dartmouth meet Columbia;
Mr. Hutchins, who will fail?

Sue resolved for the new year
That she'd have a holy fear
Of a boy friend who drank anything

At one time she used to think
It was quite all right to drink,
But her New Year's eve experience had taught her.

She would shun like very death
Any newcomer whose breath
Had the faintest redolence of

And it mattered not that he Might be handsome as could be
Or might have a lot of English on

What good was a clever chap
Who became a drooling sap
Every time that you went with him on a date,
One who got so blooming tight
That he went out like a light
And must be transported home like

Or it might be worse than that
If he went out on a bat
And insisted upon piloting the car;
Sue might not have time to jump
When he struck the fatal bump,
And she'd wind up with a harp or

LAWSON LITTLE WINS WITH A 282 AT LOS ANGELES

Beats Heafner by a Shot in Coast Golf.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 8 (AP).—Golf's forgotten man, Lawson Little, stormed out of the wilderness today and won the 15th annual Los Angeles open with a display of scoring unequaled in this old tournament.

Trailing the leader, Clayton Heafner of Linville, N. C., by five strokes going into the final 18 holes, and virtually ignored in the pre tournament guesses, the one time king of the world's amateurs wound up the day with 65 and a 72 hole score of 282, one stroke better than Heafner, who finished second.

Lawson Little.

He Collects $1,500.

Despite the fact the Los Angeles Country club course was soaked by rain from start to finish it was the finest competitive round in the history of the event and netted Little, now a pro at Bretton Woods, N. H., $1,500 first prize money.

Putting like a magician, the sturdy alumnus of Stanford university scored his second major tournament triumph as a professional with nine hole scores of 32—33—65 for the very difficult par 35—35—70 course. Little won the 1936 Canadian open.

Olin Dutra Is Third.

Former National Open Champion Olin Dutra came back on the last nine with a spectacular 31, but wound up in third place with a 69 for 285. Four strokes behind him were Jimmy Hines of New York and Johnny Dawson, former Chicago amateur. Three other pros who had a chance of overhauling Heafner blew up.

Dawson, low amateur, won this honor for the second straight year and the third time in his career.

NOVICE TOURNAMENTS.
WEST—Madison Athletic club, Feb. 5, 6, and 7.
SOUTH—White City, Feb. 6, 7, and 8.
NORTH—Loyola university, Feb. 12, 13, and 14.

OPEN TOURNAMENTS.
CHICAGO TOURNAMENT—Coliseum, Feb. 20, 21, and 22.
TOURNAMENT OF CHAMPIONS—Chicago Stadium, Feb. 26, 27, and 28.
FINALS—Chicago Stadium, March 6.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Golden Gloves—the 13th annual tournament sponsored by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.—now is open to the amateur boxers of Chicago and immediate vicinity. Registration may be made by using the entry blank which will be printed daily in these columns. Notification of the date of physical examination then will be mailed to all contestants.

Chicago's tournaments, for the first time since novice matches were included in the Golden Gloves program several years ago, will be distinguished in 1940 by separation of the experienced and inexperienced boxers into two meets. The decision to carry Chicago's open division tournaments to completion and crown eight Chicago Golden Gloves champions offers greater reward for Chicago amateurs. This policy also will send only eight Chicago boys into the Tournament of Champions Feb. 26-27-28 in the Chicago Stadium where they will compete with the champions from 44 cities from 13 states.

Only Eight to Qualify.

Chicago's open division tournament, for experienced boxers, will be held in the Chicago Coliseum Feb. 20-21-22. This will be the only appearance of all of Chicago's experienced boxers and this tournament also will include the eight amateur boxing champions of the Catholic Youth organization. In other years the C. Y. O. champions have been permitted to enter the Tournament of Champions without qualifying in the Chicago sectionals.

In addition, in the three sectional tournaments for novice boxers, two boys in each weight in each section will be awarded medals. These boxers, if they wish, may enter the Chicago Coliseum tournament to compete for a Chicago championship. This procedure eliminates all novices from the Chicago Stadium.

Winning Team to Get Trophy.

The eight Chicago champions will receive suitable awards and the Chicago team scoring the most points in the finals of the Coliseum tournament will receive a team trophy. This trophy, in other years, has been presented at the Chicago Stadium. The eight Chicago champions will be furnished with uniforms and robes for their participation in the Tournament of Champions.

The Coliseum tournament now has significance for Chicago's amateurs who in other years merely qualified in one of four Chicago sectional meets and advanced to the Stadium.

No date has been set for closing entries to the Open and Novice divisions. This date, or dates, since the more experienced boxers will not appear until Feb. 20, will be determined by the number of contestants. Only three sectional tournaments will be held for novice boxers. The first of these will be in the Madison Athletic club, 4717 West Madison street, Feb. 5, 6, and 7. On Feb. 6, 7, and 8 the south side novice boxers will compete in White City, South Park avenue and 63d street. The last novice tournament will be held in Loyola university gymnasium, Loyola avenue and Sheridan road, on Feb. 12, 13, and 14.

From these tournaments will come a maximum of 48 novices who will be night, the defending basketball champions of the Western conference losing 49 to 32. Just as it was the Boilermakers' second conference triumph, it was the Buckeyes' second setback.

Balanced scoring, as in past games, was largely responsible for the Boilermakers' sixth straight victory, altho the brilliant play of John [Mickey] Tierney, sophomore from Chicago, was conspicuous from the time he entered the game midway in the first half and sparked a drive that put Purdue well out in front for the first time.

Boilermakers Spurt.

After building up a five point lead resulting from shots by Tierney and Forest Sprowl just before the first half ended, the Boilermakers put on one of their typical scoring spurts the last ten minutes of the second half. Sprowl, Igney, Fisher, and Tierney scored in succession to put Purdue out in front, 35 to 26, and the Buckeyes faded rapidly during the remainder of the game. Lineups:

TERRY AND THE PIRATES—COLLECT DELIVERY

Hawks Battle Canadiens on Montreal Ice

The Blackhawks and Canadiens, who played a hockey match in Chicago Sunday night, tonight will go to it again in Montreal. Manager Paul Thompson, as soon as he had recovered from losing the Sunday game, 2 to 1, on a last minute goal, bundled up 15 players and set out for tonight's engagement.

The game Sunday night ended an eleven game losing streak for the Canadiens, but tonight's game will start with the Canucks only a half game behind the Hawks. Thus the contest will determine whether the Hawks will remain in fourth place, or give way to their adversaries of the evening.

Tonight's engagement will be the second of the season between the teams on Montreal ice, the first since the Montreal opener on Nov. 5. It seems sorta sinful to bring up that game, for the Canadiens beat the Hawks, 8 to 2. It is not likely, however, that the Canadiens will win tonight by any such score. At any rate, the Hawks are worrying less about tonight's encounter than they are about the one they have slated for Thursday night, when they must meet the rampant New York Rangers in Madison Square Garden.

Now Bruins Are on Double Header Time

The Chicago Bruins of the National Basketball league are the latest converts to the double-header craze. Instead of continuing the practice of booking independent teams for the preliminary tilt, regular college games henceforth will be paired with the Bruin games, it was announced last night by George Halas, president of the club.

Armour Tech and Elmhurst college will introduce the double bill scheme tomorrow night when they meet in the opener, preceding the battle of the Bruins and the Indianapolis Kautzkys.

Thru operating on a small-scale athletic program, Armour has competed with the top teams in basketball for years. Elmhurst is a member of the Illinois Intercollegiate conference and in Capt. Herman Choettle had one of the league's leading scorers last season.

The Bruins lost their first home game Sunday to Sheboygan, 20 to 19. Two of the Big Ten's greatest sharpshooters of recent years, Jewell Young of Purdue and Ernie Andres of Indiana, will be their main problems tomorrow night. Young set an all-time Big Ten season scoring record in 1938 when he made 184 points in a dozen conference games. Andres, who captained Indiana last season, proved last week that he has lost none of his keenness by establishing a new high game mark for this season with 25 points against Oshkosh.

BOWES SIGNS MAYS TO DRIVE AT INDIANAPOLIS

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 8 (AP).—Robert M. Bowes, Indianapolis manufacturer and sportsman who has entered cars in the 500 mile race for several years, today nominated Rex Mays of Glendale, Cal., as the driver of his 1940 entry.

Bowes said Mays would drive a car which was the second fastest qualifier for the race last year. It was driven by the veteran Lou Meyer of Huntington Park, Cal. It is an eight cylinder, supercharged car, and was designed and built by Meyer who led in it until within a few miles of the finish of the 1939 race before it crashed into a guard rail.

court to come within two points with 45 seconds to play. Another long shot missed and three Kansans swept down to send John Kline under the board uncovered for the last field goal.

Three successive long shots, two of them by Possner and the other by Szukala, started De Paul off with a 6 to 0 lead against Kansas State, an advantage never relinquished in the half. After Kansas State and tallied two field goals, the Demons spurted to lead 14 to 4. This was the widest margin of the period.

After ten minutes of the game Jack Horacek replaced Dan Howe at forward and his three field goals with a side shot by Holstrom were factors in Kansas State's brief rally. Irv Reid cut De Paul's advantage to three points at 19 to 16 but Ted Skrodzki, replacing Ed Sachs, pointed the De Paul drive that finished the half with De Paul leading, 25 to 17.

Kansas State could not even keep this pace in the second half. A deluge of field goals gave the Demons a 39 to 21 lead and despite numerous substitutions De Paul kept on piling up points. Lineups:

TWO WOULD-BE CUBS AND COACH CORRIDEN SIGN

Pitchers Mooty, Bonetti Mail In Contracts.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs' package of signed contracts was slightly enlarged by yesterday's mail but the expressions of satisfaction didn't come from any of the boys suspected of developing peeves over the value the club has placed on their services.

The signed papers came from Jake Mooty, pitcher drafted from the Syracuse International league club; Julio Bonetti, who pitched at Los Angeles last season, and Johnny [Red] Corriden, who for years has been directing Cub traffic from the third base coaching box.

It's Old Stuff to Mooty.

The above happenings, according to revised estimates, leave 11 among the absentees and most of these are workmen who are expected to do one thing or another of consequence on the ball field this season. None of the 11 has even taken the trouble to complain directly to headquarters.

Mooty will be up for his third ride on the major league merry-go-round. In his two previous attempts, both with the Cincinnati Reds, he fell off, the second unseating landing him in Syracuse under option, but when recall time arrived the Reds neglected to invite him for another spin. He started his career at Texas A. and M. college. Bonetti is a former Brown and was taken off the hands of the Cubs' cousins at Los Angeles because of the excellent record compiled last season. He won 20 and lost 5.

Sox Sign Collegian.

Other Cubs who to date have remained silent are Augie Galan, Hank Leiber, Stan Hack, Clay Bryant, Glen Russell, Al Todd, Ken Raffensberger, Bob Sturgeon, Bill Rogell, and Julian Tubb.

Paul Harrell, Indiana university coach, announced yesterday that Hal Cromer, co-captain of the 1940 Hoosier nine, had signed a White Sox contract, receiving a $1,000 bonus and $300 a month salary. Cromer has played both the outfield and infield.

Chicago Baseball Writers Go to Plate(s) Tonight

The Chicago chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America tonight will stage its second annual diamond dinner and fun carnival in the Terrace Casino of the Morrison hotel.

The frolic will begin with spirits and dinner, available at 6:30 o'clock and will dash along far into the night. The entertainment will start, like all variety shows, with an animal act, which promises to be one of the headliners, even tho it is the opener. In this feature Capt. Warren Brown will present his Amazing Troupe of Human Seals in a hilarious radio fanfare entitled "Consternation, Please." Val Sherman of WBBM, James Gallagher of the Herald-American, Howie Roberts of the Daily News, John Hoffman of the Daily Times, and Ed Burns of THE TRIBUNE, will assist Capt. Brown in his laugh extravaganza.

Capt. Brown's number is only the beginning, it is said. Charley Grimm, for one, has made special preparation for one of his wows, the theme of which is a secret. Other laugh specialists in abundance are gnashing at the bit with surprise gems.

Among the guests will be Commissioner K. M. Landis, President Will Harridge of the American league, President Ford Frick of the National league, Manager Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs, and Manager Jimmy Dykes of the White Sox.

FREISINGER AND RONCHETTI RACE AGAIN TOMORROW

They live together, eat together, attend social gatherings together, they are close friends, but once they slip on a pair of ice skates and start to glide over the ice they are bitter rivals.

The subjects are Leo Freisinger and Vic Ronchetti, members of the C. Y. O. Ice Skating club, two of the speediest ice skaters in the world. They are among the contenders who will compete in the fifth annual C. Y. O. speed skating meet, sponsored by the Garfield Park Business Men's association, at Garfield park lagoon, tomorrow night.

Between them in recent years they have won the majority of the major speed skating titles in the country. One of the rooms in their home is packed with trophies and medals they have won.

Ronchetti and Freisinger already have skated off with two of the most important 1940 titles in this section, the city and state. Leo captured the city championship in the Northwest Skating club's annual ice derby at Humboldt park on New Year's day, and Vic won the state crown in Glen Ellyn, Ill., last Sunday.

Freisinger won two events, the 220 yard dash and one-half mile to become the city king, while Ronchetti crossed the finish line first in three events, 440 yards, one mile, and five miles, to be crowned state champion in the men's division.

KERN RESIGNS AS CARNEGIE TECH FOOTBALL COACH

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 8 (AP).—Bill Kern, for two years head coach of the Carnegie Tech football team, resigned tonight.

Both Kern and Clarence [Buddy] Overend, manager of athletics at Carnegie Tech, confirmed the resignation but neither would say what prompted Kern to leave.

However, the resignation was no surprise. It had been rumored here and in Morgantown, W. Va., for weeks that Kern would be named head coach of West Virginia university, succeeding Marshall [Sleepy] Glenn, resigned.

While only 13 states are represented in this list, with Indiana and Illinois leading in the number of newspapers, more than a score will contribute to the tournaments held in these out of Chicago centers. The exact number depends on the lineup of subsidiary tournaments sending teams to these cities. As usual, Kansas City will have teams in its tournament from Colorado, Kansas, and other adjacent states. Sioux City, Ia., which named its champions in December, had teams entered from South Dakota. Minnesota, as well as from Iowa. The state of Texas centers its qualifying teams in the matches in Fort Worth and the champions then come to Chicago.

Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, Louisiana, are among the other states that will be represented in tournaments contributing to the Chicago Tournament of Champions.

The finals of the Tournament of Champions will be held March 6 in the Stadium. Chicago's intercity Golden Gloves team will fight in New York's Madison Square Garden March 18 in the 13th match between the cities.

Hostak Opens Drill for Zale Bout Jan. 19

Al Hostak, middleweight champion, opened training yesterday in Trafton's gymnasium for a 10 round nontitle bout with Tony Zale of Gary in Chicago Stadium Jan. 19. He did only loosening up exercises, but after the workout was down to 163 pounds. The agreed weight is 161, one more than the divisior. limit.

Hostak will work out again this afternoon, but he will not start boxing sessions until tomorrow.

Following yesterday's drill Hostak went to a radio station to participate in a sports program. He was accompanied by Manager Eddie Marino, Nate Druxman, Seattle, Wash., promoter, who has an option on the champion's services, and Hank Hostak, the fighter's brother.

An Old Superstition.

Other participants included Zale, Sam Pian, and Art Winch, the challenger's managers; Promoter Bill Rand, and Chairman Joe Triner and Secretary John Owen of the Illinois boxing commission.

The champion refused to speak before the microphone. Al has a superstition that it is bad luck to speak over the radio before a contest.

After the radio ceremonies Zale returned to the gymnasium where he sparred four rounds, two each with Booker Beckwith and Sherman Edwards. He will follow the same routine today.

Manager Marino said he has several offers for Hostak's services in this section, but will not sign for additional matches until after Al disposes of Zale.

Zale Calm; Champ Nervous.

The manner in which Zale conducted himself in Hostak's presence in the radio studio was an interesting incident. Altho he will be facing a champion for the first time, Tony failed to display nervousness. In fact, he appeared to be calmer than the champ.

The reason may be found in the fact that he has a string of seven consecutive victories, the last five by knockouts.

Promoter Rand refused to reveal what the fighters will be paid for the impending contest.

DRINK BEER at 55 degrees to enjoy it to the full

. . . then see if you don't agree with the thousands who prefer Meister Bräu

Richard Seibold
Meister Bräu Brewmaster

Thousands have switched to MEISTER BRÄU after making this "55-Degrees" Test

Take a bottle of Meister Bräu and one of any other beer at average refrigerator temperature. Let stand until it's the proper temperature. Then open bottles and compare flavor.

MAYBE I'm too fussy about serving beer at the right temperature. But ice-cold beer is wrong. There's no use putting the finest grains in a brew just to have the flavor over-chilled so you can't recognize it. We might as well add sugars or syrups and save time and money. We might as well add artificial gas when we bottle instead of using only natural draft beer carbonation created in the beer itself.

Beer flavor, good or bad, shows up at about 55 degrees. If you want to know what kind of beer you're drinking, drink it at 55 degrees. That means, take an ice-cold bottle out of the refrigerator and let it stand until it's the proper temperature.

Do that and you'll never again say, "Give me a bottle of Beer." You'll know it pays to ask for the brand you prefer. For 49 years we've made a beer for the 55-degree drinkers—the beer cranks. Order Meister Bräu today and I'll stake my reputation on your verdict if you make the "55-degrees" test.

GENERAL MOTORS.

[Copyright: 1940: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Has General Motors ever failed to pay a dividend on its common stock in any year? I would like a report on the company.—E. L.

Answer: General Motors corporation has distributed cash dividends to common stock holders each year since its incorporation in 1916. The annual payments have varied widely from $16 a share in 1926 to 50 cents a share in 1922.

General Motors, with its numerous and wide-flung subsidiaries, is the foremost manufacturer of motor cars, trucks and automotive equipment in the world. Its other operations include the production of household appliances, air conditioning apparatus, lighting units, Diesel and Diesel-electric engines and locomotives, airplane engines, and automobile radios.

Automobile and truck sales of the company account for more than 40 per cent of the total new motor vehicles sold in the United States, and about 35 per cent of the world sales of new cars. About one-fifth of General Motors cars is sold to foreign countries.

Besides the export of American made automobiles, the company's foreign business includes the sale of the Vauxhall car, manufactured by an English subsidiary, and the Opel car made in Germany. Trucks are also manufactured by English and German subsidiaries.

General Motors has total assets of more than 1¾ billion dollars, making it one of the largest industrial companies in this country. It has no funded debt. Capitalization consists of 1,875,366 shares of $5 cumulative preferred stock of no par value, and 43,500,000 shares of $10 par common stock. E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., Inc., owns 10 million common shares, or about one-fourth, of the total common stock outstanding.

Consolidated net income in the first 9 months of 1939 soared to $109,706,000, equal to $2.39 a common share, from $38,479,000, or 73 cents a share, in the first 9 months of 1938.

Net income, earnings per common share, and dividends per share in recent years follow:

	Net income.	Earned per share.	Dividends per share.
1934	$ 94,941,000	$1.99	$1.50
1935	167,431,000	3.69	2.25
1936	238,705,000	5.35	4.50
1937	196,702,000	4.38	3.75
1938	102,310,000	2.17	1.50

[Note: Above figures do not include portion of earnings of foreign subsidiaries which could not be remitted because of exchange restrictions.]

Dividends on the common stock in 1939 totaled $3.50 a share. Regular dividends are being paid on the preferred stock.

The Sept. 30, 1939, balance sheet indicated current assets were $541,139,280, against current liabilities of $137,987,153.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

The broadest demand in two years carried hog prices higher at the Chicago stock yards yesterday despite heavy receipts. The supply was estimated at 35,000 head, including direct shipments to packers. This equaled the largest Monday receipts since January, 1938. Prices averaged $5.50, or 10 cents above last week's close.

Most steers brought strong to 25 cent higher prices, although medium to good kinds over 1,100 pounds were rather slow. Lambs advanced mostly 15 to 25 cents.

OFFER IS MADE FOR STOCK OF BUILDERS BANK

Would Be Removed to Field Building.

An offer to buy 60 per cent of the stock of National Builders Bank of Chicago has been made by a group represented by John R. Nicholson, an attorney, and John Nuveen Jr., a bond dealer. If it is accepted the bank will be moved to the Field building, Nicholson announced yesterday. The group has offered $75 a share for the bank's stock.

Marshall Field III. is a member of the group which proposes to buy into the bank, according to the announcement.

National Builders bank has 8,000 shares of $50 par value common stock. The offer to buy 60 per cent of these shares at $75 a share would involve $360,000 if fully accepted. The bank has $100,000 of preferred stock, which is held by the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Handled Previous Negotiations.

Nicholson and Nuveen represented a group in previous efforts to organize a bank in the Field building. Nicholson said that if the National Builders proposal is not carried out others will be considered or a new bank formed.

W. G. McLaury, president of National Builders and a large stockholder, died several months ago. Since then William Schlake has been president.

George W. Griffiths, a director, said in a statement on behalf of the bank's board:

"Directors of the National Builders Bank of Chicago are taking action looking toward the removal of the bank to the Field building and the association with the bank of an influential group of tenants of the building.

"The action consists of a recommendation by the directors of the bank, which will be made tomorrow to its stockholders at the annual meeting, that they give an option to a group represented by Nicholson and Nuveen, for a limited period, to acquire from the stockholders 60 per cent of their stock at $75 a share.

Expects Early Consummation.

"If the stockholders approve the recommendation by depositing the requisite 60 per cent of their stock, it is expected that the deal will be consummated at an early date. In the judgment of the directors, the improved location and the important interests which will become intimately associated with the bank as a result of the move will offer a marked opportunity not only for the bank, but for the present stockholders to benefit thru the increased value which should be given to their retained holdings."

Nicholson's statement said:

"Neither the Field estate nor Marshall Field III. is interested in going into the banking business as such, but they are interested in having a good, well financed bank as a tenant in the Field building. Marshall Field III. individually expects to become a stockholder in that bank which may eventually be selected as the one most suitable for this move.

Ten Year Lease Arranged.

"Tentative arrangements have been made for a 10 year lease covering 22,000 square feet of space in the Field building. This includes the street level corner space at La Salle and Adams streets as well as the new safety deposit vaults on the lower arcade level."

Nicholson said that if National Builders bank is moved it is planned to have a new management, but that the present employé personnel would be taken over. He said that the group, in establishing a bank in the Field building, preferred to start with a going concern, but that a new one would be organized if necessary.

It was learned that Laurance Armour, who has retired as president of the American National Bank and Trust company, may head the new bank in the Field building if the present negotiations are successful.

National Builders' cash resources are listed at $4,537,000, surplus at $135,000, and undivided profits at $92,233. Deposits total about $6,787,422.

New Post for Banker

LAWRENCE F. STERN.

Stern Slated for President of Loop Bank

Lawrence F. Stern is expected to be elected president of the American National Bank and Trust company at a meeting of directors today. He will succeed Laurance Armour, who is relinquishing the position he has held since the formation of the bank in 1934.

Stern, a well known figure in Chicago and New York financial circles, has been the chief executive officer of the American National since December, 1938. At that time he was elected to the board of directors and was made chairman of the executive committee.

Forms Investment Firm.

Prior to joining the American National organization Stern headed his own investment banking firm of Lawrence Stern & Co., which has since become Stern, Wampler & Co. He was an officer of S. W. Straus & Co. from 1908 to 1925. He left the Straus organization to organize his own company in the latter year. Stern was born in Chicago in 1888 and is a graduate of Dartmouth college.

It was learned that the shift in executive personnel has been under consideration for some months. Stern will continue as the chief executive officer and will retain his position as head of the executive committee as well as the presidency. Other members of the executive committee are Weymouth Kirkland and L. L. Cohn.

Armour May Join Another Bank.

Mr. Armour did not make public his future plans. It was indicated, however, that he might become associated with another Chicago bank.

PRESS UNITED AIR ACQUISITION PLAN AT CAA HEARING

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8 (AP).—United Air Lines today pressed its application for permission to acquire control of Western Air Express at a hearing before Roscoe S. Pound, former dean of Harvard law school, sitting as a special examiner for the Civil Areonautics authority.

Philip Wilcox, assistant to the president and secretary of United, declared acquisition of Western's route from San Diego, Cal., to Great Falls, Mont., would result in economies to both companies and establish a unified system.

The lines now have a connection at Salt Lake City, Utah, and a merger would give United a more direct route to southern California, preventing the necessity of transfers. The merger is being opposed by a group of Western's minority stockholders.

THREE AIR LINES FIGHT FOR NEW SOUTHERN ROUTE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8 (AP).—Counsel for Eastern Air Lines, Inc., Braniff Airways, Inc., and Chicago and Southern Air Lines, Inc., opened another three cornered battle today for authority to operate an air line from Kansas City to Memphis.

The same companies are rival applicants for another line from Houston, Tex., to Memphis and Louisville on which hearings were held last fall and on which they are awaiting a decision.

Today's witnesses did not favor one line over the others, but asserted there was need for the establishment of the new route because of the exchange of business between the two cities. The hearing was recessed until Thursday.

FEDERAL CO-OP SELLS 250,000 POUNDS BUTTER

Holding Is Acquired by Private Firms.

The Dairy Products Marketing association yesterday sold a quarter of a million pounds of butter to private interests, brokers on the Chicago Mercantile exchange reported. This was the federally financed association's first sale to commercial interests in more than a year. Eleven carlots were sold in Chicago, and one in New York.

The immediate effect of the sale was to slow up cash market business, brokers said. The DPMA holds about 20 per cent of the nation's supply of storage butter, and traders feared that its 10,155,000 pounds of warehouse butter might prove a drag on prices, which have shown consistent strength since the turn of the year.

Total Supply 52 Millions.

Total warehouse supplies, both commercial and those controled by the federal government, were privately estimated at 52,902,000 pounds as of Jan. 1.

The butter sold graded 90 score, and was believed to have brought 29 to 29¼ cents a pound in Chicago, and 29¾ cents in New York. The DPMA offered to sell at these prices last November, but at that time they were too high to atract buyers.

The butter involved in the sale was all purchased between July 26 and Sept. 7, 1938, when the coöperative acquired an estimated 12,000,000 pounds. Since that time it has disposed of about 2,000,000 pounds to the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation, which distributes it to relief clients. Current holdings of the FSCC are estimated at 3,800,000 pounds.

Drouth Helps in Disposal.

Traders said the drouth, the war in Europe, and higher incomes in the United States aided the DPMA in disposing of part of its surplus butter. Consumption of butter last year is believed to have established a new record. For the last several weeks, 90 score, which is medium grade butter, has been somewhat scarce both in Chicago and New York. Current cash prices generally are the highest in almost two years.

Futures traders on the Chicago market heard early in the day that DPMA butter was "out for inspection"—a prelude to selling—and they limited their market activity.

News of the coöperative's sales was not known when the market closed, however, and final prices were unchanged. January contracts closed at 29 cents a pound.

January refrigerator egg futures, the only active egg contract, advanced 0.30 cent a dozen on reports of adverse marketing weather and the firm tone of cash markets. The FSCC took some eggs off the New York market, but found no sellers in Chicago.

ARGENTINE TRADE DEAL IS BROKEN OFF COMPLETELY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8 (AP).—The United States and Argentina have agreed to terminate their negotiations for a trade agreement, the state department announced today.

The announcement means that negotiations have not merely broken down as the department said Friday, or been temporarily suspended, as Buenos Aires said, but have been completely abandoned.

The official statement ascribed the failure of the negotiations to the impossibility of agreeing on customs quotas for typical Argentine exports such as linseed and canned beef.

"Because of the similarity in important respects of the export trade of Urugay and Argentina with the United States," the state department said, "it has been found necessary to terminate also the negotiations with Uruguay."

In response o an inquiry from Secretary Hull, President William Green of the American Federation of Labor today said that the A. F. of L. never had expressed opposition to continuance of the entire reciprocal trade agreement program.

Steel Output Scheduled at 86.1 Per Cent of Capacity

Steel operations thruout the nation are scheduled at 86.1 per cent of theoretical ingot capacity this week, against 85.7 per cent last week, the American Iron and Steel institute reported yesterday. This represents a gain of 0.4 of a point, or 0.5 per cent.

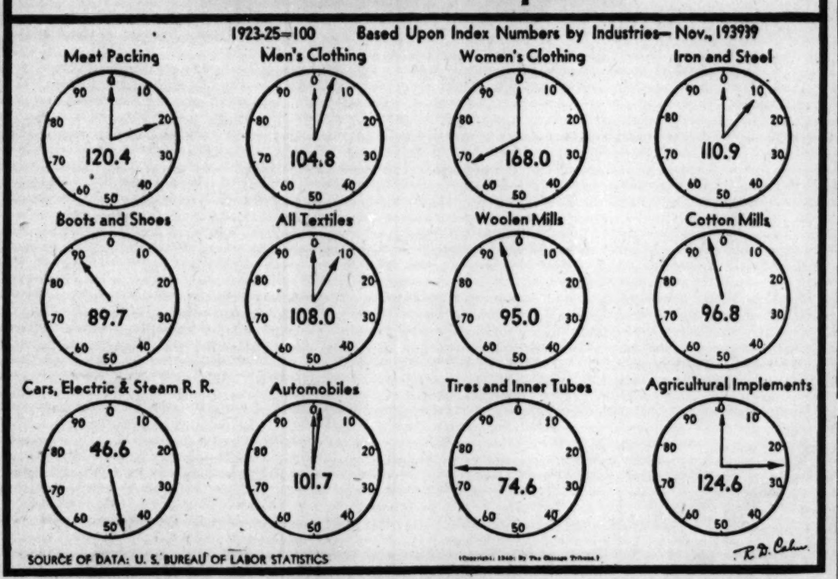
The Employment Status of Leading Industries as Revealed by Government Reports



Warns Rails Face Increase in Competition

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8 (AP).—The Interstate Commerce commission told the nation's railroads today that they faced steadily increasing competition from other types of carriers.

In its annual report to congress, the I. C. C. said that "remedial legislation such as it is possible" to evolve from the pending omnibus transportation bill "is desirable and should produce good results." It added:

"Too much should not, however, be expected from it. The most important things it would do are these: [1] it would bring water carriers engaged in domestic trades within the commission's jurisdiction and subject them to much the same sort of regulation as is now provided for the railroads and motor carriers;

Would Promote Coördination.

"[2] It would create a new and temporary agency to study and report upon the relative economy and fitness of rail, water and motor carriers for transportation service with a view to promoting their coördinated use and avoiding wasteful and destructive competition, and upon the extent to which each of the three types of carriers are in effect subsidized by the government.

"These are steps which we favor. Yet they reflect the dominant idea of the railroad committee that the prime trouble with the railroads, apart from general business conditions, lies in the fact that they are meeting with subsidized and inadequately regulated competition.

Foresees Greater Competition.

"We venture the guess that even if this dominant thought is pursued in legislation and its subsequent administration to the full extent which the facts justify, the railroads will continue to be faced with steadily increasing participation by other types of carriers in the transportation of this country.

"Consolidation, coördination, and the better adjustment of competitive conditions will reduce transportation costs, but they can also open the door to better service and lower prices which will create new business and employment."

CHARGES PROMOTERS CONTROL INVESTMENT FIRMS PUBLICLY OWNED

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8 (AP).—The Securities and Exchange commission charged today that many investment trusts were so organized that the public would contribute nearly all the money and the promoters got nearly all the control of it.

The commission explained in the latest chapter of a report which has been sent piecemeal to congress over the last two years, that generally investment trust promoters sold themselves voting stock and sold the public preferred or other kinds of stock.

Anent the alleged disadvantages of the division between the group which puts up the money in an investment trust and the group which controls the money, the commission said:

"Thru the voting power which it may wield, a management can effect exchange programs, consolidations, and mergers thru which the senior security holder receives a new security which has less asset value or less protective provisions than that which he surrenders."

The SEC also reported other alleged practices that harmed investors.

NEW RECORDS SET BY 'AIR LINES FOR MONTH AND YEAR

Increases in passenger traffic to the highest levels on record for December or for any full year yesterday were announced by two air lines operating out of Chicago—American Airlines, Inc., and Braniff Airways, Inc.

American Airlines reported that it set a world record for passenger volume in 1939, carrying 541,757 persons, or 51.2 per cent more than the 358,295 who used the company's planes in 1938. In December 53,093 passengers were transported, against 28,947 in December, 1938, an increase of 83.4 per cent.

T. E. Braniff, president of the Braniff line, said its gross passenger revenue in December established a record at $99,573, compared with $68,205 in the 1938 month. The number of passengers carried was 6,234, an increase of 56.9 per cent.

The company carried 62,247 passengers last year, compared with 39,023 in 1938. This was an increase of 59.5 per cent.

The Pennsylvania-Central Airlines announced revenue passengers carried in 1939 numbered 122,303, an increase of 43.07 per cent over the 1938 total.

Court Limits Expense Items in Tax Returns

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8 (AP).—The Supreme court ruled today that income taxpayers cannot deduct all "necessary" expenses of their business, but only those which are "ordinary" as well.

It held that Pierre S. du Pont, member of the wealthy Wilmington, Del., family of chemical and munitions makers, was liable to a tax on $647,711 which he sought to deduct in his 1931 return as a necessary business expense. The money was paid to an investment company for stock which du Pont had to borrow for business purposes.

In an opinion by Justice Douglas, the Supreme court cited a lower court finding that the transaction was "so extraordinary as to occur in the lives of ordinary business men not at all," and in du Pont's life "but once."

Deductions Not Authorized.

"Congress has not decreed that all necessary expenses may be deducted," the high tribunal ruled. "Tho plainly necessary, they cannot be allowed unless they also are ordinary."

In another income tax case, a decision by Justice Reed held that sales of stock by individuals to corporations which they owned themselves could not be used to establish losses for tax purposes. Since this case arose, however, congress in 1934 specifically outlawed this practice by legislation.

The court's ruling was in the case of John Thomas Smith of New York, general counsel of the General Motors corporation, who sought in 1932 to deduct a loss on the sale of stock to the Innisfail corporation, which he owned.

The decision said that while title to the securities passed to the corporation, "the taxpayer retained the control" and there was "not enough of substance in such a sale finally to determine a loss."

Real Owner Is Defined.

"It is command of income and its benefits," the court noted, "which marks the real owner of property."

Justice Roberts wrote dissenting opinions in both cases, in which Justice McReynolds joined. Of the du Pont ruling he said that "the circumstance that such a situation had not theretofore arisen, or that the transaction was the first of its kind in the respondent's business experience, does not render it extraordinary in the sense in which the statute uses the term."

"The limitation placed by congress upon the types of expenditures made deductible," he continued, "was intended to prevent evasion of payment of tax on true net income, which confessedly was not a motive in the present instance. I think that under the guise of enforcing the plain mandate of the statute the court is really reading into the law what is not there and what congress did not intend to place there."

FCIC FACES BIG LOSS ON WHEAT CROP INSURANCE

Deficit Is Expected for Second Year.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—The federal government faces another heavy loss in its second year of experimenting with crop insurance, it became apparent today.

Officials admitted the probability that the Federal Crop Insurance corporation will find that premiums may not pay indemnities on the 1940 wheat crop, especially because drouth conditions have cut severely into the prospective winter wheat harvest.

The corporation is still paying claims on the 1939 crop. Latest estimates show that up to Dec. 19 the FCIC had indemnities of about 9½ million bushels of wheat, paid to 52,000 farmers, compared with total premiums of about 7 million bushels from more than 165,000 growers who insured their 1939 crops with the government.

Meet Loss from Capital.

The difference of 2½ million bushels had to be met out of the 20 million dollar capital which the government invested in the enterprise.

This year the participation is heavier and prospective losses appear much larger. The winter wheat crop was estimated at 399 million bushels on Dec. 1, against 563 millions last year, or 55 per cent of normal, against 72 per cent.

Up to Dec. 28 a total of 310,000 wheat farmers had insured their 1940 crop and paid in 11¼ million bushels of wheat in premiums. This insurance covered an estimated 9 million acres, against less than 8 million in both winter and spring wheat last year. The 1940 insurance covers an estimated production of 86½ million bushels. Virtually all of the 1940 insurance to date covers winter wheat, as

New York Stocks.

New York, Jan. 8 (AP).—Specialties took on a rallying tinge in today's stock market, but numerous issues were unable to work up steam.

The list edged forward at the start and leaders were up fractions to a point or so around midday. Dealings were sluggish thereafter, however, and at the close extreme advances were cut or transformed into minus signs.

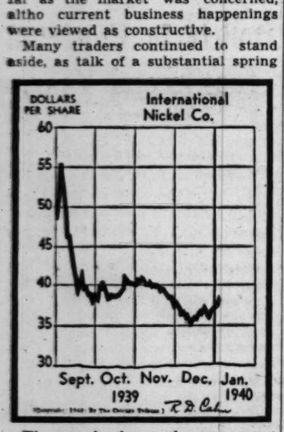
Despite indefinite trends generally a number of issues posted new 1939-40 highs.

The day's news was colorless, so far as the market was concerned, altho current business happenings were viewed as constructive.

Many traders continued to stand aside, as talk of a substantial spring recession was still heard in the financial sector. The disposition to conserve buying power also was attributed partly to a wait-and-see attitude toward congress, the budget, possible new taxes, and politics.

United States Steel was unchanged and Bethlehem was off ⅝. General Motors was up ¼. Chrysler was unchanged.

Improved were American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, Santa Fe, Texas corporation, Kennecott, American Can, Westinghouse, Johns-Manville, J. C. Penny, United Aircraft, Woolworth, and United States Rubber.



The graph shows the movement of International Nickel stock since the start of the war.

New York Bonds.

New York, Jan. 8 (AP).—Scandinavian governments' dollar loans surged forward today in a bond market which was otherwise marked only by improved rail and utilities liens. Improved in the foreign list besides the Scandinavians were Belgium 6s and Canada 4s.

Traders regarded the Finnish army's operations in its defensive campaign against the soviet as a factor in advances which ranged from major fractions to more than a point for Danish and Norwegian issues.

Among rails was a gain of more than a point at one time by New York, Westchester and Boston 4½s on the news that New York City officials would confer with company receivers on the purchase of the line's properties within the city limits.

United States governments were fairly steady under light trading.

Chicago Stocks.

Prices of three issues traded on the Chicago Stock exchange climbed to new 1939-'40 high levels yesterday. The issues were Allied Laboratories, which closed at 20 with a ½ point gain; Hall Printing, which finished a point higher at 20, and Rath Packing, up 3 points to 51.

Bank Stocks.

City National shares declined 1 point in bank stock trading yesterday, closing at a bid of 114. Other issues were steady.

Scheme Expected to Show Second Year Deficit.

The winter wheat belt covers Missouri, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Colorado, New Mexico, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, and other midwestern states.

FCIC officials are still uncertain where they stand on the winter wheat crop and are now surveying the winter wheat belt for latest figures on actual seedings, on which the insurance is based. Insurance must be taken out on estimated plantings and the premiums paid at that time. A decrease in actual plantings allows the farmer a refund on his premium, which is determined with each individual, according to local conditions.

In this premium phase the corporation has run into another complicated problem. Dust bowl farmers, who need the insurance most, are unable to pay the high premiums asked by the government for crop insurance in that area.

Admits Vexing Situation.

Leroy K. Smith, manager of the FCIC, admitted this vexing situation in his first annual report, for the fiscal year 1939, issued today. Of this, he said:

"Yields were so low and premium rates so high on farms in the western part of the great plains that many producers did not feel it practical to buy insurance. Thousands of farms in that area have a history of production that does not permit coverage greater than 5 or 6 bushels an acre, and they have a loss experience of more than 2 bushels an acre.

"The development of the special yield and rate procedure for 1940, which recognizes the influence of certain improved practices on yields, has been designed to meet to some extent these changing conditions. Consequently, where such practices and methods can be evaluated and reflected in yields and premium rates, increased participation can be expected. The problem is one requiring continued research and the accumulation of much information."

Wide Variations Shown.

As an illustration of the widely varying yields and premium rates, Smith furnished the following table:

County and state—	10 year average yield. [bu.]	—Average premium— 75% coverage [bu.]	50% [bu.]
Sandusky, O.	21.7	1.1	0.4
Golden Valley, N. D.	8.9	1.6	.8
Morton, Kas.	7.7	2.3	1.5
Whitman, Wash.	26.4	.5	.2
York, Pa.	20.2	.6	.1

"The inability of many of the farm operators to pay their premium in wheat or cash from their own resources and their inability to secure credit with which to pay premiums seriously interfered with the writing of policies," said Smith. "These financial difficulties were caused largely by extended drouths and low prices."

WHEAT FUTURES DECLINE AS SNOW COVERS BIG AREA

Wheat prices declined more than 1 cent a bushel at one time yesterday as the result of general selling induced by a heavy snowstorm over the week-end which blanketed the entire winter wheat belt east of the Rocky mountains.

Good support developed on the break, due mainly to unexpected strength in the Winnipeg market. Closing trades on the Chicago Board of Trade were at losses of ⅜ to ⅞ cent higher. Part of the strength in the Canadian market was said to have been due to the closing of spreads with the Chicago market.

Purchases of 300,000 barrels of graham flour were made yesterday by the government, equal to 1,000,000 bushels of wheat.

Corn showed stubborn resistance to pressure and closed unchanged to ⅛ cent lower.
